British Banker In Jerusalem Is Chloroformed And Carried Into Catacombs Of Cemetery

Police Say Kidnapers Are Members Of Jewish Underground; Woman Companion Is Not Injured

JERUSALEM, Jan. 26 (AP)—Four men and a woman, described by police as members of the Jewish underground, chloroformed and kidnaped a British businessman tonight and then disappeared with him into an ancient Moslem cemetery containing a maze of catacombs.

The dramatic abduction unloosed rumors that other kidnapings had occurred throughout Palestine, all of which were denied by police. One report, which police said after investigation they were "unable now to confirm," told of the seizing of a British army officer.

The businessman who was abducted was identified as H. I. Collins, 48, a former British army major and now director of the Jewish-owned British Bank in Palestine.

Struck On Right Temple

Police said that a girl present at the abduction told them that Collins "was struck with a long wooden handle on the right temple and then on the right wrist as he raised his arms to protect himself."

A search for him was promptly organized.

Six hundred British troops, carrying machine guns and lighting their way with parachute flares and tracer bullets, swiftly surrounded a half-mile-square area of the cemetery, situated in the very heart of Jerusalem. A British officer said, however, that "about all we can hope to find is a dead body."

British officials attributed the kidnaping to Irgun Zvai Leumi, and said it was in "retaliation" for the sentence pronounced on Dova Bela Groner, alleged Irgum member who is under sentence to die Tuesday for an attack on a Palestine police station.

Police quoted eyewitnesses as saying that the five kidnapers, all carrying guns, seized Collins and a woman companion as the couple was leaving a house near the cemetery.

Woman Not Injured

Collins was chloroformed and a sack tied over his head, the police said, and then carried into the graveyard. The woman was ordered to face the wall, and was not injured.

Troops and police immediately converged on the cemetery, which is within 100 yards of the United States consulate. Government archeologists helped troops explore the labyrinth of catacombs.

Armored cars with searchlights in their turrets drew up along side the graves, many more than 1,000 years old.

Red, white and green parachute flares were sent up over the area. Some red tracer bullets hit in Jerusalem's all-Jewish Rehavia district, but no damage was immediately reported.

MacARTHUR'S POWER TO SET UP TRIBUNAL CHALLENGED BY JAPS

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 27 (AP)—Sir William Webb, Australian president of the International War Crime Court, refused today to hear defense motions challenging Gen. MacArthur's authority to set up the tribunal.

Webb called the motions "political harangues," and undesirable "in this place and under these circumstances."

Sharply, he instructed Defense attorney David F. Smith, who appeared for all 26 Japanese defendants, to proceed with individual motions on behalf of each. Although he allowed the defense to place its challenge of MacArthur's authority in the tribunal record, he flatly refused to hear it read in court.

Vet Plunges 86 Stories To His Death

Woman, Hit By Body, Is Critically Injured

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—A man identified by police as David H. Gordon, Jr., leaped 1,000 feet to his death today from the 86th floor observation tower of the Empire State building, evading efforts by guards and another spectator to prevent him from jumping.

The body crashed onto Mrs. Frances Coover, 51, of Ames, Ia., who was walking along 34th street. Mrs. Coover was taken to St. Vincent's hospital where she was reported to be suffering from multiple fractures.

Navy Man Shouts For Help

The man, who was identified from papers in his pockets, took an elevator to the tower of the building, tallest in the world, at about 10:30 a. m. (EST).

Chief Petty Officer James Lambert, who was looking out over the city, said the man removed his hat, coat and gloves and then put one foot on the parapet.

"What are you going to do?" Lambert asked.

"I'm going to jump," the man replied.

Lambert said he tried to dissuade the man and shouted for help. Two tower guards responded but the man leaped over the parapet.

Officials at a men's residence club where Gordon resided told police he had left word that his mother, Mrs. Rose Gordon, of Miami, Fla., should be notified if anything happened to him.

29 Cents In Pockets

Police found only 29 cents in the man's pockets.

Max Furman, an assistant state attorney general, identified Gordon as his nephew and said the victim was 28 years old.

Police said Gordon had attended Harvard until he entered the Army, and was discharged on a medical release a year ago. Furman said Gordon had been "depressed."

Leaders Of West Virginia Dry Forces Will Meet

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—Leaders of dry forces over the state are expected here for a meeting Tuesday, February 4, under sponsorship of two prominent temperance organizations, it was announced today.

Mrs. F. L. Miller, Parkersburg, state president of the West Virginia Women's Christian Temperance Union, said the meeting would be sponsored jointly by her group and the West Virginia Anti-Saloon League.

Industry Representatives Predict Housing Shortage Will End In 1947

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—Forecasts that the housing shortage will be "substantially" eased or ended altogether in 1947 came today from two industry representatives while a third predicted a buyers' market in real estate.

"If the government lets us build, the housing shortage will be over by the end of 1947 and home prices will soften simultaneously," said Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The "buyers' market" prediction came from W. Wadsworth Wood, president of the Home Builders' Research Institute and publisher of the Small Homes Annual, in another interview.

"The peak in prices of old houses has been reached and passed," Wood said. "The classified columns are twice as long as they were six months ago, and for-rent listings are beginning to appear in most cities."

The National Association of Home Builders, announcing that private builders hope to erect 1,000,000 houses this year, declared that "good news is in store for families seeking homes."

Nelson said he could not forecast any lowering of new-home costs because "the building trades unions are getting ready for a wage drive all over the country, and this will absorb any cost reductions."

In another optimistic forecast, the National Lumber Manufacturers Association declared that "in general, the lumber shortage is now ended. Construction lumber is in ample supply."

Nelson, whose organization favors rent control relaxation, said such action would bring onto the rental market "thousands and thousands" of houses and rooms in private homes.

Chinese Airliner With 17 to 21 Aboard Reported Overdue

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26 (AP) — A Chinese National Aviation Corporation plane with 17 to 21 persons aboard was overdue and believed lost today on a flight from Canton to Chungking.

Reports on the number of passengers ranged from 14 to 16 and the crew from three to five, but all agreed that the pilot was James M. Blackmore, of Los Angeles, nephew of a Los Angeles Times executive.

Blackmore flew the "Hump" run between India and China many times during the war.

New Chapter Is Due In McKellar, Lilienthal Row

Hearings Will Open On Atom Nominations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — (AP) — Those long-time antagonists, Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn) and David E. Lilienthal, face each other across a committee table tomorow, with fireworks due, as Senate hearings begin on President Truman's nominations for the new Atomic Energy Commission.

Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), of the Senate Atomic Committee, said McKellar, who is not a member of the group, will be permitted to question Lilienthal. The latter, former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, has been named to head the Atomic Commission.

This hearing promises to highlight a week of busy committee activity in Congress. The budget, labor measures, portal pay and air safety are other matters slated for further committee consideration.

Luxury Tax Measure

The only actual legislation before Congress this week is the bill to continue indefinitely the wartime "luxury" taxes which otherwise would be cut back July 1. The House acts on this Wednesday with speedy passage virtually certain.

McKellar told a reporter he is primed for an all-out battle against Lilienthal, presaging a crackling session similar to clashes in the past when the Senator fought Lilienthal over TVA policies.

"He is the head Communist in my state and I don't think I'll change my opinion about him," McKellar said.

This was the same general accusation the Senator leveled last week at Gordon Clapp, named to succeed Lilienthal as TVA chairman.

Lilienthal, like Clapp, has sharply denied McKellar's charges.

Nominees To Appear

Hickenlooper told newsmen all five of the prospective commission members and Carroll L. Wilson, nominated for general manager, have been asked to appear personally before the committee.

Hickenlooper said he favors calling Bernard M. Baruch, who resigned recently as American representative on the United Nations Atomic Commission, for testimony about the appointments.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee, near the end of hearings on bills to outlaw portal pay suits, resumes tomorrow with Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), chairman of the full committee, on the stand. Wiley, author of one measure, told an interviewer he will defend the constitutionality of eliminating all pending and future portal suits.

Capone Rites Will Be held In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Funeral service for Scarface Al Capone, former Chicago gangster who died at his home here last night, will be held here but the date and time have not yet been fixed by the family.

This was announced by Dr. Kenneth Phillips, who attended the gambler in his last illness and who was at the bedside when Capone died at 7:25 p. m. Saturday, at the age of 48.

"The family asked me to say that they do not care to discuss funeral arrangements at the present time; that details from now on must come from them," Dr. Phillips said at a conference late today.

Dr. Phillips indicated that private funeral service will be held.

"It was the attending physician's desire that an autopsy be made," Dr. Phillips said, "especially of the brain for the benefit of science and its possible benefit on future medical history. The family, however, objected to this procedure."

He said Mrs. Mae Capone, widow of the pudgy former gang leader, who collapsed when her husband died, was still "in shock" and "is not in good physical condition."

MEET FIERY DEATH— Grace Moore, famous American singer, and Prince Gustaf Adolf, 40, second in line for the Swedish throne, were among the 22 persons killed in the crash of a Dutch KLM airliner near Copenhagen, Denmark, yesterday. The plane burst into flames and exploded after taking off for Stockholm, Sweden.

Georgia State Treasurer May Shut Off Funds

Wants Court Ruling On Governor Issue

ATLANTA, Jan. 26 (AP) — State Treasurer George B. Hamilton informed rival claimants to Georgia's governorship today that he would shut off all money for governmental operations unless disputants agree to a quick court test.

The veteran fiscal official, who was ousted by bayonets of Eugene Talmadge in 1936 and subsequently was reinstated by the courts, met successively with Herman Talmadge and Talmadge's attorney, and with Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson and a representative of Georgia's Attorney General.

Can't Recognize Appointments

He advised each claimant: "My personal attorney and the attorney of my bonding company have advised me that I cannot recognize appointments of either Herman Talmadge or M. E. Thompson, even though they may be confirmed by the State Senate. I shall not do so until I am protected by a Supreme Court decision on the entire question."

Hamilton advised both sides to agree on consent litigation to force his recognition of one or the other set of appointees, and to pay monies for operation of the executive department. The alternative, he said, would be complete cessation of state services within 30 days.

Talmadge Says "No Comment"

Talmadge said "no comment" and declined to speculate whether a consent mandamus would be forthcoming.

Thompson said: "I can under-

Gambling Raid Hard On Customers' Feet, Ears And Pockets

MINEOLA, N. Y., Jan. 26—(AP)—Pockets empty and with ears burning from a stinging judicial rebuke, 99 chagrined patrons of a Long Island dice game house walked out of district court here today—with a 10-mile hike ahead of them to retrieve their cars parked outside the raided gambling spot.

Nassau County District Attorney James N. Gehrig said that the more than $10,000 in cash found in the gaming spot or in the pockets of crap-shooting guests would not be returned.

Two dozen police burst in on the secluded gambling place at Glen Cove early today and after wielding axes on the interior of the building, packed the patrons and 11 other persons charged with operating the games into police wagons and brought them to Mineola.

NLRB Contends Wagner Act Has Curbed Strikes

Congress Considers Changes In Statute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—In the face of proposals to change the Wagner Act, the National Labor Relations Board told Congress today the present law has had great success in preventing strikes.

The NLRB noted in its annual report to Congress that the act's main purpose is to provide peaceful settlement of disputes over the organization and recognition of unions, and added:

"The statute has served the public by decreasing such strife. The fundamental rights which Congress aid should be the subject of federal protection are no longer being bought at the price of economic struggle."

NLRB Administers Act

The NLRB, charged with administering the Wagner Act, declared that "adjustment of accumulated grievances, real and fancied" after the war by both labor and management "was to be expected." But it said most of the postwar strikes were about wages, over which it had no control.

"The fact is that the only kind of strikes which the board was created to discourage, those involving (union) recognition and the commission of unfair labor practices, have declined sharply," the report added.

The report said union organizational strikes caused 76 per cent of all strike idleness in 1937 but the figure had dropped to 29 per cent in 1945.

Smith Says Act Favors Labor

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va) has introduced a bill which he says will equalize conditions in collective bargaining between labor and industry. He contends the act's basic premise now, of protecting workers' right to organize and bargain collectively, makes it "one-sided" in labor's favor.

There are a number of other proposals to change the act, including those to require unions to register and make financial report and to open the way for breach of labor contract suits. The Senate Labor Committee resumes hearings on them Tuesday.

Engineer Dies In PRR Wreck Near Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 26 (AP) — An eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train plunged into a derailed freight car at nearby Spring Hill early today, fatally injuring the engineer.

Two passengers on the train, the "Pennsylvanian" en route from Chicago, were slightly injured but continued the journey to New York.

A railroad spokesman identified the victim as J. W. Allison, Altoona, Pa. He died at Columbia Hospital of shock and a possible fractured skull.

The railroad said the freight derailment occurred at a switch only a short time before the passenger train reached Spring Hill. The impact shattered windows and scraped the paint on the "Pennsylvanian."

German Control Treaty May Be Pressed At Big 4 Conference By Marshall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — (AP) — Diplomatic authorities predicted today that Secretary of State Marshall will press for acceptance of a 40-year Big Four German control treaty at the Moscow Foreign Ministers' conference.

Talk of such an alliance against any revival of German military power has been renewed here in the last few days as a result of the Stalin-Bevin exchange over the alliance between Britian and Russia.

American informants say that if Soviet Prime Minister Stalin is seriously interested in gaining maximum guarantees against the chance of a new German aggression, the 40-year treaty proposal looks like his best deal.

The idea was first put forward by former Secretary of State Byrnes more than a year ago. Stalin himself is understood to have approved it at one point, but Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov found objection to it and never allowed it serious consideration in any of the Big Four meetings.

As a result of arrangements finally made in the Foreign Ministers' conference at New York in December, however, the treaty proposal was listed as item No. 4 on the program for the Moscow conference in March. It thus ranks almost equally in importance with projects for German and Austrian peace settlements and may, in fact, be considered as a part of the total German peace settlement.

While Marshall has not yet gone into the treaty plan, his experts and advisers feel certain he will press it as enthusiastically as Brynes did.

It offers the Rusians and French a virtual alliance with the United States against Germany. Russia now has such alliances, with Britin and France; the British and French are committed to seek an alliance between themselves.

Diplomats here are by no means sure that this latter move pleases the Kremlin. They speculate that recent developments between London and Moscow may have been partly designed to offset it.

Sweden's Prince Gustaf Adolf Also Victim As Plane Smashes Back Onto Copenhagen Airport

Disaster Strikes On Take off; All Aboard Killed Instantly; Flames Sweep Wreckage

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 26 (AP)—The American soprano, Grace Moore, met a fiery death, along with Sweden's Prince Gustaf Adolf and 20 more persons today in the crash of a Royal Dutch Airlines DC-3.

The 16 passengers and six crewmen died within minutes after taking off for Stockholm. The plane, barely aloft, smashed back onto the airport and went up in flames. There was no chance for anyone to escape.

Miss Moore, the Tennessee choir girl who soared to stardom in musical comedy, the opera and the movies, was enroute to Sweden for concerts after receiving an ovation from a crowd of 4,000 Copenhagen concertgoers. She was 45. She had left her husband, Valentin Parera, at Mougins, France, where he has been ill.

The Swedish Prince, 40, the son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, was killed while going home from a hunting trip in Holland with Prince Bernhard, the husband of Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlnads. Nine-month-old Karl Gustaf, only boy among the dead Prince's five children, becomes second in line for the throne of King Gustaf Adolf, 88.

Lines Oldest Pilot Killed

The Royal Dutch Airline KLM announced the plane's chief pilot was 54-years-old G. J. Geysendorffer, its oldest pilot.

The airliner was on an Amsterdam-Copenhagen-Stockholm run. It arrived at 2:50 p. m. (8:50 a. m., Eastern Standard Time), picked up passengers and took off 41 minutes later for the Swedish capital. Immediately after the takeoff and when the plane was only 150 feet aloft it banked and crashed, bursting into flames.

The 22 persons aboard were killed immediately. Their bodies were so charred and mutilated that they were virtually indistinguishable, airport officials said.

KLM issued a communique at the Hague which indicated that mechanical faliure might have caused the crash.

The plane, the communique said in part, "took off normally under good weather conditions with 16 passengers. Immediately after the takeoff, the plane rose steeply upward in a very unusal way, becoming unnavigable. It crashed and was completely destroyed. This course of events might indicate that the plane was in an abnormal condition."

It added, however, that "although the disaster happened under the eyes of the personnel of the Kastrup airfield, it will be difficult to trace the cause of the trouble."

"An investigation will be made by Danish aviation authorities with the assistance of Dutch experts, of the government aviation service. Tomorrow, Monday, an extra plane of KLM, with officials of the company, will leave for Copenhagen."

12 Killed In London Crash

The crash came a day after another DC-3 smashed up at Croydon Airport, London, killing 12 persons.

Miss Moore's last song, sung at her final concert Saturday night in Copenhagen's largest concert hall, was "Chiri Biri Bin," a composition she she helped make famous.

She had left the United States last July for a concert tour in Europe and appearances before American soldiers on occupation duty.

She had been due back in the United States in February to appear at New York's Metropolitan opera house, but cancelled her engagement because of her husband's illness. She made her opera debut at the Metroplitan in 1928 in "La Boheme," and starred in many movies, including "One Night of Love," whose theme song she popularized.

Miss Moore was the only American on the plane, according to a passenger list issued at Copenhagen by KLM. The other dead included four Swedes, seven Danes, the six Dutch crew members and a Dutch colonial passenger, one Spaniard and two Frenchmen.

Grace Moore Was Opera's Glamor Girl

News Of Her Death Shocks Admirers

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—An inconspicuous spot in a small-town church choir was the springboard from which Grace Moore rose to fame as the "glamor girl" of the international concert and opera stage and the singing idol of millions of movie fans.

Only a few days ago the blonde beauty told an interviewer of a Copenhagen newspaper:

"It is wonderful to live and sing. It is a great thing to feel that one is able to help other people with one's voice. I want to play in a new opera where the heroine does not die in the last scene or go mad. That is why I love Charpentier's Louise. The girl is alive when the curtain falls—and it is wonderful to be alive, isn't it?"

News of her death today in a Copenhagen plane crash brought expressions of regret from her admirers.

Planned To Become Catholic

To Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen who said he had completed religious instruction of the diva some time ago and was to have inducted her into the Catholic church upon her return to this countdy Miss Moore's death was "a matter of deep regret."

"This is shocking news," said Lawrence Tibbett Metropolitan Opera baritone, "she was one of America's truly brilliant singers."

News of her death brought tears to the eyes of many of her neighbors in Newton, Conn., where she made her home. As the news spread

Planes Are Poised For Antarctic Hop

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 26 (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd and his six big Navy transport planes were poised for a takeoff from the small flight deck of the carrier Philippine Sea today—while the ship wallowed through the only bad weather in the South Polar area the far-spread expedition is exploring.

The weather is good everywhere except at the carrier, Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, commander of the expedition task force, reported. He said he hoped it would improve soon, because he hated to see "all this good flight weather at Little America (the expedition's Antarctic base) wasted."

Byrd reported by message he planned to fly in the lead plane, when the stripped-down transports made their jet-assisted takeoffs for their 600-mile hop to Little America.

There will be five men aboard each of the six planes with two coming in first followed by the other four flying a path 300 miles farther east.

39 Cars Of B. And O. Freight Are Derailed Near West Union, W. Va.

WEST UNION, W. Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—Thirty-nine cars of the Baltimore and Ohio's westbound No. 97 freight train were derailed at Toll Gate west of here today and were tossed, crumpled and piled up as though they had been toys.

No one was injured in the crash, but damage was estimated at about $500,000 by a railroad official who said it was the "worst wreck in the history of the Monongah division."

A broken wheel tread on a car well up toward the front of the train was said to have caused the derailment.

The engine and the first car stayed on the tracks as did the last eight cars, a helper engine and a caboose.

The cars and their contents were strewn along the tracks for a quarter of a mile, and children searched happily through the debris for the contents of two cars which were loaded with a well-known (Hershey) candy bar.

The side was torn from a car loaded with canned spaghetti and meatballs and the contents scattered. Adding to the general mess was 10,000 gallons of sweet syrup which ran out from another.

Other materials included in the wreckage were bronze and copper castings for the manufacture of automobiles, auto batteries, a carload of jeeps, another of auto tires which rolled 600 feet, and other valuable merchandise.

The accident occurred at 5:25 a. m. under a highway bridge on United States Route 50, almost at the place where an oil train wrecked in 1942 with damage estimated at $250,000 resulting.

Officials indicated that the track would not be cleared until Tuesday, and meanwhile trains were being re-routed via New Martinsville.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — (AP) — Those long-time antagonists, Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn) and David E. Lilienthal, face each other across a committee table tomorow, with fireworks due, as Senate hearings begin on President Truman's nominations for the new Atomic Energy Commission.

Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), of the Senate Atomic Committee, said McKellar, who is not a member of the group, will be permitted to question Lilienthal. The latter, former chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, has been named to head the Atomic Commission.

This hearing promises to highlight a week of busy committee activity in Congress. The budget, labor measures, portal pay and air safety are other matters slated for further committee consideration.

Luxury Tax Measure

The only actual legislation before Congress this week is the bill to continue indefinitely the wartime "luxury" taxes which otherwise would be cut back July 1. The House acts on this Wednesday with speedy passage virtually certain.

McKellar told a reporter he is primed for an all-out battle against Lilienthal, presaging a crackling session similar to clashes in the past when the Senator fought Lilienthal over TVA policies.

"He is the head Communist in my state and I don't think I'll change my opinion about him," McKellar said.

This was the same general accusation the Senator leveled last week at Gordon Clapp, named to succeed Lilienthal as TVA chairman.

Lilienthal, like Clapp, has sharply denied McKellar's charges.

Nominees To Appear

Hickenlooper told newsmen all five of the prospective commission members and Carroll L. Wilson, nominated for general manager, have been asked to appear personally before the committee.

Hickenlooper said he favors calling Bernard M. Baruch, who resigned recently as American representative on the United Nations Atomic Commission, for testimony about the appointments.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee, near the end of hearings on bills to outlaw portal pay suits, resumes tomorrow with Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), chairman of the full committee, on the stand. Wiley, author of one measure, told an interviewer he will defend the constitutionality of eliminating all pending and future portal suits.

Capone Rites Will Be held In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Funeral service for Scarface Al Capone, former Chicago gangster who died at his home here last night, will be held here but the date and time have not yet been fixed by the family.

This was announced by Dr. Kenneth Phillips, who attended the gambler in his last illness and who was at the bedside when Capone died at 7:25 p. m. Saturday, at the age of 48.

"The family asked me to say that they do not care to discuss funeral arrangements at the present time; that details from now on must come from them," Dr. Phillips said at a conference late today.

Dr. Phillips indicated that private funeral service will be held.

"It was the attending physician's desire that an autopsy be made," Dr. Phillips said, "especially of the brain for the benefit of science and its possible benefit on future medical history. The family, however, objected to this procedure."

He said Mrs. Mae Capone, widow of the pudgy former gang leader, who collapsed when her husband died, was still "in shock" and "is not in good physical condition."

MEET FIERY DEATH—Grace Moore, famous American singer, and Prince Gustaf Adolf, 40, second in line for the Swedish throne, were among the 22 persons killed in the crash of a Dutch KLM airliner near Copenhagen, Denmark, yesterday. The plane burst into flames and exploded after taking off for Stockholm, Sweden.

Georgia State Treasurer May Shut Off Funds

Wants Court Ruling On Governor Issue

ATLANTA, Jan. 26 (AP) — State Treasurer George B. Hamilton informed rival claimants to Georgia's governorship today that he would shut off all money for governmental operations unless disputants agree to a quick court test.

The veteran fiscal official, who was ousted by bayonets of Eugene Talmadge in 1936 and subsequently was reinstated by the courts, met successively with Herman Talmadge and Talmadge's attorney, and with Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson and a representative of Georgia's Attorney General.

Can't Recognize Appointments

He advised each claimant: "My personal attorney and the attorney of my bonding company have advised me that I cannot recognize appointments of either Herman Talmadge or M. E. Thompson, even though they may be confirmed by the State Senate. I shall not do so until I am protected by a Supreme Court decision on the entire question."

Hamilton advised both sides to agree on consent litigation to force his recognition of one or the other set of appointees, and to pay monies for operation of the executive department. The alternative, he said, would be complete cessation of state services within 30 days.

Talmadge Says "No Comment"

Talmadge said "no comment" and declined to speculate whether a consent mandamus would be forthcoming.

Thompson said: "I can under-

Gambling Raid Hard On Customers' Feet, Ears And Pockets

MINEOLA, N. Y., Jan. 26—(AP)—Pockets empty and with ears burning from a stinging judicial rebuke, 99 chagrined patrons of a Long Island dice game house walked out of district court here today—with a 10-mile hike ahead of them to retrieve their cars parked outside the raided gambling spot.

Nassau County District Attorney James N. Gehrig said that the more than $10,000 in cash found in the gaming spot or in the pockets of crap-shooting guests would not be returned.

Two dozen police burst in on the secluded gambling place at Glen Cove early today and after wielding axes on the interior of the building, packed the patrons and 11 other persons charged with operating the games into police wagons and brought them to Mineola.

German Control Treaty May Be Pressed At Big 4 Conference By Marshall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — (AP) — Diplomatic authorities predicted today that Secretary of State Marshall will press for acceptance of a 40-year Big Four German control treaty at the Moscow Foreign Ministers' conference.

Talk of such an alliance against any revival of German military power has been renewed here in the last few days as a result of the Stalin-Bevin exchange over the alliance between Britian and Russia.

American informants say that if Soviet Prime Minister Stalin is seriously interested in gaining maximum guarantees against the chance of a new German aggression, the 40-year treaty proposal looks like his best deal.

The idea was first put forward by former Secretary of State Byrnes more than a year ago. Stalin himself is understood to have approved it at one point, but Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov found objection to it and never allowed it serious consideration in any of the Big Four meetings.

As a result of arrangements finally made in the Foreign Ministers' conference at New York in December, however, the treaty proposal was listed as item No. 4 on the program for the Moscow conference in March. It thus ranks almost equally in importance with projects for German and Austrian peace settlements and may, in fact, be considered as a part of the total German peace settlement.

While Marshall has not yet gone into the treaty plan, his experts and advisers feel certain he will press it as enthusiastically as Brynes did.

It offers the Rusians and French a virtual alliance with the United States against Germany. Russia now has such alliances with Britin and France; the British and French are committed to seek an alliance between themselves.

Diplomats here are by no means sure that this latter move pleases the Kremlin. They speculate that recent developments between London and Moscow may have been partly designed to offset it.

NLRB Contends Wagner Act Has Curbed Strikes

Congress Considers Changes In Statute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—(AP)—In the face of proposals to change the Wagner Act, the National Labor Relations Board told Congress today the present law has had great success in preventing strikes.

The NLRB noted in its annual report to Congress that the act's main purpose is to provide peaceful settlement of disputes over the organization and recognition of unions, and added:

"The statute has served the public by decreasing such strife. The fundamental rights which Congress aid should be the subject of federal protection are no longer being bought at the price of economic struggle."

NLRB Administers Act

The NLRB, charged with administering the Wagner Act, declared that "adjustment of accumulated grievances, real and fancied" after the war by both labor and management "was to be expected." But it said most of the postwar strikes were about wages, over which it had no control.

"The fact is that the only kind of strikes which the board was created to discourage, those involving (union) recognition and the commission of unfair labor practices, have declined sharply," the report added.

The report said union organizational strikes caused 76 per cent of all strike idleness in 1937 but the figure had dropped to 29 per cent in 1945.

Smith Says Act Favors Labor

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va) has introduced a bill which he says will equalize conditions in collective bargaining between labor and industry. He contends the act's basic premise now, of protecting workers' right to organize and bargain collectively, makes it "one-sided" in labor's favor.

There are a number of other proposals to change the act, including those to require unions to register and make financial report and to open the way for breach of labor contract suits. The Senate Labor Committee resumes hearings on them Tuesday.

Engineer Dies In PRR Wreck Near Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 26 (AP) — An eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train plunged into a derailed freight car at nearby Spring Hill early today, fatally injuring the engineer.

Two passengers on the train, the "Pennsylvanian" en route from Chicago, were slightly injured but continued the journey to New York.

A railroad spokesman identified the victim as J. W. Allison, Altoona, Pa. He died at Columbia Hospital of shock and a possible fractured skull.

The railroad said the freight derailment occurred at a switch only a short time before the passenger train reached Spring Hill. The impact shattered windows and scraped the paint on the "Pennsylvanian."

Sweden's Prince Gustaf Adolf Also Victim As Plane Smashes Back Onto Copenhagen Airport

Disaster Strikes On Take off; All Aboard Killed Instantly; Flames Sweep Wreckage

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 26 (AP)—The American soprano, Grace Moore, met a fiery death, along with Sweden's Prince Gustaf Adolf and 20 more persons today in the crash of a Royal Dutch Airlines DC-3.

The 16 passengers and six crewmen died within minutes after taking off for Stockholm. The plane, barely aloft, smashed back onto the airport and went up in flames. There was no chance for anyone to escape.

Miss Moore, the Tennessee choir girl who soared to stardom in musical comedy, the opera and the movies, was enroute to Sweden for concerts after receiving an ovation from a crowd of 4,000 Copenhagen concertgoers. She was 45. She had left her husband, Valentin Parera, at Mougins, France, where he has been ill.

The Swedish Prince, 40, the son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, was killed while going home from a hunting trip in Holland with Prince Bernhard, the husband of Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlnads. Nine-month-old Karl Gustaf, only boy among the dead Prince's five children, becomes second in line for the throne of King Gustaf Adolf, 88.

Lines Oldest Pilot Killed

The Royal Dutch Airline KLM announced the plane's chief pilot was 54-years-old G. J. Geysendorffer, its oldest pilot.

The airliner was on an Amsterdam-Copenhagen-Stockholm run. It arrived at 2:50 p. m. (8:50 a. m., Eastern Standard Time), picked up passengers and took off 41 minutes later for the Swedish capital. Immediately after the takeoff and when the plane was only 150 feet aloft it banked and crashed, bursting into flames.

The 22 persons aboard were killed immediately. Their bodies were so charred and mutilated that they were virtually indistinguishable, airport officials said.

KLM issued a communique at the Hague which indicated that mechanical faliure might have caused the crash.

The plane, the communique said in part, "took off normally under good weather conditions with 16 passengers. Immediately after the takeoff, the plane rose steeply upward in a very unusal way, becoming unnavigable. It crashed and was completely destroyed. This course of events might indicate that the plane was in an abnormal condition."

It added, however, that "although the disaster happened under the eyes of the personnel of the Kastrup airfield, it will be difficult to trace the cause of the trouble."

"An investigation will be made by Danish aviation authorities with the assistance of Dutch experts, of the government aviation service. Tomorrow, Monday, an extra plane of KLM, with officials of the company, will leave for Copenhagen."

12 Killed In London Crash

The crash came a day after another DC-3 smashed up at Croydon Airport, London, killing 12 persons.

Miss Moore's last song, sung at her final concert Saturday night in Copenhagen's largest concert hall, was "Chiri Biri Bin," a composition she she helped make famous.

She had left the United States last July for a concert tour in Europe and appearances before American soldiers on occupation duty.

She had been due back in the United States in February to appear at New York's Metropolitan opera house, but cancelled her engagement because of her husband's illness. She made her opera debut at the Metroplitan in 1928 in "La Boheme," and starred in many movies, including "One Night of Love," whose theme song she popularized.

Miss Moore was the only American on the plane, according to a passenger list issued at Copenhagen by KLM. The other dead included four Swedes, seven Danes, the six Dutch crew members and a Dutch colonial passenger, one Spaniard and two Frenchmen.

Grace Moore Was Opera's Glamor Girl

News Of Her Death Shocks Admirers

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—An inconspicuous spot in a small-town church choir was the springboard from which Grace Moore rose to fame as the "glamor girl" of the international concert and opera stage and the singing idol of millions of movie fans.

Only a few days ago the blonde beauty told an interviewer of a Copenhagen newspaper:

"It is wonderful to live and sing. It is a great thing to feel that one is able to help other people with one's voice. I want to play in a new opera where the heroine does not die in the last scene or go mad. That is why I love Charpentier's Louise. The girl is alive when the curtain falls—and it is wonderful to be alive, isn't it?"

News of her death today in a Copenhagen plane crash brought expressions of regret from her admirers.

Planned To Become Catholic

To Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen who said he had completed religious instruction of the diva some time ago and was to have inducted her into the Catholic church upon her return to this countdy Miss Moore's death was "a matter of deep regret."

"This is shocking news," said Lawrence Tibbett Metropolitan Opera baritone, "she was one of America's truly brilliant singers."

News of her death brought tears to the eyes of many of her neighbors in Newton, Conn., where she made her home. As the news spread

Planes Are Poised For Antarctic Hop

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 26 (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd and his six big Navy transport planes were poised for a takeoff from the small flight deck of the carrier Philippine Sea today—while the ship wallowed through the only bad weather in the South Polar area the far-spread expedition is exploring.

The weather is good everywhere except at the carrier, Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, commander of the expedition task force, reported. He said he hoped it would improve soon, because he hated to see "all this good flight weather at Little America (the expedition's Antarctic base) wasted."

Byrd reported by message he planned to fly in the lead plane, when the stripped-down transports made their jet-assisted takeoffs for their 600-mile hop to Little America.

There will be five men aboard each of the six planes with two coming in first followed by the other four flying a path 300 miles farther east.

39 Cars Of B. And O. Freight Are Derailed Near West Union, W. Va.

WEST UNION, W. Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—Thirty-nine cars of the Baltimore and Ohio's westbound No. 97 freight train were derailed at Toll Gate west of here today and were tossed, crumpled and piled up as though they had been toys.

No one was injured in the crash, but damage was estimated at about $500,000 by a railroad official who said it was the "worst wreck in the history of the Monongah division."

A broken wheel tread on a car well up toward the front of the train was said to have caused the derailment.

The engine and the first car stayed on the tracks as did the last eight cars, a helper engine and a caboose.

The cars and their contents were strewn along the tracks for a quarter of a mile, and children searched happily through the debris for the contents of two cars which were loaded with a well-known (Hershey) candy bar.

The side was torn from a car loaded with canned spaghetti and meatballs and the contents scattered. Adding to the general mess was 10,000 gallons of sweet syrup which ran out from another.

Other materials included in the wreckage were bronze and copper castings for the manufacture of automobiles, auto batteries, a carload of jeeps, another of auto tires which rolled 600 feet, and other valuable merchandise.

The accident occurred at 5:25 a. m. under a highway bridge on United States Route 50, almost at the place where an oil train wrecked in 1942 with damage estimated at $250,000 resulting.

Officials indicated that the track would not be cleared until Tuesday, and meanwhile trains were being re-routed via New Martinsville.

Advice To The Lovelorn

He Says He Doesn't Love Her But Wants A Wife; Shall She Marry Him?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A great writer, who was also a great philosopher, once remarked that whether a woman married "well or ill," it was better for her to have had the experience of marriage than to have gone through life without it.

Bitter as an unhappy marriage can be, and tragic as a wrecked one always is, I am often tempted to agree with this point of view. For I think no one will dispute the fact that the vast majority of unmarried women, whether or not they ever admit it, feel that they have been cheated by life out of one of its most enviable experiences, and one which should be the birthright of every woman. And moreover, whether, as Stevenson said, the marriage turns out "well or ill," it is a unique educational experience which can enrich a woman mentally, spiritually or emotionally for the rest of her life.

For such reasons as these, I am inclined to tell the young woman who writes the following letter to go ahead and accept the somewhat startling proposal of marriage she has received. Here are the circumstances as she relates them:

"I am in love with a man who has been married before. He doesn't seem to love me, yet he wants me.

"About two weeks ago, I told him that if he didn't love me, we should break up, but he wouldn't hear to it. He says: 'I want you, Marion, but I don't appreciate anything you do for me.' He has asked me to marry him and look after his children as soon as he gets his divorce. What do you think I should do about it?

"I must tell you that we are both old enough to know what we are doing, as he is 39 and I am 40. He left his wife because when he was overseas she had another man living with her, and the children were seeing things and being neglected. So he had to take them and put them in an orphanage. I have never been married, but I love housework and children.

"Would you advise me what to do? But remember, Miss Fairfax, that I love him, and I know there are times he loves me, too."

To this young woman, I would make the following reply:

If you are perfectly sure that doing housework and bringing up this man's children will be enough to make you happy, even though you found that he did not show any more affection toward you after marriage than he apparently does now, then, as I have already said my feeling would be that you might say yes to his suggestion that you marry him. Many a wife who had her husband's declared love at the beginning of their marriage has, in later years, been thrown back upon just this combination of home and children for her emotional satisfaction, when the man who she thought would love and cherish her forever proved faithless, or, as not infrequently happens in our American civilization, became too engrossed in his business to give her the affection and companionship of earlier days. And many a wife in such a situation, however much she suffered because of her husband's indifference and neglect, still felt that what she had got out of her marriage amply compensated for what had been denied her.

And so you, too, may derive enough emotional satisfaction out of the children it will be yours to care for, and the home you can make for them and yourself, to make up for your husband's lack of affection.

It may be too, of course, that this man cares more about you than he realizes, and that once his divorce has set his mind and his emotions free again, he will find that out. But do not build too high hopes on this possibility. If you do decide to marry him, I think you should fully have accepted the fact that you may have to get along without his love; even that he may look to other women for the love you want to give him yourself. If you do not go into this marriage with your eyes entirely open in this respect, and receive less from it than you have let yourself expect, bitterness and frustration may be your unhappy lot.

Good luck to you, and I would like very much to know what you decide.

Advice To The Lovelorn

He Says He Doesn't Love Her But Wants A Wife; Shall She Marry Him?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A great writer, who was also a great philosopher, once remarked that whether a woman married "well or ill," it was better for her to have had the experience of marriage than to have gone through life without it.

Bitter as an unhappy marriage can be, and tragic as a wrecked one always is, I am often tempted to agree with this point of view. For I think no one will dispute the fact that the vast majority of unmarried women, whether or not they ever admit it, feel that they have been cheated by life out of one of its most enviable experiences, and one which should be the birthright of every woman. And moreover, whether, as Stevenson said, the marriage turns out "well or ill," it is a unique educational experience which can enrich a woman mentally, spiritually or emotionally for the rest of her life.

For such reasons as these, I am inclined to tell the young woman who writes the following letter to go ahead and accept the somewhat startling proposal of marriage she has received. Here are the circumstances as she relates them:

"I am in love with a man who has been married before. He doesn't seem to love me, yet he wants me.

"About two weeks ago, I told him that if he didn't love me, we should break up, but he wouldn't hear to it. He says: 'I want you, Marion, but I don't appreciate anything you do for me.' He has asked me to marry him and look after his children as soon as he gets his divorce. What do you think I should do about it?

"I must tell you that we are both old enough to know what we are doing, as he is 39 and I am 40. He left his wife because when he was overseas she had another man living with her, and the children were seeing things and being neglected. So he had to take them and put them in an orphanage. I have never been married, but I love housework and children.

"Would you advise me what to do? But remember, Miss Fairfax, that I love him, and I know there are times he loves me, too."

To this young woman, I would make the following reply:

If you are perfectly sure that doing housework and bringing up this man's children will be enough to make you happy, even though you found that he did not show any more affection toward you after marriage than he apparently does now, then, as I have already said my feeling would be that you might say yes to his suggestion that you marry him. Many a wife who had her husband's declared love at the beginning of their marriage has, in later years, been thrown back upon just this combination of home and children for her emotional satisfaction, when the man who she thought would love and cherish her forever proved faithless, or, as not infrequently happens in our American civilization, became too engrossed in his business to give her the affection and companionship of earlier days. And many a wife in such a situation, however much she suffered because of her husband's indifference and neglect, still felt that what she had got out of her marriage amply compensated for what had been denied her.

And so you, too, may derive enough emotional satisfaction out of the children it will be yours to care for, and the home you can make for them and yourself, to make up for your husband's lack of affection.

It may be too, of course, that this man cares more about you than he realizes, and that once his divorce has set his mind and his emotions free again, he will find that out. But do not build too high hopes on this possibility. If you do decide to marry him, I think you should fully have accepted the fact that you may have to get along without his love; even that he may look to other women for the love you want to give him yourself. If you do not go into this marriage with your eyes entirely open in this respect, and receive less from it than you have let yourself expect, bitterness and frustration may be your unhappy lot.

Good luck to you, and I would like very much to know what you decide.

Guardsmen End First Maryland Convention Here

Hagerstown Veteran Heads Organization

Maryland Department Legion of the Guardsmen was organized here Friday and Saturday, in the first conclave of the new organization comprised of Maryland State Guardsmen, Minute Men and others who served in state military units during the National War Emergency, or who have served in Federal Armed Services in time of peace.

Alfred S. Bendell, of Washington County Post No. 3, Hagerstown was elected State Department Commander at the closing session in City Hall auditorium Saturday afternoon. Commander Bendell, who served as a lieutenant colonel in the Army, is a former executive of the Boy Scouts of America and is vice-president and treasurer of the Hardell Corporation, Hagerstown.

He saw service as a first lieutenant in Federal service and was overseas for 18 months. He holds the Legion of Merit, the Commendation Ribbon with two clusters, and the Croix de Guerre.

Other officers elected yesterday are James N. Guilford, Algonquin Post No. 2, Cumberland, senior vice commander; J. William Beck, Algonquin Post, Cumberland, junior vice commander; Howard M. Iseminger, Washington County Post, Hagerstown, adjutant; James B. Reinhart, Algonquin Post, Cumberland, quartermaster; John Holland, Elmer A. Dize, Post No. 1, Crisfield, judge advocate; and Harvey D. Smith, Washington County Post, publicity director.

D. Clifford Goodfellow, a trustee of the Legion of Guardsmen in Cumberland, has secured a permit for the organization to use a two-story brick building at 140-142 North Centre street for club rooms. Goodfellow is the owner of the property. There are three posts now in Maryland, Hagerstown and Crisfield. The meeting here was the first get-together in the state. An organizational drive will begin at once in Baltimore and elsewhere in Maryland.

The next state convention of the Department will be held in Hagerstown, and the national convention of Guardsmen will be held in New York City, February 21-23.

Truman War Powers Proposals Awaited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — President Truman may give Congress this week his recommendations on dropping some war powers and continuing others, an official disclosed today, with decontrol of molasses under consideration.

The recommendations will deal with authority contained in the Second War Powers Act, now due to expire March 31. Government controls over the inventories of goods which manufacturers and distributors may keep on hand is one power considered for abandonment.

Some White House advisers also are debating the elimination of controls on molasses on the ground that this would bring to market supplies they believe are being withheld. One official whose name may not be used said producers apparently have slowed down deliveries in the expectation that molasses allocation will be dropped and that price ceilings will be abandoned at the same time. Price controls would be retained, however, on rice and sugar.

Two Killed In Carroll County Airplane Crash

WESTMINSTER, Md., Jan. 26—(AP)—A New Hampton, N. Y., man and his son, apparently flying home from a vacation in Florida, were killed today when their small airplane crashed in a pasture near Taneytown, Carroll county, during a heavy rainstorm.

State police identified the victims as Alfred E. Bates, 54, and William Henry Bates, 19.

Officers were told that the two-passenger craft barely missed striking a barn before plunging into the ground on the farm of Charles Edward Hockensmith, about one mile east of State Route 32 shortly before noon.

The plane was demolished and the victims' bodies were badly mangled, but no fire or explosion resulted from the impact.

Police Fire Into Groups Of Rioters In Bombay

BOMBAY, Jan. 26—(AP)—Police fired into groups of rioters today as Bombay tensely celebrated India's independence day, but authorities said that the situation did not get out of hand and that casualties were relatively light.

An official announcement said that at least five persons were knifed, and acid throwers were active.

Most of the fighting was between Moslems and Hindus, but in at least one area members of the Scheduled caste (Untouchables) clashed with caste Hindus.

Police snipers manned rooftops in the temple area and were ordered to shoot on sight acid-throwers who had filled electric light bulbs with searing fluid and were tossing them over the housetops, presumably with slings.

New Planes For BOAC

LONDON, Jan. 25—(AP)—A new class of British flying boat, to be known as the Bermuda class, will replace the American Boeings which the British Overseas Air Lines is using in its service between Bermuda and Baltimore, BOAC announced today.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The meeting of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission with A. F. McDonald, Hagerstown, in charge of operations for the Blue Ridge Transportation Company, to discuss current plans for the proposed new bus terminal, has been postponed until Monday, February 3, the date of the regular commission meeting, according to H. W. Smith, secretary. The conference was originally scheduled for Monday afternoon.

Police said Howard Bowers, 19, 11 Laing avenue, missing from his home since January 13 has returned home.

through the small town, residents recalled the only occasion at which she sang there in public, Memorial Day, 1938, when she and Opera Star Gladys Swarthout joined in a duet of "America," as they stood in front of the soldiers and sailors monument on Main street.

"We'll never forget that day," echoed many of the town's residents.

Once before, Miss Moore's soprano was almost stilled through a travel accident.

In July of last year, Miss Moore left the United States for a European concert tour and appearances before the American GIs on occupation duty in Europe.

Her husband had been ill for several months and Miss Moore had spent much of her time during that period with him at their home at Mougins, in the south of France.

Originally due back in the United States in February for several stellar roles at the Metropolitan opera house, she planned to stay abroad until September.

Miss Moore, 45, was born in Slabtown, near Rio, Tenn., December 5, 1901. The family moved to Jellico when she was five.

"I started my musical career there when I sang in the church choir," she once told an interviewer. "So, that is really where life began for me."

MacArthur's Powers

In addition to disputing the authority under which MacArthur set up the court, the defense also contended that a conspiracy among the defendants to violate international law and treaties had not been proved; and

That the attack on Pearl Harbor was not pertinent to the trial because prosecution testimony showed the United States had intercepted messages of Japanese diplomats, thus received "adequate warning" and had placed affairs with Japan "in the hands of the Army and Navy" before a shot was fi,red.

Host Says Guests Stole His Dog

Vindex Youths Held In County Jail

Two Garrett County veterans will be arraigned in Trial Magistrate's Court here today on a charge of stealing a dog. However, the two young men, Darrell and William F. Stewart, both of Vindex, said at the County Jail yesterday, it is all a mistake, and they did not steal the dog, but the animal accompanied them.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir went to Oakland Saturday and returned the pair to Cumberland, after they had been picked up by the Garrett County sheriff on warrants obtained by the dog's owner, Harvey W. Ware, 111 Humbird street.

The dog, a valuable Manchester terrier was found by Ware at the home of the two young men in Vindex, Saturday.

The two prisoners told Sheriff Muir they drove to Cumberland in their coupe on New Year's Eve and "met two blondes," who persuaded them to go to a New Year's eve party with them.

The party turned out to be at Ware's home, they said, and they were directed there by the girls and never did learn Ware's address.

After having an enjoyable evening, the two veterans got in their coupe and started for home, they said. However, after traveling a few miles they discovered that a terrier dog was gravely studying them from behind with his paws up on the back of their seat.

The veterans said they thought it was Ware's dog and that it had probably climbed into their coupe to take a nap and had been asleep when they started home. However, they said they were at a loss as to how to return the dog to its owner since they did not know Ware's address and are not familiar with Cumberland streets.

Hobbs loosened the rope around his legs in about ten minutes and a couple of blocks away encountered Tawney.

Bad Check

certain all four were cashed shortly before the stores closed Saturday evening.

In starting an investigation, the officers went on the theory that only one man was involved but later it was noted that a discrepancy existed in the descriptions furnished by the Cosgrove firm and the grocer who cashed one of the four checks.

The secretary at the Cosgrove firm reported that the man who appeared in their office was dressed one way and had a very bad cold. The description given by the grocer was entirely different — and the stranger with the check did not have any cold, the grocer added.

Suspect "Two-Man Team"

This leads the officers to believe that there are two men involved in the matter and that they work together as a team with one man actually forging the checks and obtaining the use of the guards used by established firms, and the other presenting the checks to business establishments to have them cashed.

"They are no novices, that's certain," Treiber and Flynn said last night. "And their appearance in Cumberland is probably just one of many."

Officers were inclined to believe that the two men made short visits in various towns and generally cashed their checks just before closing hour at the stores. Then, in all likelihood, "they hit the road," the officers said.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"THEY SAY"

So people "just won't leave you in peace." They're always interfering and meddling in your most private affairs. And you're always upset by what they say, aren't you?

No sooner have you arrived at a decision than some officious friend or relative comes bustling along, shoving you around and making you change your mind.

So you wish I'd write an article blasting people like that and make them mind their own business. I'll write the article, stranger, but chances are you won't like it. For I have no intention of "blasting people like that."

If you can't safeguard your own affairs it's nobody's fault but your own. If you can't arrive at your own decisions and stick to them, you deserve to be shoved around. And you may as well make up your mind to accept the shoving, for everyone despises a spineless worm.

That doesn't mean that you should reject all constructive advice or resent friendly criticism. There are many times when we profit by letting our opinions be changed. But the person who is constantly swayed by any casual remark has only himself or herself to blame for mental disorder and discontent.

It is not only our basic duty to make up our minds. It is as vital a duty to protect those minds after we've made them up.

This doesn't imply unreasonable stubbornness. Nor does it mean that you should embark on illegal or immoral adventures. The main point is that you should learn about life by living, by doing those things which seem to be wisest and best, and sticking to your own decisions come hell or high water.

All self respecting people should have backbones and use them.

But suppose you make the wrong decision? You're constantly afraid of that, aren't you?

Stop being afraid. It's quite possible for any of us to make the wrong decision and suffer inevitable consequences. Yet we may learn more from such grievous mistakes than we could learn from smug successes. It's up to you to build your own character whether you do it through failure or success.

So stop griping at the people who continually change your mind. If your mind is worth shucks, if you honestly believe in your own opinions, you will not let anyone change it. You will not be afraid of what "they say." You will only be afraid of your own shilly-shallying.

Truman War Powers Proposals Awaited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — President Truman may give Congress this week his recommendations on dropping some war powers and continuing others, an official disclosed today, with decontrol of molasses under consideration.

The recommendations will deal with authority contained in the Second War Powers Act, now due to expire March 31. Government controls over the inventories of goods which manufacturers and distributors may keep on hand is one power considered for abandonment.

Some White House advisers also are debating the elimination of controls on molasses on the ground that this would bring to market supplies they believe are being withheld. One official whose name may not be used said producers apparently have slowed down deliveries in the expectation that molasses allocation will be dropped and that price ceilings will be abandoned at the same time. Price controls would be retained, however, on rice and sugar.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Jan. 26—(AP)—A New Hampton, N. Y., man and his son, apparently flying home from a vacation in Florida, were killed today when their small airplane crashed in a pasture near Taneytown, Carroll county, during a heavy rainstorm.

State police identified the victims as Alfred E. Bates, 54, and William Henry Bates, 19.

Officers were told that the two-passenger craft barely missed striking a barn before plunging into the ground on the farm of Charles Edward Heckensmith, about one mile east of State Route 32 shortly before noon.

The plane was demolished and the victims' bodies were badly mangled, but no fire or explosion resulted from the impact.

Police Fire Into Groups Of Rioters In Bombay

BOMBAY, Jan. 26—(AP)—Police fired into groups of rioters today as Bombay tensely celebrated India's independence day, but authorities said that the situation did not get out of hand and that casualties were relatively light.

An official announcement said that at least five persons were knifed, and acid throwers were active.

Most of the fighting was between Moslems and Hindus, but in at least one area members of the Scheduled caste (Untouchables) clashed with caste Hindus.

Police snipers manned rooftops in the temple area and were ordered to shoot on sight acid-throwers who had filled electric light bulbs with searing fluid and were tossing them over the housetops, presumably with slings.

through the small town, residents recalled the only occasion at which she sang there in public, Memorial Day, 1938, when she and Opera Star Gladys Swarthout joined in a duet of "America," as they stood in front of the soldiers and sailors monument on Main street.

"We'll never forget that day," echoed many of the town's residents.

Once before, Miss Moore's soprano was almost stilled through a travel accident.

In July of last year, Miss Moore left the United States for a European concert tour and appearances before the American GIs on occupation duty in Europe.

Her husband had been ill for several months and Miss Moore had spent much of her time during that period with him at their home at Mougins, in the south of France.

Originally due back in the United States in February for several stellar roles at the Metropolitan opera house, she planned to stay abroad until September.

Miss Moore, 45, was born in Slabtown, near Rio, Tenn., December 5, 1901. The family moved to Jellico when she was five.

"I started my musical career there when I sang in the church choir," she once told an interviewer. "So, that is really where life began for me."

Miles, president of the Baltimore Association of Commerce and chairman of the executive committee of the Baltimore National Bank, was first elected Treasurer by the 1935 Legislature and was reelected in 1939, 1943 and by the 1947 session two weeks ago.

The House and Senate will reconvene at 8:30 tomorrow night after another weekend recess. The meetings are expected to be brief, although the delegates may act on a Senate-approved measure which has caused a stir in the oyster industry.

The Senate suspended its rules last Thursday and passed a bill which would permit Mayland authorities to prosecute Virginia residents for violation of the Potomac river oyster laws.

MacArthur's Powers

In addition to disputing the authority under which MacArthur set up the court, the defense also contended that a conspiracy among the defendants to violate international law and treaties had not been proved; and

That the attack on Pearl Harbor was not pertinent to the trial because prosecution testimony showed the United States had intercepted messages of Japanese diplomats, thus received "adequate warning" and had placed affairs with Japan "in the hands of the Army and Navy" before a shot was fired.

Host Says Guests Stole His Dog

Vindex Youths Held In County Jail

Two Garrett County veterans will be arraigned in Trial Magistrate's Court here today on a charge of stealing a dog. However, the two young men, Darrell and William F. Stewart, both of Vindex, said at the County Jail yesterday, it is all a mistake, and they did not steal the dog, but the animal accompanied them.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir went to Oakland Saturday and returned the pair to Cumberland, after they had been picked up by the Garrett County sheriff on warrants obtained by the dog's owner, Harvey W. Ware, 111 Humbird street.

The dog, a valuable Manchester terrier was found by Ware at the home of the two young men in Vindex, Saturday.

The two prisoners told Sheriff Muir they drove to Cumberland in their coupe on New Year's Eve and "met two blondes," who persuaded them to go to a New Year's eve party with them.

The party turned out to be at Ware's home, they said, and they were directed there by the girls and never did learn Ware's address.

After having an enjoyable evening, the two veterans got in their coupe and started for home, they said. However, after traveling a few miles they discovered that a terrier dog was gravely studying them from behind with his paws up on the back of their seat.

The veterans said they thought it was Ware's dog and that it had probably climbed into their coupe to take a nap and had been asleep when they started home. However, they said they were at a loss as to how to return the dog to its owner since they did not know Ware's address and are not familiar with Cumberland streets.

Hobbs loosened the rope around his legs in about ten minutes and a couple of blocks away encountered Tawney.

The policemen cut the rope from Hobbs' wrists and together they drove around Gettysburg and vicinity for several hours looking for the cab driver's abductors.

Tawney said Hobbs told him that one of the men called another "Eddie," and that they took $7 from him before they fled.

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said at Gettysburg that another automobile was reported stolen a short time later and the escaped men may have used it to flee.

certain all four were cashed shortly before the stores closed Saturday evening.

In starting an investigation, the officers went on the theory that only one man was involved but later it was noted that a discrepancy existed in the descriptions furnished by the Cosgrove firm and the grocer who cashed one of the four checks.

The secretary at the Cosgrove firm reported that the man who appeared in their office was dressed one way and had a very bad cold. The description given by the grocer was entirely different — and the stranger with the check did not have any cold, the grocer added.

Suspect "Two-Man Team"

This leads the officers to believe that there are two men involved in the matter and that they work together as a team with one man actually forging the checks and obtaining the use of the guards used by established firms, and the other presenting the checks to business establishments to have them cashed.

"They are no novices, that's certain," Treiber and Flynn said last night. "And their appearance in Cumberland is probably just one of many."

Officers were inclined to believe that the two men made short visits in various towns and generally cashed their checks just before closing hour at the stores. Then, in all likelihood, "they hit the road," the officers said.

presented a bill amounting to $1,000, while nursing and other services brought the total amount of bills incurred to $9,831.50, it was testified.

In a decree signed yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster, an absolute divorce was granted Mrs. Ada P. Elbin, 32, of 312 Park street, from Charles R. Elbin, a World War II veteran. The wife, represented by Ryan, was allowed to resume her maiden name, Ada Mountain.

Mrs. LaVerne Williams, also represented by Ryan, Saturday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against Robert C Williams and his wife, Mrs. Eva Williams, of this city, to regain the custody of her daughter, Naomi Jean Williams.

The petitioner, who is the former wife of Williams, claims he is "unjustly detaining" the child at his home. Williams has since re-married.

Chief Judge Huster ordered a hearing on the petition today in court.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"THEY SAY"

So people "just won't leave you in peace." They're always interfering and meddling in your most private affairs. And you're always upset by what they say, aren't you?

No sooner have you arrived at a decision than some officious friend or relative comes bustling along, shoving you around and making you change your mind.

So you wish I'd write an article blasting people like that and make them mind their own business. I'll write the article, stranger, but chances are you won't like it. For I have no intention of "blasting people like that."

If you can't safeguard your own affairs it's nobody's fault but your own. If you can't arrive at your own decisions and stick to them, you deserve to be shoved around. And you may as well make up your mind to accept the shoving, for everyone despises a spineless worm.

That doesn't mean that you should reject all constructive advice or resent friendly criticism. There are many times when we profit by letting our opinions be changed. But the person who is constantly swayed by any casual remark has only himself or herself to blame for mental disorder and discontent.

It is not only our basic duty to make up our minds. It is as vital a duty to protect those minds after we've made them up.

This doesn't imply unreasonable stubbornness. Nor does it mean that you should embark on illegal or immoral adventures. The main point is that you should learn about life by living, by doing those things which seem to be wisest and best, and sticking to your own decisions come hell or high water.

All self respecting people should have backbones and use them.

But suppose you make the wrong decision? You're constantly afraid of that, aren't you?

Stop being afraid. It's quite possible for any of us to make the wrong decision and suffer inevitable consequences. Yet we may learn more from such grievous mistakes than we could learn from smug successes. It's up to you to build your own character whether you do it through failure or success.

So stop griping at the people who continually change your mind. If your mind is worth shucks, if you honestly believe in your own opinions, you will not let anyone change it. You will not be afraid of what "they say." You will only be afraid of your own shilly-shallying.

Long-Range Study Need Not Delay Some Labor Legislation

Hearings, expected to continue for six weeks, on proposals for new Federal labor legislation, have been started by the Senate Labor Committee. One of the first witnesses was the committee's former chairman Senator Murray, Democrat, from Montana. He argued for a special commission, as proposed by President Truman, to make an extensive study of labor-management relations. He with other Democrats, among them Senators Pepper of Florida and Thomas of Utah, are sponsors of a resolution to create such a commission.

We think their real hope is to stall off and if possible prevent action by Congress on corrective labor legislation. When Messrs. Murray, Pepper, Thomas and other Democrats controlled the Labor Committee they did their utmost to smother any legislation opposed by union leaders and union lobbyists. Usually they succeeded. They never moved to bring about a fair and comprehensive study of labor-management relations when they had the power to do it. Their present sudden enthusiasm for that idea is highly suspicious.

There might be some merit in President Truman's suggestion for a commission, because this country needs a clear and fundamental understanding of the labor problem. An able commission, say of 12 memmers appointed from Congress and eight by the president, might well spend many months delving into the many phases of that problem. Its findings could be a valuable blueprint for sound future policies. But that doesn't mean that the Murrays, Peppers and Thomases should be allowed to delay legislation needed to correct certain obvious and dangerous abuses.

Six weeks of hearings by the Senate Labor Committee, and other hearings by the corresponding House Committee, should give Congress enough information for wise action on the most urgent labor measures before it. A long-range commission study, if authorized, must be on the level—not a trick to cause inaction or delay.

Having received 80,000 tons of American food in December, it should be hard to convince the German people there is no Santa Claus.

Garden Enthusiasts In No Quandry Over Plans

With planning time for the coming season approaching all too swiftly, amateur vegetable growers who garden not for the love of it but for purely practical reasons are in something of a quandary. The question is whether it will be worth while, in terms of the return they can expect from their labor, to dig up a plot this year. And the answer is elusive.

Secretary of Agriculture, while calling on farmers to increase their acreage to achieve another record output of food and fiber, also contends city folks will wish to continue and increase the trend of higher nutritional levels.

He points out that they appreciate the help gardening can contribute towards improving food habits by teaching people to eat greater amounts needed of protective foods, and he cites the fact that the home garden's contribution in healthful foods and happy home living was well demonstrated during the war. We agree with the Secretary that it will be good for Americans in peacetime.

Many gardeners relieved of the pressure of war and other emergencies, can go to their gardening job this year for the pleasure of it, producing more for quality than quantity. They also will want to put more effort on improvement in home surroundings—more effort on lawns, ornamentals, and trees. This is gardening in its broadest sense.

But by his call to farmers to increase acreage to achieve another record food output may mean that government experts do not expect a food surplus this year. So it seems reasonable to believe that prices of most things Americans eat will remain at a comparative high level. In that case a vegetable garden can help to relieve the strain on the family pocketbook.

This conclusion seems to be subject to some discount in view of price predictions made by the Department of Commerce economists the other day. According to that forecast, a number of food items are headed toward lower prices and vegetables, in particular, will be considerably cheaper by Summer. If things turn out that way, a garden could cost more in time than it produces.

But if those who garden for their budget's sake hardly know what to do, it is different with the confirmed enthusiast. He is perfectly confident that he will reap rich material rewards and with them something better—the pleasure of drawing up his plans, the challenge of putting it into effect despite difficulties, the thrill of seeing the reluctant earth fruitful under his hand.

He knows already that in a little more than two months' time he will have his peas planted where they belong.

A new star weighs 620 tons per cubic inch and has a temperature of 28,000 degrees, it is estimated. If these figures are in error, then what?

An Earned Tribute

When one makes a hobby of a useful form of activity, particularly when it tends to promote morality and benefits the public, he instinctively gains the esteem of his fellow citizens. That obviously is the logic on which the Philadelphia Junior Board of Commerce predicated the award of its Distinguished Service Key to Robert R. M. Carpenter, Jr., thereby designating him as the young man who made the most conspicuous contribution to civic and community life in Philadelphia in 1946.

The Philadelphia Club of the National Baseball League, of which Mr. Carpenter is president and owner, last season moved up from last position, where it had been entrenched for many years, to fifth place in the league standing. This task was accomplished in the face of difficulties through the efforts of Mr. Carpenter and his staff.

According to the citation accompanying the award, Mr. Carpenter, by admitting free more than 85,000 youngsters to the Phillies' games last year, made a worthy contribution to the well-being of youth and toward the curbing of juvenile delinquency.

Citations such as this one for community service are an encouragement to civic-mindedness. They remind the thousands engaged in efforts outside of their immediate occupation that people do appreciate what they are doing.

INDOORS AND OUT ON COLD DAYS

LOWER animals such as fish, amphibia, and reptiles are not provided with an internal thermostat. Hence, in a cold atmosphere, their activities and metabolic processes are slowed down considerably because of a fall in body temperature. Mammals and birds, however, possess a mechanism that maintains a fairly constant internal level, even when the temperature of the external environment drops to 60 degrees F. below or rises to 120 degrees F. above zero.

But because of the ability of the tissues of the higher animals to remain within a relatively even reading, marked alterations may prove dangerous. Cold-blooded vertebrates can tolerate a body temperature of well below 80 degrees F. but mammals could not survive degrees lower than 80 or higher than 110.

The heat-regulating center located in the thalamus, helps us adjust to our environment. In cold weather, the escape of heat is prevented by constriction of the blood vessels, the cessation of perspiration, and increased muscle tension. But man must assist nature by providing fuel, warming the living and working quarters, and wearing suitable clothing. Most of us have learned by experience not to place too great a strain on the heat control apparatus. On bitter days, many bundle up to the eyebrows but immediately on entering a building, gloves, scarves, and outer garments are shed. In this way, city dwellers remain comfortable.

Those who are exposed to the elements for longer periods, such as hunters, farmers, and winter sports addicts, are faced with a different problem. At intervals they feel the need of warming up and come indoors without removing heavy packets or sweaters. Many hover over a stove or radiator. As a result, the skin flushes and the sweat glands begin to secrete. When the tissues become heated, the system starts dissipating the excess. On returning to the outside, the process continues and in short order the individual becomes chilled to the bone and starts shivering.

Had the top layers been thrown off while in the shelter, perspiration would not have occurred. Sweating can be minimized also by avoiding alcoholic and stimulating drinks. These beverages are not harmful to the person who expects to remain inside but are inadvisable for the one who is going out again in a short time. Additional precautions consist of changing from wet to dry garments and staying indoors only long enough to regain minimal comfort.

It is sometimes better to judge the amount of clothing by the type of activity anticipated rather than the mercury reading. Youngsters going out to skate or indulge in other forms of physical exertion are frequently overdressed. In consequence, perspiration ensues, leading to excess loss of energy. Thus chilling is more pronounced than if too few garments had been worn. Moreover, the excess hinders movements, making the wearer work harder. [illegible] induces sweating, and when [illegible] child rests between spurts of [illegible] he is likely to become shivery [illegible] lose interest in the game. If mother wants him to stay out longer, he will feel abused because he is uncomfortable.

A SCREAM FOR DOTTIE

We just finished shooting "My Favorite Brunette" and I'd like to mention a little incident that took place while we were doing the picture.

There's one scene where Dorothy Lamour is held prisoner by a big moron. No—I'm not in that scene. Lon Chaney plays the part. Dottie was supposed to look frightened during these scenes and Director Elliott Nugent rehearsed her again and again in screaming and looking terrified, but he couldn't get the right effect.

Nugent told the actors to take a five minute rest, walked to the phone and called the Lamour home. He returned in a few minutes and reassembled the cast for the shooting.

"Action," said Nugent from behind the camera. "Look straight over my shoulder when you talk, Dottie."

Dottie started to speak, took one look over Nugent's shoulder, and gave out with a scream that would make Johnny Weismuller rise in envy.

It was just what the director wanted.

Smiling, Nugent walked over to Dottie and said, "You really looked terrified that time. You've been rehearsing by yourself."

"Rehearsing nothing," replied Dottie. "I just saw that clock on the wall—I'm late for my appointment at the hairdresser's."

With the day's shooting done, Dottie left for the hairdresser's and Nugent walked over to set the clock back to the right time.

Senator Butler Offers Resolution To Aid Partner's Alcohol Firm; Government Probed Nebraska Alcohol Operations; Butler Disclaims Financial Interest

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—There was some irate backstage scrambling on Capitol Hill last week when Senator Glen Taylor, Democrat, of Idaho, stepped in to stop passage of Senate resolution 5—an innocuous looking measure which would permit alcohol and syrup to be distilled in the same plant.

Several Senators scurried across the floor to ask Taylor why he wanted to block the resolution, the most furious of them being stocky, likable Republican Hugh Butler of Nebraska. Butler was the author of the stymied resolution, but that only tells part of the story.

The whole story is that this special piece of legislation was being rushed through a Congress, supposed to be busy with labor -tax - budget problems, merely to benefit one alsohol plant in the entire United States.

And that one plant happens to be operated by Senator Butler's former partner plus other powerful Nebraska Republicans. Furthermore, Butler's old grain company has had an exclusive contract with the alcohol company, which he was trying to aid, to buy all the grain it consumes.

In other words, Butler's former partner helps to run the company, Butler's former grain-buying concern buys grain for the company, while Butler himself pushes legislation for the company on the floor of the U. S. Senate.

The alcohol plant in question is the Farm Crops Processing Corporation of Omaha, which leased an $8,000,000 government-built plant to make wartime alcohol, and is rated as having done a good war job. However, the war job is over and it is now selling to Seagrams, meanwhile, its war operations have been under scrutiny by the OPA and other Government agencies because of its contract with the Butler-Welsh Grain Company (Senator Butler's former firm) to purchase all its grain for distilling purposes.

Butler Firm Criticized

Commenting on this in a special investigation report in 1945, the OPA stated:

"As the Butler-Welsh Grain Company buys all of the grain, except malt, consumed by the Farm Crops Processing Corp., there is a tie-in of managements of the two companies through J. L. Welsh (ex-partner of Sen. Butler). This raises a question in our mind concerning the propriety as well as the necessity for the cost of a grain-buying intermediary in an operation of this size under cost-plus."

What the OPA report referred to was the fact that the Farm Crops company was operating on a cost-plus contract, and any additional amounts paid to the Butler-Welsh concern for buying grain, would be added to the Government's total bill.

Continuing, the OPA report stated;

"In November 1940, Senator Butler was elected U. S. Senator and shortly thereafter disposed of his and his deceased wife's interests to Welsh (his partner) and D. O. Aller in exchange for personal notes."

Questioned by this columnist as to whether he still owned any interest, direct or indirect, in his old grain firm, Senator Butler said that he had retained the privilege of reacquiring his stock under certain conditions but that he had no financial interest in the company. He also stated that in June 1942 he had repurchased one-quarter of the company and given it to Doane College, Crete Nebraska, for a scholarship fund.

He explained that D. O. Aller, who had taken over part of Butler's interest in the grain company, was almost an adopted son and helped him with business matters for many years.

Butler's Company Profited

The Butler-Welsh Company holds a membership on the Denver, Omaha and Chicago Grain Exchanges, and operates grain elevators at South Omaha, Nebraska City, with two at Council Bluffs, Ia. According to the OPA report, the company made a net profit for the fiscal year 1944 of $194,889.

"How much of the above profits constituted commission, grain profits and elevator earnings on grains handled for Farm Crops was not ascertained," continued the OPA report. "But it has been calculated that on purchases of 4,944,614 bushels of grain at 1 cent per bu. on corn, 1-½ cents per bu. on wheat and rye, and 2 cents per cwt. on sorghums during 1944, the aggregate would be $63,532.18.

"At the instance of the accounting department," OPA reported, "the Omaha OPA office made an examination of Butler-Welsh grain transactions and reported that apparently there were no violations of the maximum price regulations. This did not, of course, have any bearing on the question of whether an officer may properly derive any personal benefit through procurement of distillery materials under cost-plus . . . .

"According to our observation, it is unusual for grain buying in an operation of this size to be handled entirely through brokers."

That, however, was exactly what happened. Not only did the company of which Senator Butler's partner is an important officer buy grain through the old Butler firm, but on top of this, Senator Butler last week was virtually being the company's personal lobbyist on the Senate floor, in attempting to pass a resolution permitting alcohol companies also to make syrup.

For years the Treasury has banned manufacture of syrup in the same plant with alcohol, for fear syrup grains would be converted surreptitiously into alcohol. This ban was suspended during wartime; now Butler is demanding passage of a resolution suspending it for seven months more.

$400,000 Owed Uncle Sam

Meanwhlie, Treasury officials point out that the Farm Crops company is the only plant in the nation which also wants the right to make syrup, even though it is no longer on a war footing. (It now sells chiefly to Seagrams and the Glenmore Company in Kentucky.) Officials also say that the company has not been using surplus potatoes, as claimed on Capitol Hill, but corn.

Another interesting angle is that the Omaha plant is now in the middle of a wrangle with the OPA over how much money it owes the Government. OPA claims it owes a neat little $400,000, and one item in this disputed amount is especially interesting.

On cost-plus contracts, a private company is not permitted to charge the Government for royalties on any patents owned by officers of the firm. However, OPA officials state that three officers of Farm Crops signed their names to a claim in an effort to collect money from the Government for royalties.

The company has put a former OPA official, Morris Vailes, on its payroll to battle out its financial argument with the OPA.

This is the whole picture regarding the company for the benefit of which Senator Butler tried to rush through a special resolution last week.

Plans For One New Washington, Somewhere, Urged For Security

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26—Everyone who has seen the Pentagon Building here is astounded at its thousands of rooms, its miles of corridors and its acres of windows. Most thinking people breathlessly gasp and ask: "But why did they build the headquarters of the U. S. Army at this exposed location on the Atlantic Seaboard? Why didn't they build it in the center of the country where it would be much freer from bombing or revolution?"

Decentralization Our Only Security

The same question can be asked about the great Agricultural Department buildings;—they certainly should be in the Central West probably in Kansas which is the geographical center of the country. The Interior Department buildings should be in Kansas or Colorado; certainly not in Washington, D. C. Let us remember that the only reason for the Capital being at Washington, D. C., is because that location then was the real center of the Thirteen Colonies which made up the original nation.

There is a debatable question as to whether all Departments should gradually be moved to one new central location in the West, or whether our Capital should be split up into perhaps a half-dozen smaller capitals,—so that "all of our eggs are not in one basket." I am inclined to the latter view; but the important thing is to lay plans immediately to start at least one New Washington somewhere. Let us not wait until World War III comes when our present Washington will probably be destroyed.

Babson Makes Suggestions

It might be well for the present to leave the Executive Department at the White House and leave Congress at the present Capital Building. The Executive Offices need much more room and they could take over the Treasury Building; but the State Department could remain where it now is. The Pentagon Building should be turned over to the Navy which should continue to have headquarters on the Seaboard.

The Treasury Department could be moved to Fort Knox (where all of our gold now is) or to some other place in the Middle West which would be convenient for all concerned. The same applies to the Post Office Department, the Justice Department, the Labor Department and the Commerce Department. It is unsafe, unfair and inefficient to have them all cooped up in Washington as at present. Moreover, if there ever is a communist revolution in America, it will be centered in the large cities of the East. Hence, in addition to maintaining Old Washington for certain departments, we should immediately begin to build one or more "New Washingtons." These should be in the Central West, all connected together by new government-owned radio, airplane and underground cable systems.

Fairness To Pacific Coast

Few people realize the great empire which is gradually arising on the Pacific Coast and in Texas. If the population of these four states continues to increase in the same proportion to the entire population, these four states in 30 or 40 years will have a majority of the Congressmen. This certainly would result in moving the Capital to the Central West. Hence, why not begin moving now and be fair to the Pacific Coast and the Southwest?

I have been assured that if the move was up to the Senate alone, the change would be made at once because each state would then have the same number of votes. All would be equally interested in a central location. Only because the Eastern States now have so many more members in the House does the Capital remain on the Atlantic Seaboard.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

I think Sam Goldwyn needs a good press agent.

Recently, a bunch of theatre guys were sitting around Toots Shor's. We got to chinning about the fellows who currently are turning out the great hunks of entertainment. We talked about Oscar Hammerstein, Leo McCarey, Gar Kanin, Alfred Hitchcock. No one mentioned Sam Goldwyn. People are so used to thinking of him as Mr. Malaprop that they forget he's one of the great showmen of all time.

Sam Goldwyn

I can remember when Henry Ford got the same treatment. We were so busy giggling at Tin Lizzie stories, we darn near forgot the contribution of the man whose mechanical know-how revolutionized the habits of of a nation. Paul Revere's ride got so much publicity that very few remember he was our most talented silversmith.

Sam Goldwyn is up the same creek. Not many of the people who pass along Goldwyn gags realize that he was largely responsible for the infant movie business putting on long pants.

When he started, the flicker fare of the country was the custard pie comedy and the big dramatic moment was a Keystone cop falling in a cement mixer. It was Sam who decided that movies should be written by writers—rather than relatives. From Maeterlinck to Robert Sherwood, he's had them all. Somebody once said if Shakespeare were alive today, he'd be working for Sam Goldwyn.

We've all heard the stories about Goldwyn, the shrewd businessman. We're apt to forget how daringly he sends it in when he's on the firing line. In an old Sidney Howard picture, he had them re-shoot a scene at a cost of twenty thousand bucks because he wanted to change one word in it. He once scrapped a finished picture called "Nana" and did it over—he thought he could do it better.

He got the great Ziegfeld to work for him—a pretty good trick. When Ziggy objected to the girls Goldwyn had picked, Sam challenged Flo to do better. The Great Glorifier went back to New York and spent months assembling a line of pretties. He brought them to Hollywood and stood them up alongside Sam's girls. Flo admitted the Goldwyn gals were more beautiful. That group of cuties included Virginia Bruce and a kid named Paulette Goddard.

Sam walked into my cabaret three years ago, spotted a blonde girl playing straight for a trick horse and signed her. A year later I woke up to the fact that Virginia Mayo had worked for me.

He doesn't produce his pictures over an intercommunication system. His thumbprint is on every frame of film from the Title to the "Finis." When Robert Montgomery made his first screen test, the wise guys said he was no good—his neck was too long. Goldwyn looked at it and salvaged an important career with one sentence: "His neck isn't so long—his collars are too short."

Operating in an industry which would rather insult your intelligence than admit you had any, Sam has refused to make pictures for that "12-year-old average mind." "Arrowsmith," "These Three," "Dodsworth," "Wuthering Heights"—pretty classy for a fellow whose book-larnin' consisted of one year in night school.

This piece is going to hit a lot of breakfast tables around the country. At one of those tables, somebody may look up from his scrambled eggs and say, "This Goldwyn is quite a fellow."

Ten to one, his wife will come back with, "Did you hear about the time he said, 'We can get all the Indians we need from off a reservoir'?"

Last night I saw his new picture, "The Best Years of Our Lives." From Barnum to Belasco, from Frohman to the Theatre Guild, any showman would be proud to hang that trinket on his watch chain.

As I was saying a few hundred words back, what Sam Goldwyn needs is a good press agent.

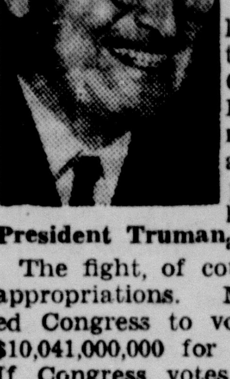
INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (CP)—A battle is shaping up in Congress over national defense expenditures.



President Truman

But what is not generally realized is that a good part of the fight will be to raise President Truman's budget figures.

If defense outlays are held down to the $11,256,000,000, which the President recommended, it will be a pretty fair compromise and all hands can call it a day.

The fight, of course, will be over appropriations. Mr. Truman asked Congress to vote an additional $10,041,000,000 for national defense. If Congress votes that much, the Army and Navy can spend $11,256,000,000. If Congress votes less, the armed servies cannot spend that much.

Naturally, there is a chunk of holdover money, and this accounts for the difference.

Actually, the president did some pretty mean budget-cutting before he drew up his figures. He trimmed the Army's request by $1,500,000,000 and the Navy's by $2,000,000,000.

There was a lot of wailing over the president's own axe-swinging job. Top Army and Navy officials and the War and Navy secretaries pleaded eloquently. But the president was adamant.

Now Congress will hear the wails when it knuckles down to the budget-preperation job. It will be under such pressure to raise the president's recommendations that there is a good prospect it will decide to let well enough alone and accept them.

Some Washington legal experts believe that Justice Fred Vinson may hold the key to the supreme court's decision in the contempt case against John L. Lewis.

These attorneys see Justices Black, Murphy, Douglas and Rutledge lined up for the miners, and Justices Reed, Frankfurter, Burton and Jackson arrayed against Lewis.

Such a line-up would leave Vinson with the all-important deciding vote.

One coal industry attorney expressed the opinion that the $3,510,000 fine levied against Lewis and the UMW by the lower court will be moderated considerably.

He contended that Lewis certainly was in contempt of the district court injunction against the coal walkout, but expressed belief that the supreme court would find mitigating circumstances in his disobedience.

For example, the high tribunal might hold that the injunction was illegal, as Lewis argues, under the Norris-LaGuardia act.

Affable, hard-hitting Senator Kenneth Wherry (R) of Nebraska agreed that the organization meeting of the Senate appropriations committee fell on his "bad days."

Wherry was perhaps the leading critic of the state department in the old Congress and fervently hoped he would draw the chairmanship of the state, commerce and justice subcommittee on appropriations.

But the appropriations committee assigned chairmanships by seniority and Senator Joseph H. Ball (R) of Minnesota slighty outranked Wherry. That was the first blow.

Wherry could have had the Navy chairmanship, but he overheard Senator Chan Gurney (R) of South Dakota, chairman of the armed service committee remark that it would be a good idea to give it to Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R) of Massachusetts.

Wherry decided that Saltonstall, rich with naval knowledge and traditions, was a good man to bow to. He passed up the Navy spot and said he would take the interior department chairmanship.

He thought he had everyone except himself completely happy until Senator Guy Cordon (R) of Oregon began to needle him for not having taken the Navy chairmanship. Cordon, it developed, wanted interior just as badly as Wherry originally had wanted to be in charge of state department hearings.

NOT FOR SALE

The world is full of bargainers, but there are many things that are not for sale at any price. I have a beautiful Whistler print that I purchased many years ago. A man heard that I had it and came to see me, hoping to buy it. I told him at once that it was not for sale. But he persisted, offered me far more than it cost, and could not understand why I would not sell. "But I offer you twice as much as you paid for it," he said. It took me a long while to convince him that I would not sell it at any price—for the love that I had for it was not for sale.

There is a certain sadness that comes over me when I see a home for sale. Not the speculative kind, but the home that looks as though it had been lived in for a long time—love centered with it (children born there and gone out perhaps into the world to build a home of their own — happiness, sorrow as well, experienced, and all those many thinks that make a home endeared.

The little baby things, that a mother sets aside, to save and treasure, never could be for sale. You will recall that phrase in the Bible where it is written that "a good name is rather to be chosen that great riches." No one has ever been able to put a price upon a good name—and such a one is not for sale, though there are intances where it has been sold. Rarely, however. And then only for "a mess of pottage!"

Spiritual power is not for sale, nor is the appreciation that one has for beauty, character, and friends. These are beyond price. They are the essentials that go to make up happiness, and even those who may live in povery, may still not be poor, but rich in these intangible possessions. Love is a free gift to us all!

I believe it was the poet Lowell who said we were taxed for the very ground that we finaylly lie in but we are not taxed for innumerable sights of beauty — gardens, landscapes, the heavens at night, sunrises and sunsets, or for masterpieces of art in our great galleries and public buildings. There are more things free in this world than we are ever able to buy with money

Long-Range Study Need Not Delay Some Labor Legislation

Hearings, expected to continue for six weeks, on proposals for new Federal labor legislation, have been started by the Senate Labor Committee. One of the first witnesses was the committee's former chairman Senator Murray, Democrat, from Montana. He argued for a special commission, as proposed by President Truman, to make an extensive study of labor-management relations. He with other Democrats, among them Senators Pepper of Florida and Thomas of Utah, are sponsors of a resolution to create such a commission.

We think their real hope is to stall off and if possible prevent action by Congress on corrective labor legislation. When Messrs. Murray, Pepper, Thomas and other Democrats controlled the Labor Committee they did their utmost to smother any legislation opposed by union leaders and union lobbyists. Usually they succeeded. Its findings could be a valuable blueprint for sound future policies. But that doesn't mean that the Murrays, Peppers and Thomases should be allowed to delay legislation needed to correct certain obvious and dangerous abuses.

Six weeks of hearings by the Senate Labor Committee, and other hearings by the corresponding House Committee, should give Congress enough information for wise action on the most urgent labor measures before it. A long-range commission study, if authorized, must be on the level—not a trick to cause inaction or delay.

Having received 80,000 tons of American food in December, it should be hard to convince the German people there is no Santa Claus.

Garden Enthusiasts In No Quandry Over Plans

With planning time for the coming season approaching all too swiftly, amateur vegetable growers who garden not for the love of it but for purely practical reasons are in something of a quandary. The question is whether it will be worth while, in terms of the return they can expect from their labor, to dig up a plot this year. And the answer is elusive.

They also will want to put more effort on improvement in home surroundings—more effort on lawns, ornamentals, and trees. This is gardening in its broadest sense.

But by his call to farmers to increase acreage to achieve another record food output may mean that government experts do not expect a food surplus this year. So it seems reasonable to believe that prices of most things Americans eat will remain at a comparative high level. In that case a vegetable garden can help to relieve the strain on the family pocketbook.

This conclusion seems to be subject to some discount in view of price predictions made by the Department of Commerce economists the other day. According to that forecast, a number of food items are headed toward lower prices and vegetables, in particular, will be considerably cheaper by Summer. If things turn out that way, a garden could cost more in time than it produces.

But if those who garden for their budget's sake hardly know what to do, it is different with the confirmed enthusiast. He is perfectly confident that he will reap rich material rewards and with them something better—the pleasure of drawing up his plans, the challenge of putting it into effect despite difficulties, the thrill of seeing the reluctant earth fruitful under his hand.

He knows already that in a little more than two months' time he will have his peas planted where they belong.

A new star weighs 620 tons per cubic inch and has a temperature of 28,000 degrees, it is estimated. If these figures are in error, then what?

An Earned Tribute

When one makes a hobby of a useful form of activity, particularly when it tends to promote morality and benefits the public, he instinctively gains the esteem of his fellow citizens. That obviously is the logic on which the Philadelphia Junior Board of Commerce predicated the award of its Distinguished Service Key to Robert R. M. Carpenter, Jr., thereby designating him as the young man who made the most conspicuous contribution to civic and community life in Philadelphia in 1946.

The Philadelphia Club of the National Baseball League, of which Mr. Carpenter is president and owner, last season moved up from last position, where it had been entrenched for many years, to fifth place in the league standing. This task was accomplished in the face of difficulties through the efforts of Mr. Carpenter and his staff.

According to the citation accompanying the award, Mr. Carpenter, by admitting free more than 85,000 youngsters to the Phillies' games last year, made a worthy contribution to the well-being of youth and toward the curbing of juvenile delinquency.

Citations such as this one for community service are an encouragement to civic-mindedness. They remind the thousands engaged in efforts outside of their immediate occupation that people do appreciate what they are doing.

INDOORS AND OUT ON COLD DAYS

LOWER animals such as fish, amphibia, and reptiles are not provided with an internal thermostat. Hence, in a cold atmosphere, their activities and metabolic processes are slowed down considerably because of a fall in body temperature. Mammals and birds, however, possess a mechanism that maintains a fairly constant internal level, even when the temperature of the external environment drops to 60 degrees F. below or rises to 120 degrees F. above zero.

But because of the ability of the tissues of the higher animals to remain within a relatively even reading, marked alterations may prove dangerous. Cold-blooded vertebrates can tolerate a body temperature of well below 80 degrees F. but mammals could not survive degrees lower than 80 or higher than 110.

The heat-regulating center located in the thalamus, helps us adjust to our environment. In cold weather, the escape of heat is prevented by constriction of the blood vessels, the cessation of perspiration, and increased muscle tension. But man must assist nature by providing fuel, warming the living and working quarters, and wearing suitable clothing. Most of us have learned by experience not to place too great a strain on the heat control apparatus. On bitter days, many bundle up to the eyebrows but immediately on entering a building, gloves, scarves, and outer garments are shed. In this way, city dwellers remain comfortable.

Those who are exposed to the elements for longer periods, such as hunters, farmers, and winter sports addicts, are faced with a different problem. At intervals they feel the need of warming up and come indoors without removing heavy packets or sweaters. Many hover over a stove or radiator. As a result, the skin flushes and the sweat glands begin to secrete. When the tissues become heated, the system starts dissipating the excess. On returning to the outside, the process continues and in short order the individual becomes chilled to the bone and starts shivering.

Had the top layers been thrown off while in the shelter, perspiration would not have occurred. Sweating can be minimized also by avoiding alcoholic and stimulating drinks. These beverages are not harmful to the person who expects to remain inside but are inadvisable for the one who is going out again in a short time. Additional precautions consist of changing from wet to dry garments and staying indoors only long enough to regain minimal comfort.

It is sometimes better to judge the amount of clothing by the type of activity anticipated rather than the mercury reading. Youngsters going out to skate or indulge in other forms of physical exertion are frequently overdressed. In consequence, perspiration ensues, leading to excess loss of energy. Thus chilling is more pronounced than if too few garments had been worn. Moreover, the excess hinders movements, making the wearer work harder. [illegible] induces sweating, and when [illegible] child rests between spurts of [illegible] he is likely to become shivery [illegible] lose interest in the game. If mother wants him to stay out longer, he will feel abused because he is uncomfortable.

A SCREAM FOR DOTTIE

We just finished shooting "My Favorite Brunette" and I'd like to mention a little incident that took place while we were doing the picture.

There's one scene where Dorothy Lamour is held prisoner by a big moron. No—I'm not in that scene. Lon Chaney plays the part. Dottie was supposed to look frightened during these scenes and Director Elliott Nugent rehearsed her again and again in screaming and looking terrified, but he couldn't get the right effect.

Nugent told the actors to take a five minute rest, walked to the phone and called the Lamour home. He returned in a few minutes and reassembled the cast for the shooting.

"Action," said Nugent from behind the camera. "Look straight over my shoulder when you talk, Dottie."

Dottie started to speak, took one look over Nugent's shoulder, and gave out with a scream that would make Johnny Weismuller rise in envy.

It was just what the director wanted.

Smiling, Nugent walked over to Dottie and said, "You really looked terrified that time. You've been rehearsing by yourself."

"Rehearsing nothing," replied Dottie, "I just saw that clock on the wall—I'm late for my appointment at the hairdresser's."

With the day's shooting done, Dottie left for the hairdresser's and Nugent walked over to set the clock back to the right time.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—There was some irate backstage scrambling on Capitol Hill last week when Senator Glen Taylor, Democrat, of Idaho, stepped in to stop passage of Senate resolution 5—an innocuous looking measure which would permit alcohol and syrup to be distilled in the same plant.

Several Senators scurried across the floor to ask Taylor why he wanted to block the resolution, the most furious of them being stocky, likable Republican Hugh Butler of Nebraska. Butler was the author of the stymied resolution, but that only tells part of the story.

The whole story is that this special piece of legislation was being rushed through a Congress, supposed to be busy with labor -tax - budget problems, merely to benefit one alcohol plant in the entire United States.

And that one plant happens to be operated by Senator Butler's former partner plus other powerful Nebraska Republicans. Furthermore, Butler's old grain company has had an exclusive contract with the alcohol company, which he was trying to aid, to buy all the grain it consumes.

In other words, Butler's former partner helps to run the company, Butler's former grain-buying concern buys grain for the company, while Butler himself pushes legislation for the company on the floor of the U. S. Senate.

The alcohol plant in question is the Farm Crops Processing Corporation of Omaha, which leased an $8,000,000 government-built plant to make wartime alcohol, and is rated as having done a good war job. However, the war job is over and it is now selling to Seagrams, meanwhile, its war operations have been under scrutiny by the OPA and other Government agencies because of its contract with the Butler-Welsh Grain Company (Senator Butler's former firm) to purchase all its grain for distilling purposes.

Butler Firm Criticised

Commenting on this in a special investigation report in 1945, the OPA stated:

"As the Butler-Welsh Grain Company buys all of the grain, except malt, consumed by the Farm Crops Processing Corp., there is a tie-in of managements of the two companies through J. L. Welsh (ex-partner of Sen. Butler). This raises a question in our mind concerning the propriety as well as the necessity for the cost of a grain-buying intermediary in an operation of this size under cost-plus."

What the OPA report referred to was the fact that the Farm Crops company was operating on a cost-plus contract, and any additional amounts paid to the Butler-Welsh concern for buying grain, would be added to the Government's total bill.

Continuing, the OPA report stated;

"In November 1940, Senator Butler was elected U. S. Senator and shortly thereafter disposed of his and his deceased wife's interests to Welsh (his partner) and D. O. Aller in exchange for personal notes."

Questioned by this columnist as to whether he still owned any interest, direct or indirect, in his old grain firm, Senator Butler said that he had retained the privilege of reacquiring his stock under certain conditions but that he had no financial interest in the company. He also stated that in June 1942 he had repurchased one-quarter of the company and given it to Doane College, Crete Nebraska, for a scholarship fund.

He explained that D. O. Aller, who had taken over part of Butler's interest in the grain company, was almost an adopted son and helped him with business matters for many years.

Butler's Company Profited

The Butler-Welsh Company holds a membership on the Denver, Omaha and Chicago Grain Exchanges, and operates grain elevators at South Omaha, Nebraska City, with two at Council Bluffs, Ia. According to the OPA report, the company made a net profit for the fiscal year 1944 of $194,889.

"How much of the above profits constituted commission, grain profits and elevator earnings on grains handled for Farm Crops was not ascertained," continued the OPA report. "But it has been calculated that on purchases of 4,944,614 bushels of grain at 1 cent per bu. on corn, 1-½ cents per bu. on wheat and rye, and 2 cents per cwt. on sorghums during 1944, the aggregate would be $63,532.18.

"At the instance of the accounting department," OPA reported, "the Omaha OPA office made an examination of Butler-Welsh grain transactions and reported that apparently there were no violations of the maximum price regulations. This did not, of course, have any bearing on the question of whether an officer may properly derive any personal benefit through procurement of distillery materials under cost-plus . . . .

"According to our observation, it is unusual for grain buying in an operation of this size to be handled entirely through brokers."

That, however, was exactly what happened. Not only did the company of which Senator Butler's partner is an important officer buy grain through the old Butler firm, but on top of this, Senator Butler last week was virtually being the company's personal lobbyist on the Senate floor, in attempting to pass a resolution permitting alcohol companies also to make syrup.

For years the Treasury has banned manufacture of syrup in the same plant with alcohol, for fear syrup grains would be converted surreptitiously into alcohol. This ban was suspended during wartime; now Butler is demanding passage of a resolution suspending it for seven months more.

$400,000 Owed Uncle Sam

Meanwhile, Treasury officials point out that the Farm Crops company is the only plant in the nation which also wants the right to make syrup, even though it is no longer on a war footing. (It now sells chiefly to Seagrams and the Glenmore Company in Kentucky.) Officials also say that the company has not been using surplus potatoes, as claimed on Capitol Hill, but corn.

Another interesting angle is that the Omaha plant is now in the middle of a wrangle with the OPA over how much money it owes the Government. OPA claims it owes a neat little $400,000, and one item in this disputed amount is especially interesting.

On cost-plus contracts, a private company is not permitted to charge the Government for royalties on any patents owned by officers of the firm. However, OPA officials state that three officers of Farm Crops signed their names to a claim in an effort to collect money from the Government for royalties.

The company has put a former OPA official, Morris Vailes, on its payroll to battle out its financial argument with the OPA.

This is the whole picture regarding the company for the benefit of which Senator Butler tried to rush through a special resolution last week.

Plans For One New Washington, Somewhere, Urged For Security.

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26—Everyone who has seen the Pentagon Building here is astounded at its thousands of rooms, its miles of corridors and its acres of windows. Most thinking people breathlessly gasp and ask: "But why did they build the headquarters of the U. S. Army at this exposed location on the Atlantic Seaboard? Why didn't they build it in the center of the country where it would be much freer from bombing or revolution?"

Decentralization Our Only Security

The same question can be asked about the great Agricultural Department buildings;—they certainly should be in the Central West probably in Kansas which is the geographical center of the country. The Interior Department buildings should be in Kansas or Colorado; certainly not in Washington, D. C. Let us remember that the only reason for the Capital being at Washington, D. C., is because that location then was the real center of the Thirteen Colonies which made up the original nation.

There is a debatable question as to whether all Departments should gradually be moved to one new central location in the West, or whether our Capital should be split up into perhaps a half-dozen smaller capitals,—so that "all of our eggs are not in one basket." I am inclined to the latter view; but the important thing is to lay plans immediately to start at least one New Washington somewhere. Let us not wait until World War III comes when our present Washington will probably be destroyed.

Babson Makes Suggestions

It might be well for the present to leave the Executive Department at the White House and leave Congress at the present Capital Building. The Executive Offices need much more room and they could take over the Treasury Building; but the State Department could remain where it now is. The Pentagon Building should be turned over to the Navy which should continue to have headquarters on the Seaboard.

The Treasury Department could be moved to Fort Knox (where all of our gold now is) or to some other place in the Middle West which would be convenient for all concerned. The same applies to the Post Office Department, the Justice Department, the Labor Department and the Commerce Department. It is unsafe, unfair and inefficient to have them all cooped up in Washington as at present. Moreover, if there ever is a communist revolution in America, it will be centered in the large cities of the East. Hence, in addition to maintaining Old Washington for certain departments, we should immediately begin to build one or more "New Washingtons." These should be in the Central West, all connected together by new government-owned radio, airplane and underground cable systems.

Fairness To Pacific Coast

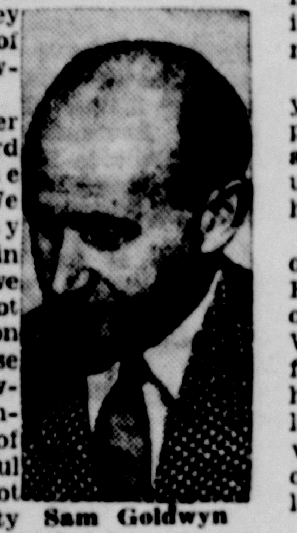
Few people realize the great empire which is gradually arising on the Pacific Coast and in Texas. If the population of these four states continues to increase in the same proportion to the entire population, these four states in 30 or 40 years will have a majority of the Congressmen. This certainly would result in moving the Capital to the Central West. Hence, why not begin moving now and be fair to the Pacific Coast and the Southwest?

I have been assured that if the move was up to the Senate alone, the change would be made at once because each state would then have the same number of votes. All would be equally interested in a central location. Only because the Eastern States now have so many more members in the House does the Capital remain on the Atlantic Seaboard.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I think Sam Goldwyn needs a good press agent.

Recently, a bunch of theatre guys were sitting around Toots Shor's. We got to chinning about the fellows who currently are turning out the great hunks of entertainment. We talked about Oscar Hammerstein, Leo McCarey, Gar Kanin, Alfred Hitchcock. No one mentioned Sam Goldwyn. People are so used to thinking of him as Mr. Malaprop that they forget he's one of the great showmen of all time.



Sam Goldwyn

I can remember when Henry Ford got the same treatment. We were so busy giggling at Tin Lizzie stories, we darn near forgot the contribution of the man whose mechanical know-how revolutionized the habits of of a nation. Paul Revere's ride got so much publicity that very few remember he was our most talented silversmith.

Sam Goldwyn is up the same creek. Not many of the people who pass along Goldwyn gags realize that he was largely responsible for the infant movie business putting on long pants.

When he started, the flicker fare of the country was the custard pie comedy and the big dramatic moment was a Keystone cop falling in a cement mixer. It was Sam who decided that movies should be written by writers—rather than relatives. From Maeterlinck to Robert Sherwood, he's had them all. Somebody once said if Shakespeare were alive today, he'd be working for Sam Goldwyn.

We've all heard the stories about Goldwyn, the shrewd businessman. We're apt to forget how daringly he sends it in when he's on the firing line. In an old Sidney Howard picture, he had them re-shoot a scene at a cost of twenty thousand bucks because he wanted to change one word in it. He once scrapped a finished picture called "Nana" and did it over—he thought he could do it better.

He got the great Ziegfeld to work for him—a pretty good trick. When Ziggy objected to the girls Goldwyn had picked, Sam challenged Flo to do better. The Great Gorifier went back to New York and spent months assembling a line of pretties. He brought them to Hollywood and stood them up alongside Sam's girls. Flo admitted the Goldwyn gals were more beautfiul. That group of cuties included Virginia Bruce and a kid named Paulette Goddard.

Sam walked into my cabret three years ago, spotted a blonde girl playing straight for a trick horse and signed her. A year later I woke up to the fact that Virginia Mayo had worked for me.

He doesn't produce his pictures over an intercommunication system. His thumbprint is on every frame of film from the Title to the "This." When Robert Montgomery made his first screen test, the wise guys said he was no good—his neck was too long. Goldwyn looked at it and salvaged an important career with one sentence: "His neck isn't too long—his collars are too short."

Operating in an industry which would rather insult your intelligence than admit you had any, Sam has refused to make pictures for that "12-year-old average mind." "Arrowsmith," "These Three," "Dodsworth," "Wuthering Heights"—pretty classy for a fellow whose book-larnin' consisted of one year in night school.

This piece is going to hit a lot of breakfast tables around the country. At one of those tables, somebody may look up from his scrambled eggs and say, "This Goldwyn is quite a fellow."

Ten to one, his wife will come back with, "Did you hear about the time he said, 'We can get all the Indians we need from off a reservoir'?"

Last night I saw his new picture, "The Best Years of Our Lives." From Barnum to Belasco, from Frohman to the Theatre Guild, any showman would be proud to hang that trinket on his watch chain.

As I was saying a few hundred words back, what Sam Goldwyn needs is a good press agent.

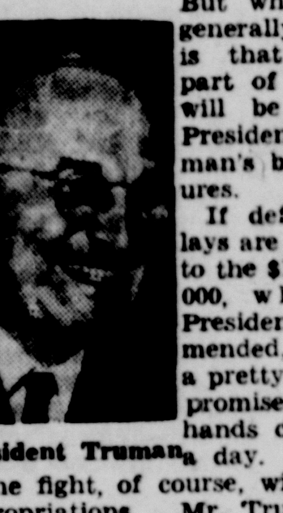
INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (CP)—A battle is shaping up in Congress over national defense expenditures.



President Truman

But what is not generally realized is that a good part of the fight will be to raise President Truman's budget figures.

If defense outlays are held down to the $11,256,000,000, which the President recommended, it will be a pretty fair compromise and all hands can call it a day.

The fight, of course, will be over appropriations. Mr. Truman asked Congress to vote an additional $10,041,000,000 for national defense. If Congress votes that much, the Army and Navy can spend $11,256,000,000. If Congress votes less, the armed servies cannot spend that much.

Naturally, there is a chunk of holdover money, and this accounts for the difference.

Actually, the president did some pretty mean budget-cutting before he drew up his figures. He trimmed the Army's request by $1,500,000,000 and the Navy's by $2,000,000,000.

There was a lot of wailing over the president's own axe-swinging job. Top Army and Navy officials and the War and Navy secretaries pleaded eloquently. But the president was adamant.

Now Congress will hear the wails when it knuckles down to the budget-preperation job. It will be under such pressure to raise the president's recommendations that there is a good prospect it will decide to let well enough alone and accept them.

Some Washington legal experts believe that Justice Fred Vinson may hold the key to the supreme court's decision in the contempt case against John L. Lewis.

These attorneys see Justices Black, Murphy, Douglas and Rutledge lined up for the miners, and Justices Reed, Frankfurter, Burton and Jackson arrayed against Lewis.

Such a line-up would leave Vinson with the all-important deciding vote.

One coal industry attorney expressed the opinion that the $3,510,000 fine levied against Lewis and the UMW by the lower court will be moderated considerably.

He contended that Lewis certainly was in contempt of the district court injunction against the coal walkout, but expressed belief that the supreme court would find mitigating circumstances in his disobedience.

For example, the high tribunal might hold that the injunction was illegal, as Lewis argues, under the Norris-LaGuardia act.

Affable, hard-hitting Senator Kenneth Wherry (R) of Nebraska agreed that the organization meeting of the Senate appropriations committee fell on his "bad days."

Wherry was perhaps the leading critic of the state department in the old Congress and fervently hoped he would draw the chairmanship of the state, commerce and justice subcommittee on appropriations.

But the appropriations committee assigned chairmanships by seniority and Senator Joseph H. Ball (R) of Minnesota slighty outranked Wherry. That was the first blow.

Wherry could have had the Navy chairmanship, but he overheard Senator Chan Gurney (R) of South Dakota, chairman of the armed service committee remark that it would be a good idea to give it to Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R) of Massachusetts.

Wherry decided that Saltonstall, rich with naval knowledge and traditions, was a good man to bow to. He passed up the Navy spot and said he would take the interior department chairmanship.

He thought he had everyone except himself completely happy until Senator Guy Cordon (R) of Oregon began to needle him for not having taken the Navy chairmanship. Cordon, it developed, wanted interior just as badly as Wherry originally had wanted to be in charge of state department hearings.

NOT FOR SALE

The world is full of bargainers, but there are many things that are not for sale at any price. I have a beautiful Whistler print that I purchased many years ago. A man heard that I had it and came to see me, hoping to buy it. I told him at once that it was not for sale. But he persisted, offered me far more than it cost, and could not understand why I would not sell. "But I offer you twice as much as you paid for it," he said. It took me a long while to convince him that I would not sell it at any price—for the love that I had for it was not for sale.

There is a certain sadness that comes over me when I see a home for sale. Not the speculative kind, but the home that looks as though it had been lived in for a long time—love centered with it (children born there and gone out perhaps into the world to build a home of their own — happiness, sorrow as well, experienced, and all those many thinks that make a home endeared.

The little baby things, that a mother sets aside, to save and treasure, never could be for sale. You will recall that phrase in the Bible where it is written that "a good name is rather to be chosen that great riches." No one has ever been able to put a price upon a good name—and such a one is not for sale, though there are intances where it has been sold. Rarely, however. And then only for "a mess of pottage!"

Spiritual power is not for sale, nor is the appreciation that one has for beauty, character, and friends. These are beyond price. They are the essentials that go to make up happiness, and even those who may live in povery, may still not be poor, but rich in these intangible possessions. Love is a free gift to us all!

I believe it was the poet Lowell who said we were taxed for the very ground that we finaylly lie in but we are not taxed for innumerable sights of beauty — gardens, landscapes, the heavens at night, sunrises and sunsets, or for masterpieces of art in our great galleries and public buildings. There are more things free in this world than we are ever able to buy with money.

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 26—Patricia Ann Nield, Wiley Ford, received $800 damages from D. G. McDonald, in an order signed by Judge Ernest A. See, in Circuit Court here Saturday.

Patricia Ann was injured when struck by a car driven by McDonald in Wiley Ford January, 1946. She being a minor, the claim was presented by her guardian, John E. Nield. The amount of $800 was tentatively agreed to by her guardian and McDonald, and the matter placed before the court for approval.

Judge See appointed Attorney Howard P. Shores as guardian ad litem for Patricia Ann. After gathering the facts on the accident and the hospital and other expenses to the injured child, Attorney Shores reported to the court that the sum of $800 was fair and reasonable.

The order of the court directed Jacob E. Nield to receipt McDonald for the $800 in full payment for damages claimed because of the accident. He was also directed to pay the hospital, doctors and medical bills and court costs and fees, amounting to approximately $400, and to use the balance for the use of Patricia Ann Nield, according to legal requirements.

Judge See signed a decree granting a divorce to Irene E. Oates from W. Jennings Oates. Mrs. Oates was given the custody of their two sons James L. Oates, 12, and William Jennings Oates, 10.

Training Courses Taken By Veterans In Garrett County

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md. Jan. 26—A summary of part of the activities of the Oakland office of the Maryland State Employment Service for 1946 indicates that a total of 437 persons were placed in various industries, 244 of which were veterans of World War II. Of the 244 veterans placed, 24 were handicapped. This was announced by Milburn W. Mann, manager of the Oakland office.

A total of 55 emplyers in Garrett County have been approved for on-the-job training for veterans, and to date 75 veterans of World War II are receiving this training in garages, stores, carpenter shops, banks, machine shops and various other types of business. Some of the trades or professions being taught are store manager, meat cutter, automobile machinist, refrigeration mechanic, plumber, blacksmith, stonemason, bookkeeper, machinist, vulcanizer, electrician, undertaker and others.

It was estimated that about 60 veterans of World War II are receiving training in colleges or trade schools under the provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

There were 461 active applications on file as of January 1, 1947 366 of this number being veterans of World War II.

If the proposed recreational development and other proposed building projects get under way within the next few months, many persons in Garrett County will be employed on these projects and reduce unemployment in the area, Mr. Mann predicted.

He said itinerant service is maintained on a weekly basis at three towns, Kitzmiller, Grantsville and Friendsville, in addition to the Oakland office being open Monday through Friday of each week.

ppointment of a new field assistant by the veterans employment service for Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, to promote job opportunities for veterans was announced by Mr. Mann. Damages Of $800 Awarded By Court To Patricia Nield

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 26—Patricia Ann Nield, Wiley Ford, received $800 damages from D. G. McDonald, in an order signed by Judge Ernest A. See, in Circuit Court here Saturday.

Patricia Ann was injured when struck by a car driven by McDonald in Wiley Ford January, 1946. She being a minor, the claim was presented by her guardian, John E. Nield. The amount of $800 was tentatively agreed to by her guardian and McDonald, and the matter placed before the court for approval.

Judge See appointed Attorney Howard P. Shores as guardian ad litem for Patricia Ann. After gathering the facts on the accident and the hospital and other expenses to the injured child, Attorney Shores reported to the court that the sum of $800 was fair and reasonable.

The order of the court directed Jacob E. Nield to receipt McDonald for the $800 in full payment for damages claimed because of the accident. He was also directed to pay the hospital, doctors and medical bills and court costs and fees, amounting to approximately $400, and to use the balance for the use of Patricia Ann Nield, according to legal requirements.

Judge See signed a decree granting a divorce to Irene E. Oates from W. Jennings Oates. Mrs. Oates was given the custody of their two sons James L. Oates, 12, and William Jennings Oates, 10.

Dircks And Metz Clash At Armory Tonight

ETO Heavy Tests Local KO Artist In 5-Round Bout

Porter Faces Catanese In SCAC's Third Show

Billy Dircks, a full-fledged heavyweight, who tips the scales well over the 200 mark, and the much lighter but sharp-punching Frank Metz, whose claim to ring glory was two knockouts in as many starts last season, will collide tonight at the state armory in the five-round feature match of the South Cumberland Athletic Club's third amateur fistic carnival of the 1946-47 season.

When big fellows meet anything is liable to happen and that's the way the Dircks-Metz affair shapes up. Dircks is the heavier and the smarter of the two men and has been installed as the favorite.

The former GI, who performed brilliantly as a boxer in the European Theater of Operations, made his home debut last March and stopped Dave Kidsy, Negro heavy of the Mooncrest A.C., of Coraopolis, Pa., in three rounds at SS. Peter and Paul gym before what is believed to be the largest crowd that has ever witnessed an amateur ring show in Cumberland.

Metz should find Dircks a much tougher foe that Donnie Keiser and Buck Shober, whom he belted out in his only starts last year.

Catanese Faces Porter

Presley "Red" Mauk, matchmaker, has paired Jimmie Catanese and Bobby Porter, who belted the daylights out of each other three weeks ago, for a return watch which will likely precede the main go. Porter lost the decision in the January 6 Police Boys' Club but one of his mighty lefts almost upset Catanese and the dope in the second round of that match. Jim and Bobby are two of the busiest local simon pure millers and they're crowd pleasers because they always fight.

Mauk figures on a card of eight bouts and among some of the other scrappers who may be seen in action are Jimmie Klosterman, clever junior welterweight; Bobby Goss, local flyweight, who has marked up seven consecutive wins; Paul Lepley, Mike Leslie, Eugene Mann, Lester Lee, Bobby Meyers, Melvin "Kid" Washington, Medford Nicholson, Tommy Dunn, Bill Jones and Ressley Tressler, the 200-pounder from Meyersdale, Pa., who would like to swap punches with any novice who'll accept the challenge.

Ninth Show of Season

The show is the ninth of the season here and the bouts will be handled by James E. Kelley, Jr. Howard "Red" Bush and Ross W. Prysock will be the judges, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Col. Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

NICKNAME CONTEST CLOSES SATURDAY

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26—The contest conducted by the new Baltimore Professional Football Club to determine its official nickname entered its final week, yesterday and closes next Saturday, February 1, at midnight. Any fan wishing to enter a suggestion for the name is urged to do so at once and should file his name entry accompanied by an explanation of fifty words or less at the Club's offices in the Emerson Hotel.

Swelling the list of prizes to be distributed among the winners and runners-up, a local firm yesterday announced the contribution of a six-way floor lamp which will be given to the first place winner. The contest is being judged by a committee composed of Paul Menton, Jesse Linthicum, Norman Clark, Jr., Bailey Goss, Nelson Baker, Eddie Fenton, Nick Campofreda, Bill Dyer, Paul Swindell and S. Lawrence Hammerman.

Other first place prizes will be fifty-yard line season tickets to the seven Baltimore home games in the municipal stadium, a fifty dollar savings bond, and an autographed All-America Conference football to be given by the Club; plus a console radio donated by a local brewery company.

The name contest committee will meet Tuesday night at the Emerson for the second in a series of eliminations, thus reducing the surviving suggestions to workable proportions. Fifty-three different suggestions remain after the first elimination meeting last week.

The ultimate winner will be determined as soon as possible after the close of the contest next Saturday night.

Is it possible to put FRESH RAW LIVER IN DRY DOG FOOD?

yes! BRESKO

DOG FOOD NOW HAS IT

We have discovered a special new process, by which we cook fresh raw liver into the famous BRESKO, making it even more palatable and more nourishing than ever.

BRESKO is a correct blend of the needed meat meal vitamins and other essentials.

Don't confuse Fresh Raw Liver with Liver Meal. Fresh Raw Liver is vastly better since the valuable liver juices are preserved. Liver is invaluable for body and blood building in certain dietary deficiencies.

To give your dog the benefit of this essential food to the fullest degree, you must give him BRESKO. He'll like it so well that he'll beg you for more.

TOP SCAC CARD — Billy Dircks, above, ETO heavyweight boxer, will test Frank Metz, local K. O. artist, in the five-round main go, and Jimmie Catanese, below, busy local lightweight, will engage in his 14th match since getting his army discharge, when he meets Bobby Porter over the three - round route in tonight's amateur show of the South Cumberland Athletic Club at the state armory. It will be Porter's 15th amateur bout. The show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Ben Hogan Scores In Phoenix Open

Wins With 270 Score, Annexes $2,000 Prize

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26 — (AP) — Blazin' Ben Hogan, little Mr. Big of golf, shattered par and the hopes of rivals today to win the $10,000 Phoenix open tournament with a 72 - hole score of 270. He successfully defended the title he won a year ago, beating out a formidable field.

Ben Hogan

U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangum of Chicago and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., tied for second place with scores of 277.

Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., "hot shot" via Fort Worth, Tex., finished in real championship fashion, clipping two strokes off par with his 36-33--69. He shaded standard figures by 14 shots over the four rounds to set a new tournament record for the contest.

Last year's new mark of 273 was held jointly by Hogan and Herman Kaiser of Akron, O., Hogan winning the playoff with a 68 to a 70. Kaiser, incidentally, failed to finish this year, withdrawing after shooting 219 for 54 holes.

Hogan put together rounds of 67-64-70-69, always under par. His second round 64 equalled the competitive course record set in 1946 by Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn.

The victory, second of the winter tournament swing for the diminutive shotmaker, netted him $2,000. He won the Los Angeles Open three weeks ago.

At the peak of his game, Hogan will tee off as the favorite in the $10,000 72-hole Tucson Open starting next Thursday.

Mangrum managed to pick up two strokes on the leader in the third round but Hogan pulled away when the field turned into the home stretch.

Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., finished a shot behind Mangrum and Oliver, carding a final 278. E. J. Harrison of York, Pa., first round leader with a 65, failed to land in the money, with a total of 286.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., was low amateur with 285.

Each team has won its first two games in the second half race, the Moose passers downing the Amvets, 60-55, and the Paw Paw Legion, 55-39, while Fulton Myers took the measure of the Knights of Columbus 54-44 and Lonaconing's first half champions, 47-46.

Gilbert Becker will officiate.

Three other games are on tonight's schedule.

Three Other Games Listed

James P. Love Post, Lonaconing, will be host to the Cumberland Amvets at Central High School, Lonaconing; Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, will play the American Legion quint at Paw Paw, W. Va., and the Knights of Columbus will journey to Mt. Savage to battle the V.F.W. at Mullaney's hall.

Wednesday night the Moose and K. of C. will tangle here while three games will be staged on Thursday. In a twin bill here, the Amvets will play the Cumberland Legion and Fulton Myers will be host to Paw Paw. Mt. Savage will play in Lonaconing.

Legion Forfeits Games

Six games won by Fort Cumberland Post in the first half between December 27 and January 16 were ordered forfeited at yesterday's league meeting at the "Y" because the locals had carried the names of three instead of two professionals on their roster. The names were those of Bob Pence, George Geatz and Lou Bell.

Mt. Savage protested the Legion's second half win of last week but this was disallowed on the ground that Geatz had quit the club after suffering an ankle injury and following his withdrawal Bell and Pence were the only pros on the roster.

Games forfeited by the local Legion were wins scored over Mt. Savage, 48-39; Paw Paw, 68-38; Amvets, 55-50; Fulton Myers, 74-53; K. of C., 50-36, and Moose, 52-49. The five losses dropped the local quint from second to fifth place. With the forfeits included here's how the teams finished:

College Regatta Set For June 21

Events To Be Resumed At Paughkeepsit, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Poughkeepsie regatta, final bigtime sports event to be restored after a wartime lapse, will be resumed on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Saturday, June 21, over the three-mile route.

In addition to the five member schools of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association—Columbia, Cornell, Navy, Pennsylvania and Syracuse—invitations will be extended to other schools in keeping with long-established custom.

Washington, winner of the last regatta in 1941, probably will be asked as will California, Wisconsin, Princeton, Rutgers and M.I.T.

A three-mile junior varsity event and a two-mile freshman race will round out the program for the 45th championship regatta, inaugurated in 1895.

Because of the five-year hiatus, the customary four-mile grind has been reduced by a mile. In 1920 when the classic was resumed after World War I, it was a two-mile event at Lake Cayuga. Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, indicated today when he announced resumption of the event the three-mile race was a temporary measure.

Despite the ascendency of Pacific crews who had won eight of the last nine pre-war events, Cornell's all-time championship record remains the best. The Ithacans having carried off the title 15 times, the last in 1930.

Donate $100 To Fund

Fort Hill High School has donated $100 to the stadium scoreboard fund which now totals $2,272.11, or $727.89 short of the goal. City Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller has donated $5 to the fund for the electric board which will be erected at the stadium.

Bill Dudley May Land Virginia Coaching Job

Bidding For Steeler Backfield Ace Halts

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 26 (AP) — The University of Virginia disclosed tonight that officials have had several "conversations" with Bill Dudley, champion ground gainer of the National Football League, with a view of obtaining the former Virginia All-America as a backfield coach.

Norton G. Pritchett, director of athletics, said he expected Dudley to reach a decision within the next day or two. The Pittsburgh Steeler back won all-America recognition at Virginia in 1941.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—The National Football League meeting, embroiled in plotting 1947 playing schedules, was interrupted temporarily tonight by an unconfirmed report that Bill Dudley will be announced tomorrow as backfield coach at the University of Virginia.

The report was considered good enough to quell active bidding by club owners for the services of Dudley who had informed Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, that he planned to quit the team.

There was no immediate confirmation from the university.

Dudley, the league's champion ground gainer, telephoned the Steelers in Chicago yesterday from Charlottesville, Va., to notify them of his decision to retire, declaring that he would not expose himself to another year of punishment on the gridiron. The 170-pound back who averaged more than 50 minutes a game for the Steelers last season, did say, however, that he would reconsider his retirement plans if he were traded to another club.

Today Rooney was cocking an ear to bids from other league members but withholding any action on them until he has a talk with Dudley first hand to determine what is behind his star's decision.

Ddley, who suffered a knee injury in the Steelers' final game, has two years to go under his present contract. A NFL spokesman said the former University of Virginia halfback "wrote his own ticket" when he returned from the Army Air Forces and re-signed a three-year contract with Pittsburgh prior to last season.

"There are no differences in money," the spokesman said. "Dudley was a marked man on the field because of his fame as a yard gainer, so naturally he took a lot of punishment as workhorse in the Steelers' backfield from the opposition."

Meanwhile, league coaches and owners carried their meeting into overtime attempting to chart an 11-game playing schedule satisfactory to all. The meeting broke up at 3 a. m. today and was resumed early in the afternoon.

Gil Dodds Runs Mile In 4:09.1

Flying Parson To Vie In Millrose Event

By BILL KING

BOSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The double honor of running Boston's fastest indoor mile — 4:09.1 — and being crowned the outstanding competitor in the revived Prout track games failed today to sooth the disappointed Gil Dodds, Boston's famed flying parson.

Notified by meet officials that 17 track writers had voted him the high total of 71 points, eight more than the runner-up in the balloting, George Guida of Villanova, the surprise winner in the "600" event, Dodds made a needless apology for the amazing exhibition he gave after a three years' layoff.

"I was nervous at the start and I soon discovered that my long absence from major competition had affected by sense of timing," he explained.

"Then I was bumped about a bit during the first three laps, but what bothered me the most was my inability to hear the officials call my quarters. The roar of that 12,835 crowd drowned them out."

The perambulating parson — running better than ever before, according to Jack Ryder, his coach—intimated that he would make another assault on his own 4:06.4 record, the time of his farewell 1944 appearance in Chicago, in the Wanamaker Mile in next Saturday's Millrose Meet in New York.

Dodds again will vie with the milers who chased him about the Boston Garden's new $18,000 boards last night, Tommy Quinn, Ed Walsh and Les MacMitchell, who ran behind him in that order. It also is likely that Rune Gustafsson, the Swedish star, who finished fourth on successive nights in a Philadelphia mile race and the Boston "1000," will be a Wanamaker starter.

St. Michael's Surprises

St. Michael's, of Frostburg, sprang a surprise in the K. of C.'s Catholic Youth Organization Basketball League, by defeating SS. Peter and Paul quint here Saturday by the score of 33-24. It was the first setback for SS. Peter and Paul in four starts.

St. Mary's defeated St. Michael's, of Mt. Savage, by the score of 30-28.

The games were played on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Kentucky Rated Most Consistent Basketball Team

Seton Hall Is Leader With 17 Wins In Row

BY TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—This is a time for stock-taking with the college basketball season half over. A quick checkup shows:

1. Kentucky as the most consistent.
2. Oklahoma Aggies and Rhode Island State better than expected.
3. Kansas and Yale as the most disappointing.
4. Seton Hall, Santa Clara and Alabama as the most surprising.
5. New York U. and Temple as the most unpredictable.
6. St. Louis as the "dark horse."

A year ago most of the country's leading coaches at the NCAA and national invitation tournaments in New York picked Kentucky as the likely No. 1 quintet this season. So far Kentucky, with the exception of losing to the Oklahoma Aggies, has fulfilled expectations. Coach Adolph Rupp's lads have won 18 of 19 starts.

The Aggies, minus big seven-foot Bob Kurland, were expected to be a good club, but nowhere as fine as Coach Hank Iba has developed them to date. They have lost only two games. The same held true for Rhode Island minus Ernie Caverly. The Rhodies have only lost once.

Kansas Disappoints

Kansas, winner of 19 of 21 games, and Yale, triumphant in 14 of 15 a year ago, were expected to go places this season, but although Kansas recently whipped Iowa State and Yale upset Cornell, they have disappointed so far.

Seton Hall and Alabama are two of the ten undefeated teams left in the nation with streaks of 17 and 11, respectively. The other eight unbeaten are Marshall 16-0; Kirksville (Mo) 16-0; Duquesne 11-0; Wheaton (Ill) 9-0; West Virginia, 8-0; Washington and Jefferson 7-0; Trinity (Conn) 7-0; and Army 6-0. Once-beaten Santa Clara has become the top independent club on the Pacific Coast.

NYU and Temple are two of the east's top independents, but usually they give their followers "heart failure."

St. Louis Is Dangerous

St. Louis seemed to have hit its stride with a recent triumph over the Oklahoma Aggies and now is regarded as one of the most dangerous teams in the country.

Sectionally this is how the coaches previewed the situation a year ago, compared to the actual current picture:

Eastern Intercollegiate League: A tossup between Yale and Dartmouth. Now: Columbia and Princeton are tied for the lead with Penn half a game behind.

Eastern Independents: A battle between NYU, West Virginia, Holy Cross and Rhode Island, a prediction that has stood up.

Big Nine: Ohio State, Illinois and Iowa favored. Now: Ohio State and Iowa are regarded as out of the running. Illinois upset Wisconsin last night, 63-37, to join Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Minnesota in a ding-dong scrap.

Midwest Independents: Notre Dame and DePaul, although the latter would miss George Mikan. This also has stood up.

Southern Conference: North Carolina expected to get strong opposition from Duke and N. C. State. Fact: Duke and South Carolina tied for the top as North Carolina lost to Maryland. N. C. State and Maryland very much in the running.

Southeastern: Kentucky a standout. Actually Alabama leads with 8-0 compared to Kentucky's 5-0 league mark. However, annual tournament decides championship.

Mid-Atlantic: Muhlenberg and Lafayette expected to battle it out. That's what they are doing.

Three teams dropped out of the unbeaten ranks last week, Eastern Kentucky by Murray (Ky) 45-43; Mankato (Minn) teachers by Moorhead (Minn) 43-38 and Slippery Rock by Westminster (Pa) 57-46.

Suspended in New York some 18 months ago after his fight with Rocky Graziano in the Garden, Green will be making his first appearance in the big arena since then. He will face middleweight Pete Mead of Grand Rapids, Mich., in a ten.

Dircks And Metz Clash At Armory Tonight

Porter Faces Catanese In SCAC's Third Show

Billy Dircks, a full-fledged heavyweight, who tips the scales well over the 200 mark, and the much lighter but sharp-punching Frank Metz, whose claim to ring glory was two knockouts in as many starts last season, will collide tonight at the state armory in the five-round feature match of the South Cumberland Athletic Club's third amateur fistic carnival of the 1946-47 season.

When big fellows meet anything is liable to happen and that's the way the Dircks-Metz affair shapes up. Dircks is the heavier and the smarter of the two men and has been installed as the favorite.

The former GI, who performed brilliantly as a boxer in the European Theater of Operations, made his home debut last March and stopped Dave Kidsy, Negro heavy of the Mooncrest A.C., of Coraopolis, Pa., in three rounds at SS. Peter and Paul gym before what is believed to be the largest crowd that has ever witnessed an amateur ring show in Cumberland.

Metz should find Dircks a much tougher foe that Donnie Keiser and Buck Shober, whom he belted out in his only starts last year.

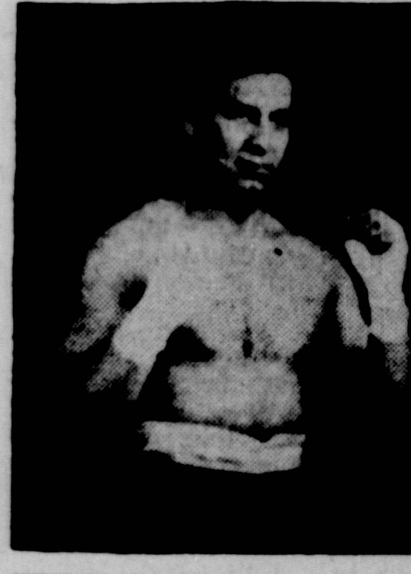
Catanese Faces Porter

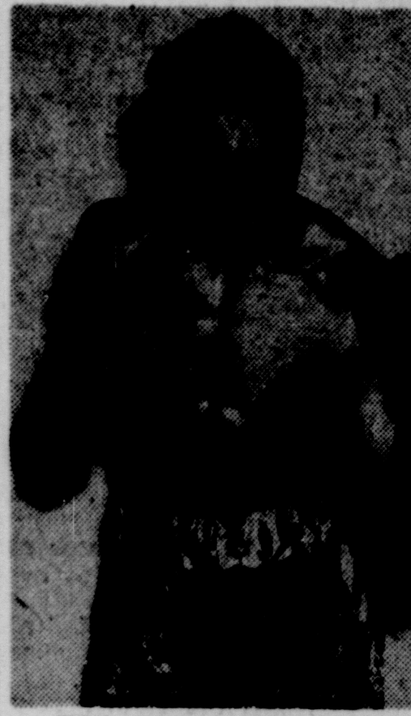
Presley "Red" Mauk, matchmaker, has paired Jimmie Catanese and Bobby Porter, who belted the daylights out of each other three weeks ago, for a return watch which will likely precede the main go. Porter lost the decision in the January 6 Police Boys' Club but one of his mighty lefts almost upset Catanese and the dope in the second round of that match. Jim and Bobby are two of the busiest local simon pure millers and they're crowd pleasers because they always fight.

Mauk figures on a card of eight bouts and among some of the other scrappers who may be seen in action are Jimmie Klosterman, clever junior welterweight; Bobby Goss, local flyweight, who has marked up seven consecutive wins; Paul Lepley, Mike Leslie, Eugene Mann, Lester Lee, Bobby Meyers, Melvin "Kid" Washington, Medford Nicholson, Tommy Dunn, Bill Jones and Ressley Tressler, the 200-pounder from Meyersdale, Pa., who would like to swap punches with any novice who'll accept the challenge.

Ninth Show of Season

The show is the ninth of the season here and the bouts will be handled by James E. Kelley, Jr. Howard "Red" Bush and Ross W. Prysock will be the judges, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Col. Nelson W. Russler, announcer.





TOP SCAC CARD — Billy Dircks, above, ETO heavyweight boxer, will test Frank Metz, local K. O. artist, in the five-round main go, and Jimmie Catanese, below, busy local lightweight, will engage in his 14th match since getting his army discharge, when he meets Bobby Porter over the three - round route in tonight's amateur show of the South Cumberland Athletic Club at the state armory. It will be Porter's 15th amateur bout. The show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

NICKNAME CONTEST CLOSES SATURDAY

BALTIMORE, Jan. 26—The contest conducted by the new Baltimore Professional Football Club to determine its official nickname entered its final week, yesterday and closes next Saturday, February 1, at midnight. Any fan wishing to enter a suggestion for the name is urged to do so at once and should file his name entry accompanied by an explanation of fifty words or less at the Club's offices in the Emerson Hotel.

Swelling the list of prizes to be distributed among the winners and runners-up, a local firm yesterday announced the contribution of a six-way floor lamp which will be given to the first place winner. The contest is being judged by a committee composed of Paul Menton, Jesse Linthicum, Norman Clark, Jr., Bailey Goss, Nelson Baker, Eddie Fenton, Nick Campofreda, Bill Dyer, Paul Swindell and S. Lawrence Hammerman.

Other first place prizes will be fifty-yard line season tickets to the seven Baltimore home games in the municipal stadium, a fifty dollar savings bond, and an autographed All-America Conference football to be given by the Club; plus a console radio donated by a local brewery company.

The name contest committee will meet Tuesday night at the Emerson for the second in a series of eliminations, thus reducing the surviving suggestions to workable proportions. Fifty-three different suggestions remain after the first elimination meeting last week.

The ultimate winner will be determined as soon as possible after the close of the contest next Saturday night.

Is it possible to put FRESH RAW LIVER IN DRY DOG FOOD?

yes! BRESKO DOG FOOD NOW HAS IT

We have discovered a special new process, by which we cook fresh raw liver into the famous BRESKO, making it even more palatable and more nourishing than ever.

BRESKO is a correct blend of the needed meat meal vitamins and other essentials.

Don't confuse Fresh Raw Liver with Liver Meal. Fresh Raw Liver is vastly better since the valuable liver juices are preserved. Liver is invaluable for body and blood building in certain dietary deficiencies.

To give your dog the benefit of this essential food to the fullest degree, you must give him BRESKO. He'll like it so well that he'll beg you for more.

Ben Hogan Scores In Phoenix Open

Wins With 270 Score, Annexes $2,000 Prize

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26 — (AP) — Blazin' Ben Hogan, little Mr. Big of golf, shattered par and the hopes of rivals today to win the $10,000 Phoenix open tournament with a 72 - hole score of 270. He successfully defended the title he won a year ago, beating out a formidable field.

Ben Hogan

U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangum of Chicago and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., tied for second place with scores of 277.

Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., "hot shot" via Fort Worth, Tex., finished in real championship fashion, clipping two strokes off par with his 36-33--69. He shaded standard figures by 14 shots over the four rounds to set a new tournament record for the contest.

Last year's new mark of 273 was held jointly by Hogan and Herman Kaiser of Akron, O., Hogan winning the playoff with a 68 to a 70. Kaiser, incidentally, failed to finish this year, withdrawing after shooting 219 for 54 holes.

Hogan put together rounds of 67-64-70-69, always under par. His second round 64 equalled the competitive course record set in 1946 by Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn.

The victory, second of the winter tournament swing for the diminutive shotmaker, netted him $2,000. He won the Los Angeles Open three weeks ago.

At the peak of his game, Hogan will tee off as the favorite in the $10,000 72-hole Tucson Open starting next Thursday.

Mangrum managed to pick up two strokes on the leader in the third round but Hogan pulled away when the field turned into the home stretch.

Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., finished a shot behind Mangrum and Oliver, carding a final 278. E. J. Harrison of York, Pa., first round leader with a 65, failed to land in the money, with a total of 286.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., was low amateur with 285.

A battle for first place in the Interstate Basketball League is on tap for tonight when the Loyal Order of Moose does battle with Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, on SS. Peter and Paul court at 7:30 o'clock.

Each team has won its first two games in the second half race, the Moose passers downing the Amvets, 60-55, and the Paw Paw Legion, 55-39, while Fulton Myers took the measure of the Knights of Columbus 54-44 and Lonaconing's first half champions, 47-46.

Gilbert Becker will officiate.

Three other games are on tonight's schedule.

Three Other Games Listed

James P. Love Post, Lonaconing, will be host to the Cumberland Amvets at Central High School, Lonaconing; Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, will play the American Legion quint at Paw Paw, W. Va., and the Knights of Columbus will journey to Mt. Savage to battle the V.F.W. at Mullaney's hall.

Wednesday night the Moose and K. of C. will tangle here while three games will be staged on Thursday. In a twin bill here, the Amvets will play the Cumberland Legion and Fulton Myers will be host to Paw Paw. Mt. Savage will play in Lonaconing.

Legion Forfeits Games

Six games won by Fort Cumberland Post in the first half between December 27 and January 16 were ordered forfeited at yesterday's league meeting at the "Y" because the locals had carried the names of three instead of two professionals on their roster. The names were those of Bob Pence, George Geatz and Lou Bell.

Mt. Savage protested the Legion's second half win of last week but this was disallowed on the ground that Geatz had quit the club after suffering an ankle injury and following his withdrawal Bell and Pence were the only pros on the roster.

Games forfeited by the local Legion were wins scored over Mt. Savage, 48-39; Paw Paw, 68-38; Amvets, 55-50; Fulton Myers, 74-53; K. of C., 50-36, and Moose, 52-49. The five losses dropped the local quint from second to fifth place. With the forfeits included here's how the teams finished:

College Regatta Set For June 21

Events To Be Resumed At Paughkeepsit, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Poughkeepsie regatta, final bigtime sports event to be restored after a wartime lapse, will be resumed on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Saturday, June 21, over the three-mile route.

In addition to the five member schools of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association—Columbia, Cornell, Navy, Pennsylvania and Syracuse—invitations will be extended to other schools in keeping with long-established custom.

Washington, winner of the last regatta in 1941, probably will be asked as will California, Wisconsin, Princeton, Rutgers and M.I.T.

A three-mile junior varsity event and a two-mile freshman race will round out the program for the 45th championship regatta, inaugurated in 1895.

Because of the five-year hiatus, the customary four-mile grind has been reduced by a mile. In 1920 when the classic was resumed after World War I, it was a two-mile event at Lake Cayuga. Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, indicated today when he announced resumption of the event the three-mile race was a temporary measure.

Despite the ascendency of Pacific crews who had won eight of the last nine pre-war events, Cornell's all-time championship record remains the best. The Ithacans having carried off the title 15 times, the last in 1930.

Donate $100 To Fund

Fort Hill High School has donated $100 to the stadium scoreboard fund which now totals $2,272.11, or $727.89 short of the goal. City Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller has donated $5 to the fund for the electric board which will be erected at the stadium.

Bill Dudley May Land Virginia Coaching Job

Bidding For Steeler Backfield Ace Halts

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 26 (AP)—The University of Virginia disclosed tonight that officials have had several "conversations" with Bill Dudley, champion ground gainer of the National Football League, with a view of obtaining the former Virginia All-America as a backfield coach.

Norton G. Pritchett, director of athletics, said he expected Dudley to reach a decision within the next day or two. The Pittsburgh Steeler back won all-America recognition at Virginia in 1941.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—The National Football League meeting, embroiled in plotting 1947 playing schedules, was interrupted temporarily tonight by an unconfirmed report that Bill Dudley will be announced tomorrow as backfield coach at the University of Virginia.

The report was considered good enough to quell active bidding by club owners for the services of Dudley who had informed Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, that he planned to quit the team.

There was no immediate confirmation from the university.

Dudley, the league's champion ground gainer, telephoned the Steelers in Chicago yesterday from Charlottesville, Va., to notify them of his decision to retire, declaring that he would not expose himself to another year of punishment on the gridiron. The 170-pound back who averaged more than 50 minutes a game for the Steelers last season, did say, however, that he would reconsider his retirement plans if he were traded to another club.

Today Rooney was cocking an ear to bids from other league members but withholding any action on them until he has a talk with Dudley first hand to determine what is behind his star's decision.

Ddley, who suffered a knee injury in the Steelers' final game, has two years to go under his present contract. A NFL spokesman said the former University of Virginia halfback "wrote his own ticket" when he returned from the Army Air Forces and re-signed a three-year contract with Pittsburgh prior to last season.

"There are no differences in money," the spokesman said. "Dudley was a marked man on the field because of his fame as a yard gainer, so naturally he took a lot of punishment as workhorse in the Steelers' backfield from the opposition."

Meanwhile, league coaches and owners carried their meeting into overtime attempting to chart an 11-game playing schedule satisfactory to all. The meeting broke up at 3 a. m. today and was resumed early in the afternoon.

Gil Dodds Runs Mile In 4:09.1

Flying Parson To Vie In Millrose Event

By BILL KING

BOSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The double honor of running Boston's fastest indoor mile — 4:09.1 — and being crowned the outstanding competitor in the revived Prout track games failed today to sooth the disappointed Gil Dodds, Boston's famed flying parson.

Notified by meet officials that 17 track writers had voted him the high total of 71 points, eight more than the runner-up in the balloting, George Guida of Villanova, the surprise winner in the "600" event, Dodds made a needless apology for the amazing exhibition he gave after a three years' layoff.

"I was nervous at the start and I soon discovered that my long absence from major competition had affected by sense of timing," he explained.

"Then I was bumped about a bit during the first three laps, but what bothered me the most was my inability to hear the officials call my quarters. The roar of that 12,835 crowd drowned them out."

The perambulating parson — running better than ever before, according to Jack Ryder, his coach—intimated that he would make another assault on his own 4:06.4 record, the time of his farewell 1944 appearance in Chicago, in the Wanamaker Mile in next Saturday's Millrose Meet in New York.

Dodds again will vie with the milers who chased him about the Boston Garden's new $18,000 boards last night, Tommy Quinn, Ed Walsh and Les MacMitchell, who ran behind him in that order. It also is likely that Rune Gustafsson, the Swedish star, who finished fourth on successive nights in a Philadelphia mile race and the Boston "1000," will be a Wanamaker starter.

St. Michael's Surprises

St. Michael's, of Frostburg, sprang a surprise in the K. of C.'s Catholic Youth Organization Basketball League, by defeating SS. Peter and Paul quint here Saturday by the score of 33-24. It was the first setback for SS. Peter and Paul in four starts.

St. Mary's defeated St. Michael's, of Mt. Savage, by the score of 30-28.

The games were played on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Kentucky Rated Most Consistent Basketball Team

Seton Hall Is Leader With 17 Wins In Row

BY TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—This is a time for stock-taking with the college basketball season half over. A quick checkup shows:

1. Kentucky as the most consistent.
2. Oklahoma Aggies and Rhode Island State better than expected.
3. Kansas and Yale as the most disappointing.
4. Seton-Hall, Santa Clara and Alabama as the most surprising.
5. New York U. and Temple as the most unpredictable.
6. St. Louis as the "dark horse."

A year ago most of the country's leading coaches at the NCAA and national invitation tournaments in New York picked Kentucky as the likely No. 1 quintet this season. So far Kentucky, with the exception of losing to the Oklahoma Aggies, has fulfilled expectations. Coach Adolph Rupp's lads have won 18 of 19 starts.

The Aggies, minus big seven-foot Bob Kurland, were expected to be a good club, but nowhere as fine as Coach Hank Iba has developed them to date. They have lost only two games. The same held true for Rhode Island minus Ernie Caverly. The Rhodies have only lost once.

Kansas Disappoints

Kansas, winner of 19 of 21 games, and Yale, triumphant in 14 of 15 a year ago, were expected to go places this season, but although Kansas recently whipped Iowa State and Yale upset Cornell, they have disappointed so far.

Seton Hall and Alabama are two of the ten undefeated teams left in the nation with streaks of 17 and 11, respectively. The other eight unbeaten are Marshall 16-0; Kirksville (Mo) 16-0; Duquesne 11-0; Wheaton (Ill) 9-0; West Virginia, 8-0; Washington and Jefferson 7-0; Trinity (Conn) 7-0; and Army 6-0. Once-beaten Santa Clara has become the top independent club on the Pacific Coast.

NYU and Temple are two of the east's top independents, but usually they give their followers "heart failure."

St. Louis Is Dangerous

St. Louis seemed to have hit its stride with a recent triumph over the Oklahoma Aggies and now is regarded as one of the most dangerous teams in the country.

Sectionally this is how the coaches previewed the situation a year ago, compared to the actual current picture:

Eastern Intercollegiate League: A tossup between Yale and Dartmouth. Now: Columbia and Princeton are tied for the lead with Penn half a game behind.

Eastern Independents: A battle between NYU, West Virginia, Holy Cross and Rhode Island, a prediction that has stood up.

Big Nine: Ohio State, Illinois and Iowa favored. Now: Ohio State and Iowa are regarded as out of the running. Illinois upset Wisconsin last night, 63-37, to join Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Minnesota in a ding-dong scrap.

Midwest Independents: Notre Dame and DePaul, although the latter would miss George Mikan. This also has stood up.

Southern Conference: North Carolina expected to get strong opposition from Duke and N. C. State. Fact: Duke and South Carolina tied for the top as North Carolina lost to Maryland. N. C. State and Maryland very much in the running.

Southeastern: Kentucky a standout. Actually Alabama leads with 8-0 compared to Kentucky's 5-0 league mark. However, annual tournament decides championship.

Mid-Atlantic: Muhlenberg and Lafayette expected to battle it out. That's what they are doing.

Three teams dropped out of the unbeaten ranks last week, Eastern Kentucky by Murray (Ky) 45-43; Mankato (Minn) teachers by Moorhead (Minn) 43-38 and Slippery Rock by Westminster (Pa) 57-46.

BEDFORD HIGH IS HOST TO LaSALLE TONIGHT

LaSalle High School's basketeers will play their second of four games this week when they meet Bedford High School's Bisons in a return game tonight at 8:15 o'clock on the Bedford (Pa.) court.

The Explorers opened their season with a 25 to 24 decision over Bedford on December 27 in an overtime battle on SS. Peter and Paul court. The Bisons have won eight of eleven ames played to date.

LaSalle will play at Paw Paw tomorrow at 8 p. m., and will conclude the week by meeting Allegany Friday at 8 on the Campobello court.

No other scholastic games are scheduled for tonight.

Orange Bowl Bouts Set For Tomorrow

Maxim And Belloise Get Florida Fights

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Plenty of action is in store for boxing fans this week with ranking fighters slated to show their stuff in Miami, New York, Chicago and Baltimore.

In Miami's Orange Bowl Tuesday night Joey Maxim of Cleveland will tangle with Washington's Marty Clark in a ten-round heavyweight feature while middleweights Steve Belloise of New York and Izzy Jannazzo of Brooklyn will clash in another ten on the same card.

Ike Williams, NBA lightweight king from Trenton, N. J., takes on Gene Burton of Chicago in a non-title ten rounder at Chicago's Coliseum Monday night. The same evening Curtis (Hatchetman) Sheppard, Pittsburgh Negro heavyweight who is seeking a crack at Joe Louis' title, will swap punches with Sandy McPherson of Tulsa in a ten at Baltimore.

Boxing returns to New York's Madison Square Friday and the top event will be a homecoming affair for Brooklyn's rugged Harold Green. Suspended in New York some 18 months ago after his fight with Rocky Graziano in the Garden, Green will be making his first appearance in the big arena since then. He will face middleweight Pete Mead of Grand Rapids, Mich., in a ten.

Presbyterians Upset St. John's, 21 to 20

Calvary Methodist of Ridgeley remained as the only undefeated team in the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League when it defeated St. Paul's Lutheran, 61-12, while First Presbyterian upset the hitherto unbeaten St. John's Lutheran, 21-20, Saturday, on the "Y" court.

The victory was Calvary Methodist's seventh straight.

Other scores were:

First Methodist 30, Central Methodist 9; St. Luke's 34, Centre Street Methodist, 10; United Brethren 42, Zion Reformed 26; Grace Methodist 19, Episcopal 10; Grace Baptist 21, Wiley Ford 19; St, Mark's 53, Trinity Methodist 29.

Paul Lindsay, of Calvary, and Earle Bruce, of St. Mark's, tied for high scoring honors for the day with 18 points each.

Speaker To Return

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 (AP) — Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians and one of baseball's immortals, will return to the club as an "ambassador of good will," Tribe President Bill Veeck announced today.

"That means he will make speeches and explain to the public what we are trying to do," publicity conscious Veeck explained.

Johnstown Quint Defeats LaSalle By 39-18 Score

Losers Get Four Goals, Three Ejected On Fouls

LaSalle High School's basketball team suffered its eighth defeat of the season yesterday when it went down before the passers of Johnstown Catholic High School at Johnstown, Pa. The score was 39 to 18.

Johnstown racked up 15 fielders and meshed 9 of 19 free throws. LaSalle made 10 points in 16 tries at the charity line.

Plumbers And Jewelers Will Open Second Half

Lapp's Plumbers and Nierman's Jewelers will open the second half championship race in the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League tonight at 9:15 o'clock on the "Y" court.

The Plumbers and Ridgeley Legion were tied for first place at the close of the first half race and a playoff game will be staged to determine the winner.

Other games this week are: Wednesday — Cumberland Heights vs. First Methodist, 9:15. Thursday — Ridgeley Legion vs. B. & O. Back Shop, 8:30, and William Paca Club vs. V.F.W., 9:30.

Man O' War, the famous racing nag, worked hard for three years and has loafed for 27. That, we'd say, shows downright horse sense.

13,900 Is Limit

BOSTON — (AP) — Attendance figures for hockey games at the Boston Garden are always announced as "13,900," because that is the crowd limit allowed by police and fire regulations. Every game the Buins play in the Garden reaches that figure, acording to the National Hockey League. Larger crowds have been packed into the rink in former years, but the 13,900 figure was the capacity limit decided upon after the tragic Cocoanut Grove night club fire in 1942.

Hamer Named To Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — George Hamer, Columbus, Ga., national intercollegiate golf champion, was added officially today to the U. S. Walker Cup Team which meets a British Amateur squad at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17.

Hamer, named as first alternate when the nine-man team was selected by the U. S. Golf Association Jan. 11, replaces Cary Middlecoff, Mamphis, Tenn., who resigned to turn professional.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26—Betty Hutton, stamlined again after the birth of the most wonderful child in the world, quote and unquote is ready to start work February 1. The picture selected for the bombastic blonde has the same title of "The Sainted Sisters," — but there the mildness ends. It's a whoopsie number about a couple of confidence girls who move into a small town to "take" the citizens and wind up being reformed.

Jane Russell

Oddly enough, Btty's two leading men are almost as blonde as she, and I mean John Lund and Sterling Hayden. Lund emoted opposite her in "The Perils of Pauline" but it's the first fling for Sterling—and when you play opposite the strenuous Hutton, it is a FLING. It's Val Lawton's first Para picture since leaving RKO and Mich Leisen directs.

How utterly ridiculous that MGM should be accused of not bringing new talent along and not developing new stars. That's one I can't take lying down. As Al Smith used to say, let's look at the record:

An absolute newcomer, with no previous dramatic training, Janet Leigh will soon be seen as Van Johnson's leading lady in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge."

After a few months of grooming, Beverly Tyler was introduced as a star last year in "The Green Years."

Audrey Totter, brought on from the New York and Chicago radio fields, reached the star blackets in "Lady In The Lake."

Dorothy Patrick, who came here six months ago from Canada, was given the role of Mrs. Jerome Kern in "Till The Clouds Roll By."

Elizabeth Taylor and Claude Jarman were taken out of school rooms to star in "National Velvet" and "The Yearling" respectively.

So they don't develop new stars? How silly can you get?

I'm just as sorry as I can be that the American repertory theatre ran into financial difficulties and is folding, which means that De Witt Bodeen's play, "Harvest of Years," along with others scheduled, has been called off.

De Witt has had many offers for his play from other New York producers, but the American repertory theatre still holds an option. It's very disappointing to him and to all of us who know what a brilliant young playwright he is and shared his happiness when his play, the only American one, was chosen by the high-brow American repertory theatre.

Chit Chat: The most upset person in the world, when the rumor was flashed to America that Jean Gabin was married, was Marlene Dietrich. She left New York after he called her long distance from Paris begging her to come back. Marlene cancelled two New York broadcasts which would have earned hed $4,000 to hurry to Paris and Gabin.

Whether or not he is married to Maria Mauban hasn't yet been definitely established, even though it was printed in a French newspaper.

Marlene and Gabin are very much in each other's company in Paris and she wired her daughter that everything yas all right.

Rudolph Seiber, long estranged husband of Dietrich, is in Switzerland. It wouldn't surprise me if at long last he had Marlene get a divorce and you know what that would mean as well as I do.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Joan Blondell and Mike Todd, more lovey-dovey than ever, at the Beachcombers for dinner. Look out now for a marriage, unless they get to fighting again. . . . Joan Caulfield and Gregory Bautzer are becoming a habit. They were again at Ciro's. Meanwhile Joan Crawford, who came back from Del Monte today, has other interests. . . . You needn't be too surprised if Madeleine Carroll's ex, Sterling Hayden and Betty De Noon, a model, marry. They are admittedly in love. She looks just like Veronica Lake. . . . Billy De Wolfe, one of my favorite comedians and probably yours since "Blue Heaven," is on his way back from Florida, much improved in health, I'm glad to say. . . . There has been editing done on "Duel In The Sun" very quietly, in an effort to eliminate the most objectionable scenes. Too bad David Selznick, who made such fine pictures as "David Copperfield," "Rebecca," "Since You Went Away," and "Gone With The Wind," should have this unfortunate blot on his record. . . . Lorraine Manville Dresselhuys, who is the greatest New York sensation as a debutante beauty since Brenda Frazier, has to have two secretaries to keep her engagements straight. That's doing better than a movie star. . . . The Lou Costellos celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary with a dinner at Earl Carroll's. Bud Abbott and Lou left tonight for the East on a personal appearance tour. . . . Teet Carle and Dean Dorn, veteran press agents, will soon, through Random House, have a mystery thriller, "Nine More Lives," on the market. The hero is a Hollywood stunt man. . . . Jane Russell is turning song bird and is appearing with Kay Keyser on his program. That, I must hear. Kay, Georgia and the baby leave for New York soon, where he will do his shows.

That's all today.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.
Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.
No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at ALL GOOD DRUG STORES. Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!
Writes Mr. Robert Jordan, Colon, Mich.
Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.
Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr Jordan was back on the job.
No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at ALL GOOD DRUG STORES. Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money.
Adv. Oct 28-30-Nov. 4-6-11

13,900 Is Limit

BOSTON — (AP) — Attendance figures for hockey games at the Boston Garden are always announced as "13,900," because that is the crowd limit allowed by police and fire regulations. Every game the Buins play in the Garden reaches that figure, acording to the National Hockey League. Larger crowds have been packed into the rink in former years, but the 13,900 figure was the capacity limit decided upon after the tragic Cocoanut Grove night club fire in 1942.

Hamer Named To Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — George Hamer, Columbus, Ga., national intercollegiate golf champion, was added officially today to the U. S. Walker Cup Team which meets a British Amateur squad at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17.

Hamer, named as first alternate when the nine-man team was selected by the U. S. Golf Association Jan. 11, replaces Cary Middlecoff, Mamphis, Tenn., who resigned to turn professional.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26—Betty Hutton, stamlined again after the birth of the most wonderful child in the world, quote and unquote is ready to start work February 1. The picture selected for the bombastic blonde has the same title of "The Sainted Sisters," — but there the mildness ends. It's a whoopsie number about a couple of confidence girls who move into a small town to "take" the citizens and wind up being reformed.

Jane Russell

Oddly enough, Btty's two leading men are almost as blonde as she, and I mean John Lund and Sterling Hayden. Lund emoted opposite her in "The Perils of Pauline" but it's the first fling for Sterling—and when you play opposite the strenuous Hutton, it is a FLING. It's Val Lawton's first Para picture since leaving RKO and Mich Leisen directs.

How utterly ridiculous that MGM should be accused of not bringing new talent along and not developing new stars. That's one I can't take lying down. As Al Smith used to say, let's look at the record:

An absolute newcomer, with no previous dramatic training, Janet Leigh will soon be seen as Van Johnson's leading lady in "The Romance of Rosy Ridge."

After a few months of grooming, Beverly Tyler was introduced as a star last year in "The Green Years."

Audrey Totter, brought on from the New York and Chicago radio fields, reached the star blackets in "Lady In The Lake."

Dorothy Patrick, who came here six months ago from Canada, was given the role of Mrs. Jerome Kern in "Till The Clouds Roll By."

Elizabeth Taylor and Claude Jarman were taken out of school rooms to star in "National Velvet" and "The Yearling" respectively.

So they don't develop new stars? How silly can you get?

I'm just as sorry as I can be that the American repertory theatre ran into financial difficulties and is folding, which means that De Witt Bodeen's play, "Harvest of Years," along with others scheduled, has been called off.

De Witt has had many offers for his play from other New York producers, but the American repertory theatre still holds an option. It's very disappointing to him and to all of us who know what a brilliant young playwright he is and shared his happiness when his play, the only American one, was chosen by the high-brow American repertory theatre.

Chit Chat: The most upset person in the world, when the rumor was flashed to America that Jean Gabin was married, was Marlene Dietrich. She left New York after he called her long distance from Paris begging her to come back. Marlene cancelled two New York broadcasts which would have earned hed $4,000 to hurry to Paris and Gabin.

Whether or not he is married to Maria Mauban hasn't yet been definitely established, even though it was printed in a French newspaper.

Marlene and Gabin are very much in each other's compay in Paris and she wired her daughter that everything yas all right.

Rudolph Seiber, long estranged husband of Dietrich, is in Switzerland. It wouldn't surprise me if at long last he had Marlene get a divorce and you know what that would mean as well as I do.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Joan Blondell and Mike Todd, more lovey-dovey than ever, at the Beachcombers for dinner. Look out now for a marriage, unless they get to fighting again. . . . Joan Caulfield and Gregory Bautzer are becoming a habit. They were again at Ciro's. Meanwhile Joan Crawford, who came back from Del Monte today, has other interests. . . . You needn't be too surprised if Madeleine Carroll's ex, Sterling Hayden and Betty De Noon, a model, marry. They are admittedly in love. She looks just like Veronica Lake. . . . Billy De Wolfe, one of my favorite comedians and probably yours since "Blue Heaven," is on his way back from Florida, much improved in health, I'm glad to say. . . . There has been editing done on "Duel In The Sun" very quietly, in an effort to eliminate the most objectionable scenes. Too bad David Selznick, who made such fine pictures as "David Copperfield," "Rebecca," "Since You Went Away," and "Gone With The Wind," should have this unfortunate blot on his record. . . . Lorraine Manville Dresselhuys, who is the greatest New York sensation as a debutante beauty since Brenda Frazier, has to have two secretaries to keep her engagements straight. That's doing better than a movie star. . . . The Lou Costellos celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary with a dinner at Earl Carroll's. Bud Abbott and Lou left tonight for the East on a personal appearance tour. . . . Teet Carle and Dean Dorn, veteran press agents, will soon, through Random House, have a mystery thriller, "Nine More Lives," on the market. The hero is a Hollywood stunt man. . . . Jane Russell is turning song bird and is appearing with Kay Keyser on his program. That, I must hear. Kay, Georgia and the baby leave for New York soon, where he will do his shows.

That's all today.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved wife, Helen O. Schaver, who died two years ago today, January 27, 1945.

We shared our joys and sorrows
Through many happy years;
From love my anguish borrows
Some comfort for my tears—
Faith, through the long Tomorrows,
That our reunion nears.
Sadly missed by her HUSBAND

In loving memory of our beloved daughter Sandra Sue Schaver, who died two years ago today, January 27, 1945.

Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.
DADDY.

Law Office Of
C. WILLIAM GILCHRIST
64 Pershing Street, Cumberland, Maryland

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, No. 19829 Equity, Charles W. Weiskettle, Complainant, vs. Mamie Weiskettle, and/or the heirs, known and unknown of the said Mamie Weiskettle, and/or the personal representatives, known or unknown of Mamie Weiskettle, Respondents.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a sale in lieu of partition of certain property in Allegany County, Maryland, which is more particularly described in said proceedings, and for the division of the proceeds thereof among the persons entitled thereto.

The bill states that Charles Weiskettle, late of Allegany County, Maryland, died, seized and possessed of certain property located on the northerly side of Independence Street, in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, which is more particularly described in a deed to the said Charles Weiskettle, from Rachael Beall dated July 22, 1885, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, in Liber No. 62, folio 238.

The said Charles Weiskettle departed this life in 1915, leaving a Last Will and Testament recorded in Wills Liber K, folio 421, among the Wills Records of Allegany County, Maryland; that under the terms of this will, and a certain conveyance from Samuel G. Weiskettle et al to Charles W. Keiskettle, dated January 11, 1937, and recorded in Liber 177, folio 33, among the aforesaid Land Records, the title to the said property has become vested in the parties to said cause of action, as tenants in common; that the said property cannot be divided among those having title thereto without material loss or injury to the property and that a sale of said real estate is for the benefit and advantage of the parties and is necessary in order that the proceeds of sale may be divided among the parties.

That the said Charles W. Weiskettle, the Complainant therein, is an adult resident of Allegany County, Maryland, although temporarily residing without the said State, and that the said Mamie Weiskettle, if living, is believed to be a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address was in the State of Ohio; and that whether or not the said Mamie Weiskettle is living or dead is unknown to the Complainant; and that the marital status and heirs or personal representatives of the said Mamie Weiskettle are unknown, and the present address of such unknown heirs is likewise unknown.

The bill prays for the appointment of a Trustee to make sale of said property under the direction of the Court.

It is thereupon this 17th. day of January, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, that the Complainant, Charles W. Weiskettle, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for 4 successive weeks before the 18th. day of February, 1947, give notice to the said non-residents and/or unknown Respondents of the object and substance of this bill, warning her, or them, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 6th. day of March, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON,
Clerk.

Law Office Of
C. WILLIAM GILCHRIST
64 Pershing Street, Cumberland, Maryland

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, No. 19829 Equity, Charles W. Weiskettle, Complainant, vs. Mamie Weiskettle, and/or the heirs, known and unknown of the said Mamie Weiskettle, and/or the personal representatives, known or unknown of Mamie Weiskettle, Respondents.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a sale in lieu of partition of certain property in Allegany County, Maryland, which is more particularly described in said proceedings, and for the division of the proceeds thereof among the persons entitled thereto.

The bill states that Charles Weiskettle, late of Allegany County, Maryland, died, seized and possessed of certain property located on the northerly side of Independence Street, in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, which is more particularly described in a deed to the said Charles Weiskettle, from Rachael Beall dated July 22, 1885, and recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, in Liber No. 62, folio 238.

The said Charles Weiskettle departed this life in 1915, leaving a Last Will and Testament recorded in Wills Liber K, folio 421, among the Wills Records of Allegany County, Maryland; that under the terms of this will, and a certain conveyance from Samuel G. Weiskettle et al to Charles W. Keiskettle, dated January 11, 1937, and recorded in Liber 177, folio 33, among the aforesaid Land Records, the title to the said property has become vested in the parties to said cause of action, as tenants in common; that the said property cannot be divided among those having title thereto without material loss or injury to the property and that a sale of said real estate is for the benefit and advantage of the parties and is necessary in order that the proceeds of sale may be divided among the parties.

That the said Charles W. Weiskettle, the Complainant therein, is an adult resident of Allegany County, Maryland, although temporarily residing without the said State, and that the said Mamie Weiskettle, if living, is believed to be a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address was in the State of Ohio; and that whether or not the said Mamie Weiskettle is living or dead is unknown to the Complainant; and that the marital status and heirs or personal representatives of the said Mamie Weiskettle are unknown, and the present address of such unknown heirs is likewise unknown.

The bill prays for the appointment of a Trustee to make sale of said property under the direction of the Court.

It is thereupon this 17th. day of January, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, that the Complainant, Charles W. Weiskettle, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for 4 successive weeks before the 18th. day of February, 1947, give notice to the said non-residents and/or unknown Respondents of the object and substance of this bill, warning her, or them, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 6th. day of March, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Clerk.

Lauritz Melchior Will Be Guest On Voorhees Program

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—When Laur- Melchior of the opera makes his heduled guest appearance in the n Voorhees concert on NBC Mon- y night at 9, that will be the first ne for him in the program. Being at he specialized in that type music, the broadcast will be all- agnerian.

While this may be his first in this ogram, it certainly is not as far other radio is concerned. He's one stints both in his qualification singer but also as aide to come- ans. He sings tenor.

That Broadway Talks Back to its ritic series of MBC will wind up ith the 10:30 program. Could be here is a running out of new plays o bring up. Anyway the finale will o into "Little A."

Last week ABC said it was to have a new quiz at 3:45. It didn't, without any reason given why. This week it is to have the same quiz, that is it has scheduled the show for a start at 3:45, of course always with the radio possibility that there may be another change. Anyway, the quiz is to take the form of what someone likes to call a "Hollywood studio tour." In other words, the queries will deal with the movies and things. Cal York is to run it.

The Goodman-Borge show of NBC at 9:30 is to borrow the talent of Life of Riley Bendix for its guesting spot.

Charles Boyer and Oliva deHavilland are to make a radio team for acting in the Radio Theater of CBS at 9. They will do "Cluny Brown," story of a lady plumber in London.

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

A Difference in Approach

John Crosby

The National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System operate under entirely different philosophies, which are nowhere better illustrated than in a comparison of their agricultural programs. NBC's "National Farm and Home Hour" and CBS's "Country Journal" cover the same side of the street but they're widely different in approach and technique.

The NBC program is one of the oldest on the air. It just celebrated its 18th birthday, which means it was inaugurated back in the days when the broadcasters did a good deal of their own thinking. Today, it is fat with age and prestige, sponsored, corny as an Iowa field, and appears to treat farmers as if they were still a collection of Silas Browns.

The "Farm and Home Hour," (NBC, 1 p. m. EST Saturdays) which isn't an hour but a half hour, employs the services of an orchestra called the Homesteaders, whose repertoire largely consists of Sousa's marches and "Your Land and My Land." These are bellowed forth with great good nature and unquestioned sincerity. You're also likely to hear the Farm and Home Quartet render "When It's Springtime in the Rockies" just as you'd imagine a group with that name would sing. There is a vast heartiness about the whole program. "Oh, what a beeyoootiful day it is here in Chicago," their Chicago man is likely to say when the program switches out there for the market reports. "What a beyootiful day this has been."

Between the music and the "beeyooutiful day" business, considerable practical information is imparted. The sugar beet situation or the Mid-West grain prospects will be discussed by a representative of the Department of Agriculture, which assists in the program. NBC then jumps around the network, picking up agricultural experts who discuss new poultry diseases and their cure or some similar subject. The program winds up with the market reports in that curious prose which, I suppose, means something to farmers. ("Hog prices are still under pressure. In New Orleans cotton futures bulged. Grain ran into profit-taking. The weekend cattle market was largely a clean-up affair.")

CBS' "Country Journal" (2:30 p. m. EST Saturdays) is a far brisker affair and treats the farmer as if he were an intelligent specialist in a risky and difficult business, which as a matter of fact, he is. CBS dispenses with the orchestra, the quartet and the heartiness in favor of about five times as much information.

The program opens with highlights from the market reports and moves to some spot near a farm community where a CBS man has picked up some new dope on farming. Recently, Don Lerch, editor of the "Journal," was in New Orleans quizzing Dr. Julian Miller, a Southern expert, on the prospects for large-scale Southern planting of okra. Okra is rich in edible oils, a commodity which the nation needs as badly as the South needs a new crop. To my untutored ear, it sounded like useful information, though it may be old hat to the farmers.

"Country Journal" also stops in briefly at poultry shows or state fairs to pick up the local gossip. Mary Burnham, home editor, passes along useful chitchat to housewives on proper use of herbs and how to grow them or some such thing and usually a government expert is around to give the farmer a few hints on how to make more money out of his woodlot.

In other words, CBS sticks to the point, which is wider distribution of information; NBC seems committed to the policy that a radio program must provide some entertainment. I don't know which one the farmers prefer, but, if I were one, I'd take CBS and get my music elsewhere. There's plenty of it on the air. Both programs provide an admirable public service. They are directed primarily at rural listeners but, for some reason, both get heavy mail from city dwellers. Nostalgia, I guess.

Lauritz Melchior Will Be Guest On Voorhees Program

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—When Laur- Melchior of the opera makes his heduled guest appearance in the n Voorhees concert on NBC Mon- y night at 9, that will be the first ne for him in the program. Being at he specialized in that type music, the broadcast will be all- agnerian.

While this may be his first in this ogram, it certainly is not as far other radio is concerned. He's one stints both in his qualification singer but also as aide to come- ans. He sings tenor.

That Broadway Talks Back to its itic series of MBC will wind up ith the 10:30 program. Could be here is a running out of new plays o bring up. Anyway the finale will go into "Little A."

Last week ABC said it was to have a new quiz at 3:45. It didn't, without any reason given why. This week it is to have the same quiz, that is it has scheduled the show for a start at 3:45, of course always with the radio possibility that there may be another change. Anyway, the quiz is to take the form of what someone likes to call a "Hollywood studio tour." In other words, the queries will deal with the movies and things. Cal York is to run it.

The Goodman-Borge show of NBC at 9:30 is to borrow the talent of Life of Riley Bendix for its guesting spot.

Charles Boyer and Oliva deHavilland are to make a radio team for acting in the Radio Theater of CBS at 9. They will do "Cluny Brown," story of a lady plumber in London.

Four Dead, Two Wounded As Man Runs Amok With Shot-Gun Near Montrose

Witnesses Describe Murder And Suicide

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Jan. 26—Four persons were killed and two wounded late last night when a one-armed, drink crazed lumberman ran amok with a 12-gauge single-barrel shotgun, following an argument with his landlord on a farm in an isolated section of Randolph county, near Montrose, W. Va., according to state and county authorities.

The victims are:

Joseph Wilson McManigle, 68, farmer, Montrose, W. Va.

Dora Hammons McManigle, 40, his wife.

Anna Isner McCray, 25, wife of the alleged killer.

Walter McCray, 35, the alleged slayer.

Wounded are:

Troy Sneed, 18-year-old nephew of the McManigles.

Miss Louella Sneed, 22, his sister.

According to State Police Capt. James F. Fillinger and Randolph County State's Attorney Stanley Bosworth, Troy Sneed and his sister Louella Sneed related an account of the tragedy. An investigation is continuing, State Police at Elkins declared.

Ordered To Leave

The witnesses said that McCray, who worked with young Sneed at a lumber works was seen in a Montrose beer parlor about 9 p. m. Saturday, drinking heavily. When he returned to the McManigle farm about an hour later, where he lived, McManigle ordered him to leave.

McCray left the house at about 10 p. m., authorities were told, taking with him his suit case and a single-barreled, single-shot, 12-guage shot gun.

Fired Through Window

A short time later, Capt. Fillinger said he was told, McCray came back, and from outside the house, fired through the window, fatally wounding McManigle through the head as he sat in the living room. He then fired at, and hit Mrs. McManigle in the right arm and chest, killing her, as she stood in the doorway between the living room and kitchen.

Pellets from the charge hit the Sneed girl in the hand and she fell pretending she was dead.

Authorities say McCray then called his wife and shot her through the head as she stepped through the door of the front porch.

McCray called for Sneed next, the police continued, but the youth went out the back door and started running. McCray dropped him with a charge in the hip, and he lay where he fell all night, he told officers. Sneed was badly, but not critically wounded and suffered from exposure.

Blew His Heart Out

McCray is then believed to have turned the gun on himself and "blew his heart out," as he was found dead in the front yard of the house, with the gun beside him.

Prosecutor Bosworth said the Sneed girl hid in the house all night, afraid to go out. She covered her face with her hand and pretended to be dead, and later crawled under a mattress until day-break.

She told authorities she was terror-stricken, but as soon as it was daylight, she left the house by the back door and went across fields and notified neighbors. Police described the section as being isolated, very sparsely settled, and no telephones nearby. Neighbors drove to Elkins and notified police at 9:10 a. m. and an investigation was started.

Sheriff Virgil Hamrick, the state's attorney, Dr. P. L. Gray county coroner, and a detachment of West Virginia State Police from Elkins and nearby points participated in the investigation. The bodies were found as described, and young Sneed was found a short distance from the house. He was suffering from his wounds as well as from exposure from lying on the ground all night. Both he and his sister were in Memorial General Hospital at Elkins last night, but their conditions were reported "satisfactory." The girl is not seriously hurt, but was said to be suffering from shock.

Came From Parkersburg

Authorities say that McCray and his wife came to Montrose about three months ago from Parkersburg, W. Va. They could find no apparent reason why the McCrays had come to the McManigle farm to live as they were not related in any way.

Police said they know of no other trouble between McCray and McManigle, and they do not know where or when McCray lost his left arm.

The McManigles formerly lived at Beverly, W. Va., but moved to the "Old Baker" farm about two miles from Montrose on the Salt Lick Road about a year ago.

Young Sneed and his sister had lived with the McManigles since their mother died some time ago. Their father, Lish Sneed, is said to reside near Elkins.

The bodies of the victims were removed to the Runner Funeral Home at Elkins.

4-H Clubs To Begin Hog Raising Project

Allegany County 4-H Club boys are going to see that the hog production in this area increases during 1947, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county agent in charge of boys' club activities. Boys may sign up for participation in the program until the end of February. Swine breeding is a major objective this year in this county and opens up a new field of money-making and farm education, Steger said. A similar program started year before last in Garrett County resulted in 90 4-H boys entering hogs in the 1946 show in that county.

Next fall there will be a 4-H Fat Hog Show and Sales Day at the Cumberland Stockyards when the boys will offer their hogs for regular auction in the sales pit. Swine must be purchased by the boys as soon as possible. Complete information is available at the county agent's office in the Court House.

NEW EQUIPMENT—Mrs. Jennie Graham, of the Cumberland Health Department office staff, is shown above demonstrating the new fluoroscope, purchased recently to aid in clinical tuberculosis examinations and installed last week in the basement of City Hall. The fluoroscope and a new X-ray machine were purchased by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association with funds from the sale of Christmas seals. Dr. I. B. Lyon, of the staff of the state sanitorium at Sabillasville, who conducts chest clinics here each month, and Dr. Virginia G. Harris, pediatric consultant for the State Department of Health, will use the fluoroscope in connection with their clinics in Cumberland.

Court To Pass More Sentences At Session Today

Trial Of West Set For April Term

Several prisoners and traversers, who entered pleas of guilty or were convicted during the January term of Circuit Court are scheduled to be sentenced today, according to Sheriff Edward R. Muir. Six prisoners were sentenced Friday and have already been removed and have started their terms. Sixteen remain to be sentenced.

A number of civil cases and civil appeals are scheduled for this week in Court it was stated, and it is hoped the docket can be cleared within the next few days.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said Saturday that the trial of Ronald J. West, 30-year-old Hagerstown business man, indicted last November by the Washington County grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to rape, will be postponed until the April term of Circuit Court here.

The trial was removed to this county on a charge of venue, and West was to be tried during the January term here, but State's Attorney Harris explained that West's counsel, Kenneth McLaughlin, was elected to the State Senate in the November balloting and is now attending the sessions of the General Assembly in Annapolis. For that reason, the trial has been postponed.

Found In Hospital

West, prominent in Hagerstown business circles, was arrested last August 6, three days after police there found the girl in Washington County Hospital, under treatment for severe bruises and scratches.

Detective Sergeant Wayne Sellman, of Hagerstown, said the girl, 20 years old, told him she was bitten by West's dog when she resisted his advances in an automobile at night last August near the Hagerstown city limits.

Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish ordered the trial moved to Cumberland on motion of defense counsel, who contended an impartial trial was impossible in Washington county.

$50,000 Suit Settled

Attorneys have reached a settlement in the $50,000 damage action filed against a Cumberland store by a Ridgeley, W. Va., man whose son was badly burned more than two years ago when his cowboy suit was ignited. Details of the settlement were not divulged, but it was reported the sum involved was "in excess of $15,000."

The suit, one of several which have been pending in the courts, resulting from similar mishaps in the Cumberland area in recent years, was docketed early last year in Circuit Court.

Israel Edmond Detrick, Ridgeley, filed the action against Louis P. Lutz and his wife, Mrs. Ida Lutz, trading as Lou's Store, 10 Baltimore street, after his son, James Detrick, 8, was badly burned December 26, 1944.

Detrick, represented by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., said the cowboy suit was bought at the store on December 23, 1944, as a Christmas gift for the child. Three days later, while coasting near his home, the child sat on his sled about five feet from a bon fire, to get warm, and sparks flew out and ignited the pants of the play suit.

The father and other neighbors rushed to the lad and took him to Memorial Hospital, where it was found he had suffered severe burns about the legs. He is still hospitalized and has been permanently injured, it was testified last month in court, when several physicians were summoned to describe his injuries and the costs of medical care.

Costs Nearly $10,000

One physician said that for several months after the mishap, it was feared the child would die, and "only splendid nursing" saved his life. The Memorial Hospital bill amounted to $2,616.50, two doctors

Search Continues For Men Who Cut Way From Jail

Local Pair Included In Frederick Break

State Police late last night said no trace has been found of two Cumberland men and two companions who broke out of the Frederick jail Saturday morning, after sawing away two bars on the detention room.

The quartet of escapees have eluded Maryland and Pennsylvania State Police and are reported to have kidnapped a Frederick cab driver and stealing a get-away car at Gettysburg, Pa. Authoritites of nearby states have been notified, and State Police last night said a general pickup has been sent out for the fugitives.

Bound and Gagged Driver

Mehrl L. Hobbs, the cab driver, was left bound and gagged in his vehicle at Gettysburg after the four men forced him to drive into Pennsylvania at gun point.

Sheriff Guy Anders said their descriptions fitted those of a quartet which sawed two bars out of a basement cellblock window and escaped from the jail sometime during the night.

Among them was Harry Ball, 34, of Frederick, returned only recently from Cambridge, Ohio, on embezzlement charges. Ohio officers reported he was discovered tunneling out of their jail while being held there for Maryland authorities.

Two of his companions were identified as Lloyd Roger Mauk, 24, and James Melvin Hite, 25, both of Cumberland, and awaiting grand jury action on charges that they stole $1,300 worth of liquor from a roadside store at nearby Ridgeville.

The fourth man was listed as John H. Billingsley, 60, of Brunswick. He faced charges of passing forged checks at Brunswick.

The jail break was not discovered until 6:30 a. m., Saturday when Turnkey Vernon L. Roderick found the two bars sawed off the window.

The men were not confined to cells, but had the run of a detention room along with eight or ten other prisoners. The others did not attempt to escape.

Hobbs turned up at Gettysburg about 3:25 a. m., his wrists still bound with a rope, and told this story to Policeman Kenneth Tawney:

Four men got into his taxicab at Frederick about 2 a. m., and said they wanted to go to Lewistown, Md., about 15 miles north. Five miles outside Frederick, one of them pointed a gun at him and forced him into the back seat. Another man took the wheel and drove on north to Gettysburg.

Escape in Get-away Car

They stopped the cab in back of the Gettysburg Furniture Company, tied him with rope around his wrists

TWO PERSONS HURT IN 'FREE-FOR-ALL'

Authorities reported last night that two persons were injured in what they termed a "free for all" in the Midland American Legion Club Saturday night and that one of them will be given a hearing in Midland tonight on a charge of disorderly conduct.

David Leake, 52, Midland, was treated in Allegany Hospital Saturday night for a severe cut on the head which required three stitches to close, and a man, authorities identified as Russell Jeffries, 32, Midland, was treated for a cut across the nose and then charged with disorderly conduct.

The hearing will be held at 7 p. m. before Magistrate Cullen, they added. An informed source said the stove and much of the furniture of the place was upset during the disturbance.

Chester Haines, 31, Paw Paw, W. Va., was reported in a "fair" condition last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted early yesterday morning for treatment of multiple lacerations of the scalp.

Haines, an employe of the Alexander Orchards, Spring Gap, told attaches he was injured Saturday night when he was hit over the head with a bottle.

L. F. Smith, 42, Ridgeley, W. Va., was treated in Allegany Hospital last night for two severe lacerations above the left eye. He told attaches he was injured when he fell and hit his head against a curb. Six sutures were used to close the cuts.

New Equity Suit Is Filed Against Milk Corporation

Queen City Enjoined From Disbursing Funds

A bill of complaint filed in Circuit Court last January 9, by John H. Stiffler against the Queen City Dairy, Inc., and directors holding office at that time has been withdrawn by attorneys for Stiffler, and a new suit similar to the first has been instituted.

At the request of attorneys for Stiffler, Chief Judge William A. Huster has signed a court order restraining the company, its officers and directors from distributing certain funds of the corporation as a dividend to stockholders.

The bill of complaint contends that Stiffler owns 109 shares of stock of the milk company stock, and has options to buy enough more of the firm's stock to give him a majority or controlling interest in the business.

He further contends that the corporation is indebted for certain taxes and that funds set aside to apply these taxes have been disbursed or distributed to others, in an unauthorized manner.

The bill of complaint further stipulates that there is $21,819.68 in patronage dividends unpaid in the audit for 1946, and it is these funds the Court was asked to order held until the case is settled

The suit filed last week is against the company and James E. Miltenberger, W. H. Johnson, J. William Loar, S. A. Koontz, Sr., and Clement R. Armstrong, directors. It is explained that Armstrong was elected on January 16, by stockholders to succeed Clarence U. Llewellyn. In the suit which was dismissed, Llewellyn was named as a director, but the bill specified that the alleged unauthorized distribution of funds was made without his sanction.

The new suit asks for a Court order to authorize seizure inspection and photographing books and records of the corporation and the original minute books of stockholders meetings and a correct copy of all by-laws.

Horace P. Whitworth and Thomas Lohr Richards are attorneys for Stiffler.

Divorce Decrees Signed

Divorce decrees have been signed by Chief Judge Huster as follows:

Samuel M. White, 436 Seymour street, represented by Clarence Shutter was granted a divorce from Charlotte L. White.. The couple married at Elkton, November 21, 1938, and have on child, who will remain with the mother.

Rosemary M. Stair, 347 Williams street was granted a divorce from Allen C. Stair, Hyndman, Pa. The couple married at Winchester, Va., June 24, 1940, and have one child who will remain with the mother. Harold Naughton represented Mrs. Stair.

Regina T. Gullick, represented by Morris Baron, was granted a divorce from Robert R. Gulick and awarded $20 per week alimony and the custody of four minor children.

A bill of complaint was filed by Mildred O. Minter, through her attorney, William L. Wilson, Jr., against Stuart R. Minter. The suit was not contested.

WOODSON ADDRESSES TOWNSEND RALLY HERE

Hearings will be held in Congress on Social Security legislation as soon as the tax measures are out of the way, at which time the Townsend Bill will come up, George Woodson, registered lobbyist for the Townsend plan, told approximately 100 Townsend Club members at a monthly rally held in the Queen City Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Woodson stated that the Townsend Bill, HR-16, was introduced on the opening day of the 80th Congress, which is the same bill as introduced in 1946. The bill, Woodson says, provides for a tax of three per cent on gross income on all income except the first $1200 per year. He added that the bill provides that money derived from the three per cent tax is to be prorated among all qualified applicants.

According to Woodson those who would be qualified to participate are those 60 years of age or over, widows with dependent children under 18 and all physically handicapped persons.

Mrs. Mary Ethel Rose, state representative of the Townsend Plan for Maryland and West Virginia, presided. Mrs. Rose announced that a meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at Ellerslie in the basement of the Evangelical church at which Woodson will be the speaker.

Offers To Adopt Collins Children Are Received By Local Police

Offers to adopt the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collins, who were found alone, hungry and cold, by City Police in their one room apartment on Thomas street Friday night, as well as assistance in the way of food and clothing, have been received to by Detective Lieut. Emmett Flynn, since the story of their plight was published in the NEWS Saturday morning.

Ralph Collins, father of the children, appeared at the Associated Charities office Saturday morning and was informed that arrangements had been made to give him a hearing in Juvenile Court Wednesday.

Miss Jeanette Bonig, director of the Associated Charities office, said food has been supplied for the children until Wednesday and that a neighbor woman has consented to look after them until the court disposes of the case.

Flynn says he has received about 10 calls from persons here who want to help the children. One woman, who lives alone, is eager to adopt Carolyn, 12, and give her a good home. Other offers, all coming from substantial citizens, Flynn said, want to adopt one or more of the children. Several other persons offered to keep the children, Carolyn, Edward Raymond, 10, and Roy, 3, until the case is disposed off and still others offered to give food and clothing. Detective Flynn said last night the children are well supplied with food and that a neighbor is taking care of them for the present.

Flynn said he intended to book Collins for contributing to the delinquency of minor children following an interview with Miss Boning Saturday, but was called out on another case and was not present when Collins appeared. However, the detective is making all arrangements for the hearing Wednesday.

According to Miss Bonig members of the Collins family are not strangers to the Associated Charties office, as there is a large file in the office, dating back to 1930, on various scrapes, diseases, wants and other troubles of the family.

Miss Bonig says the records show the family has been in almost constant trouble for years and have been perennial recipients of charity in the form of food and medicine. Entries made from time to time show that the children attended school periodically, made trips to the office to obtain clothing, and needed the attention of physicians for various ailments and disorders.

At one time the Associated Charities office noted that the father was eating out fairly steadily — going to the home of a relative for most of his meals. No remark was inscribed as to how the family was faring at that particular time but the inference was fairly plain that other members weren't getting much to eat while the father was eating with his relatives.

WILL SPEAK HERE—Announcement was made last night by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, that Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, majority floor leader in the House of Representatives, will be the speaker at the annual Lincoln Day dinner which will be held Monday night, February 10, in the recreation hall of Centre Street Methodist Church.

GOP Majority Floor Leader Coming Here For Lincoln Address

Charles A. Halleck To Speak At Dinner

Arrangements for the annual Lincoln Day dinner to be held here Monday night, February 10, at the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall, are well underway, the Republican State Central Committee, under whose sponsorship the affair will be held, Chairman Paul M. Fletcher announced last night.

The event will bring to Cumberland Majority Floor Leader Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, one of the highest personnages in Republican ranks ever to be secured to address a Cumberland audience, and the first high ranking Republican Representative since Joseph Martin, then minority floor leader, and now Speaker of the House, who addressed the Women's Republican Club on the occasion of its anniversary at the Shrine Club in 1943.

Beall Obtained Speaker

Rep. J. Glenn Beall is solely responsible for securing Floor Leader Halleck at a time when his schedule of activities is the heaviest, and the Republicans of Allegany County feel greatly indebted to Rep. Beall. Mr. Halleck, when approached by Rep. Beall, was already scheduled to speak in Chicago at a Lincoln Day dinner on Tuesday, February 11, and in Indianapolis, Indiana, his home state, on Lincoln's birthday, February 12. Despite this, Mr. Halleck consented to add the Cumberland engagement to his schedule, providing a date could be arranged that would not interfere with his previous commitments, and for that reason the Lincoln Day dinner here was scheduled for Monday, February 10, two days in advance of the Great Emancipator's birthday date.

Floor Leader Halleck, Renneslaer, Ind., was born in Jasper county, Indiana, August 22, 1900, and has resided there all his life. He attended grade and high schools in Rennselear; was graduated from Indiana University with an A.B. degree in 1922 and with an LL B. degree in 1924. He was elected a member of Phi Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Phi. Mr. Halleck served in World War I, and is a member of the American Legion.

Mr. Halleck, who married Blanche White, Indianapolis, was elected Prosecuting Attorney of the Jasper-Newton Circuit in 1924, and was re-elected to this position four times. He was elected Representative to the 74th Congress, and to each succeeding Congress, since, from the Second Congressional District of Indiana.

Fletcher Will Preside

Mr. Halleck was elected to the post of Majority Leader in the House of Representatives when the Republican took control of the 80th Congress, which convened January 3, this year. Prior to that he served on the Rules committee and the Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee. He served from December 8, 1943, until January, 1947, as chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

He is the father of two children (twins), Charles W. and Patricia.

A heavy demand for tickets to the Lincoln Day dinner here is anticipated by the committee, of which Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis is chairman. Mr. Lewis stated last night that reservations for tickets would be received immediately and that they would be sold in the order of requests, but stressed the fact that no tickets would be held back to accommodate those who might delay making reservations. He said he expected the tickets would be disposed of within a very few days after they are made available this week. Request for tickets may be made by calling 1020-M.

The program in connection with the dinner will be presided over by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, but no extensive program is contemplated, the greater portion of it being reserved for the address by Floor Leader Halleck.

Somerset Buses Fail To Operate

Drivers, Mechanics Strike For Increase

There was no bus service between Cumberland and Somerset, Pa., yesterday, and there probably won't be any today, it was indicated, as 31 drivers and mechanics of the Somerset Bus Company, Somerset, Pa., struck following a breakdown in negotiations for a 10 percent wage increase.

The company operates 24 buses between Pittsburgh, Johnstown, and Somerset, Pa., and Grantsville and Cumberland.

Six round trips are made from Somerset to Cumberland daily, with the local terminal at the Union Bus Station on South George street.

Somerset buses are scheduled to arrive in Cumberland at 6:25 and 10:25 a. m., 12:55, 2:55, 6:10 and 10:25 p. m. They depart at 7:30 and 10:30 a. m., 1:55, 3:30, 6:45 and 11:30 p. m.

It was reported last night that representatives of the United States Conciliation and the State Board of Mediation of Pennsylvania are in Somerset making an effort to end the work stoppage and have service resumed.

Vets At Celanese Will Benefit By Recent Ruling

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last night that a number of veterans here will benefit by a recent arbitration ruling granting former servicemen the right to take promotions they would have had if they had remained at the Amcelle plant and not entered service.

The veterans have been placed on the job they would have been entitled to by seniority and the company has agreed to pay these veterans back pay at the top rate the promotion paid from the date they resumed work after completing military service, according to William Boyd Coleman, union president.

Coleman said 96 veterans made applications for promotions and that 48 of that number actually took the promotions and are eligible for back pay.

Union officials explained as a typical case that a helper may have been promoted to a machinist while a veteran was away from the plant. When the GI returned, he found someone with less seniority holding a higher paid job. The arbitrator, Coleman explained, ruled that any veteran who was denied promotion because of his military service should have the right to such promotion.

The amount of back pay, he added, will depend upon the difference in ratings and the time involved. In the case of helper-machinist, the differential would be 27 cents an hour, he added.

Will Collect Paper

Paper will be collected today in LaVale, Bowman's Addition, Potomac Park, Bowling Green, Bedford Road from Nave's Crossroads to State Line and Baltimore Pike to Miller's Service Station.

Tuesday the collection will be made on West Side and on Wednesday paper will be collected east of Wills Creek and north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue.

Thursday the area between Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road will be covered and Friday collections will be made south of Oldtown Road.

The Kelly local also gave membership approval to a share-the-work plan in the mechanical division, approved proposed amendments to the union's contract, and appointed a committee to conduct a referendum on a proposed building, strike and defense fund.

DIVISION 7—Raymond C. Burkhart, 11-B, 11-K, 12-A, 12-B, 13, 14, 16 and 17, mechanical departments.

Earl Johnson, union president, said the membership agreed to a "share-the-work" plan in the mechanical division which had been agreed upon by the negotiation committee and the company.

The members also approved proposed amendments to be presented to the company for inclusion in the 1946-7 contract.

Plan Assessment Vote

The working agreement is valid until July 1 but may be amended at any time by mutual agreement between the company and the local, union officials said.

F. T. Grimes, C. H. Sampson and Daniel H. Ford were named as a committee to conduct a referendum vote on a building strike, and derense fund.

Johnson said ballots will be mailed to all members in the near future and that ballot boxes will be placed at the plant gate for all three shifts on February 4.

Union officials disclosed that the union has been considering a building for the local for some time.

The "Big Four" of rubber, which traditionally sets the wage pattern for the rubber industry, will begin wage negotiations with the URCLPWA today in Chicago. Union officials said the original wage demand was for a 26 cent hourly increase.

Bad Check Artist Fleeces Local Grocer Of $56.60

At least one bad check artist, perhaps more, are preying on local merchants again, police said over the weekend, when the manager of the Greene Street Grocery became suspicious after he cashed a check for $56.50 for a well-dressed stranger around closing time Saturday, and called police.

According to police the grocery manager said he cashed what appeared to be a perfectly safe check with a recognized check protector for the stranger about 5:45 p. m. Saturday, just before he closed for the day. He said he got to thinking about the check and called police.

The check was signed by R. A. Klein, as export manager for the Maryland Motor Lines, 904 Glenwood street, made out to William Chuita, who endorsed the check in pencil and gave the grocer a non-existent address on Memorial avenue. The motor firm advised police that they do not have any employe by the name of Klein.

Had Four Checks Stamped

It was noted that the amount of the check had been stamped on by the stamp guard of the Cosgrove Cycle and Tire Company, North Centre street.

Detective Lieut. R. Emmett Flynn called the Cosgrove firm and an office girl reported that a well-dressed man, "who was so hoarse with a cold he could hardly talk", walked into the office Saturday at 4:10 p. m. and asked her to stamp his check with the firms check guard stating "the ribbon has gone bad on my check protector".

Flynn said the girl told him she called attention to the man to the fact that the firm's check guard had the name of the company on it but the stranger said "Oh, that will be all right; I'll just scratch out that part—just so long as the amount is stamped on—that's what I'm concerned with".

The girl told Flynn she then stamped four checks for the man, each for $56.50—making a total of $226. The stranger then signed the checks, using the name of Klein.

So far only one of the checks has shown up but Flynn and Assistant Chief of Police Treiber are fairly

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Jan. 26—Four persons were killed and two wounded late last night when a one-armed, drink crazed lumberman ran amok with a 12-gauge single-barrel shotgun, following an argument with his landlord on a farm in an isolated section of Randolph county, near Montrose, W. Va., according to state and county authorities.

The victims are:

Joseph Wilson McManigle, 68, farmer, Montrose, W. Va.

Dora Hammons McManigle, 40, his wife.

Anna Isner McCray, 25, wife of the alleged killer.

Walter McCray, 35, the alleged slayer.

Wounded are:

Troy Sneed, 18-year-old nephew of the McManigles.

Miss Louella Sneed, 22, his sister.

According to State Police Capt. James F. Pillinger and Randolph County State's Attorney Stanley Bosworth, Troy Sneed and his sister Louella Sneed related an account of the tragedy. An investigation is continuing, State Police at Elkins declared.

Ordered To Leave

The witnesses said that McCray, who worked with young Sneed at a lumber works was seen in a Montrose beer parlor about 9 p. m. Saturday, drinking heavily. When he returned to the McManigle farm about an hour later, where he lived, McManigle ordered him to leave.

McCray left the house at about 10 p. m., authorities were told, taking with him his suit case and a single-barreled, single-shot, 12-guage shot gun.

Fired Through Window

A short time later, Capt. Fillinger said he was told, McCray came back, and from outside the house, fired through the window, fatally wounding McManigle through the head as he sat in the living room. He then fired at, and hit Mrs. McManigle in the right arm and chest, killing her, as she stood in the doorway between the living room and kitchen.

Pellets from the charge hit the Sneed girl in the hand and she fell pretending she was dead.

Authorities say McCray then called his wife and shot her through the head as she stepped through the door of the front porch.

McCray called for Sneed next, the police continued, but the youth went out the back door and started running. McCray dropped him with a charge in the hip, and he lay where he fell all night, he told officers. Sneed was badly, but not critically wounded and suffered from exposure.

Blew His Heart Out

McCray is then believed to have turned the gun on himself and "blew his heart out," as he was found dead in the front yard of the house, with the gun beside him.

Prosecutor Bosworth said the Sneed girl hid in the house all night, afraid to go out. She covered her face with her hand and pretended to be dead, and later crawled under a mattress until day-break.

She told authorities she was terror-stricken, but as soon as it was daylight, she left the house by the back door and went across fields and notified neighbors. Police described the section as being isolated, very sparsely settled, and no telephones nearby. Neighbors drove to Elkins and notified police at 9:10 a. m. and an investigation was started.

Sheriff Virgil Hamrick, the state's attorney, Dr. P. L. Gray county coroner, and a detachment of West Virginia State Police from Elkins and nearby points participated in the investigation. The bodies were found as described, and young Sneed was found a short distance from the house. He was suffering from his wounds as well as from exposure from lying on the ground all night. Both he and his sister were in Memorial General Hospital at Elkins last night, but their conditions were reported "satisfactory." The girl is not seriously hurt, but was said to be suffering from shock.

Came From Parkersburg

Authorities say that McCray and his wife came to Montrose about three months ago from Parkersburg, W. Va. They could find no apparent reason why the McCrays had come to the McManigle farm to live as they were not related in any way.

Police said they know of no other trouble between McCray and McManigle, and they do not know where or when McCray lost his left arm.

The McManigles formerly lived at Beverly, W. Va., but moved to the "Old Baker" farm about two miles from Montrose on the Salt Lick Road about a year ago.

Young Sneed and his sister had lived with the McManigles since their mother died some time ago. Their father, Lish Sneed, is said to reside near Elkins.

The bodies of the victims were removed to the Runner Funeral Home at Elkins.

4-H Clubs To Begin Hog Raising Project

Allegany County 4-H Club boys are going to see that the hog production in this area increases during 1947, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county agent in charge of boys' club activities. Boys may sign up for participation in the program until the end of February. Swine breeding is a major objective this year in this county and opens up a new field of money-making and farm education, Steger said. A similar program started year before last in Garrett County resulted in 90 4-H boys entering hogs in the 1946 show in that county.

Next fall there will be a 4-H Fat Hog Show and Sales Day at the Cumberland Stockyards when the boys will offer their hogs for regular auction in the sales pit. Swine must be purchased by the boys as soon as possible. Complete information is available at the county agent's office in the Court House.

NEW EQUIPMENT—Mrs. Jennie Graham, of the Cumberland Health Department office staff, is shown above demonstrating the new fluoroscope, purchased recently to aid in clinical tuberculosis examinations and installed last week in the basement of City Hall. The fluoroscope and a new X-ray machine were purchased by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association with funds from the sale of Christmas seals. Dr. I. B. Lyon, of the staff of the state sanitorium at Sabillasville, who conducts chest clinics here each month, and Dr. Virginia G. Harris, pediatric consultant for the State Department of Health, will use the fluoroscope in connection with their clinics in Cumberland.

Court To Pass More Sentences At Session Today

Trial Of West Set For April Term

Several prisoners and traversers, who entered pleas of guilty or were convicted during the January term of Circuit Court are scheduled to be sentenced today, according to Sheriff Edward R. Muir. Six prisoners were sentenced Friday and have already been removed and have started their terms. Sixteen remain to be sentenced.

A number of civil cases and civil appeals are scheduled for this week in Court it was stated, and it is hoped the docket can be cleared within the next few days.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said Saturday that the trial of Ronald J. West, 30-year-old Hagerstown business man, indicted last November by the Washington County grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to rape, will be postponed until the April term of Circuit Court here.

The trial was removed to this county on a charge of venue, and West was to be tried during the January term here, but State's Attorney Harris explained that West's counsel, Kenneth McLaughlin, was elected to the State Senate in the November balloting and is now attending the sessions of the General Assembly in Annapolis. For that reason, the trial has been postponed.

Found In Hospital

West, prominent in Hagerstown business circles, was arrested last August 6, three days after police there found the girl in Washington County Hospital, under treatment for severe bruises and scratches.

Detective Sergeant Wayne Sellman, of Hagerstown, said the girl, 20 years old, told him she was bitten by West's dog when she resisted his advances in an automobile at night last August near the Hagerstown city limits.

Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish ordered the trial moved to Cumberland on motion of defense counsel, who contended an impartial trial was impossible in Washington county.

$50,000 Suit Settled

Attorneys have reached a settlement in the $50,000 damage action filed against a Cumberland store by a Ridgeley, W. Va., man whose son was badly burned more than two years ago when his cowboy suit was ignited. Details of the settlement were not divulged, but it was reported the sum involved was "in excess of $15,000."

The suit, one of several which have been pending in the courts, resulting from similar mishaps in the Cumberland area in recent years, was docketed early last year in Circuit Court.

Israel Edmond Detrick, Ridgeley, filed the action against Louis P. Lutz and his wife, Mrs. Ida Lutz, trading as Lou's Store, 10 Baltimore street, after his son, James Detrick, 8, was badly burned December 26, 1944.

Detrick, represented by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., said the cowboy suit was bought at the store on December 23, 1944, as a Christmas gift for the child. Three days later, while coasting near his home, the child sat on his sled about five feet from a bon fire, to get warm, and sparks flew out and ignited the pants of the play suit.

The father and other neighbors rushed to the lad and took him to Memorial Hospital, where it was found he had suffered severe burns about the legs. He is still hospitalized and has been permanently injured, it was testified last month in court, when several physicians were summoned to describe his injuries and the costs of medical care.

Costs Nearly $10,000

One physician said that for several months after the mishap, it was feared the child would die, and "only splendid nursing" saved his life. The Memorial Hospital bill amounted to $2,616.50, two doctors

Search Continues For Men Who Cut Way From Jail

Local Pair Included In Frederick Break

State Police late last night said no trace has been found of two Cumberland men and two companions who broke out of the Frederick jail Saturday morning, after sawing away two bars on the detention room.

The quartet of escapees have eluded Maryland and Pennsylvania State Police and are reported to have kidnapped a Frederick cab driver and stealing a get-away car at Gettysburg, Pa. Authoritites of nearby states have been notified, and State Police last night said a general pickup has been sent out for the fugitives.

Bound and Gagged Driver

Mehrl L. Hobbs, the cab driver, was left bound and gagged in his vehicle at Gettysburg after the four men forced him to drive into Pennsylvania at gun point.

Sheriff Guy Anders said their descriptions fitted those of a quartet which sawed two bars out of a basement cellblock window and escaped from the jail sometime during the night.

Among them was Harry Ball, 34, of Frederick, returned only recently from Cambridge, Ohio, on embezzlement charges. Ohio officers reported he was discovered tunneling out of their jail while being held there for Maryland authorities.

Two of his companions were identified as Lloyd Roger Mauk, 24, and James Melvin Hite, 25, both of Cumberland, and awaiting grand jury action on charges that they stole $1,300 worth of liquor from a roadside store at nearby Ridgeville.

The fourth man was listed as John H. Billingsley, 60, of Brunswick. He faced charges of passing forged checks at Brunswick.

The jail break was not discovered until 6:30 a. m., Saturday when Turnkey Vernon L. Roderick found the two bars sawed off the window.

The men were not confined to cells, but had the run of a detention room along with eight or ten other prisoners. The others did not attempt to escape.

Hobbs turned up at Gettysburg about 3:25 a. m., his wrists still bound with a rope, and told this story to Policeman Kenneth Tawney:

Four men got into his taxicab at Frederick about 2 a. m., and said they wanted to go to Lewistown, Md., about 15 miles north. Five miles outside Frederick, one of them pointed a gun at him and forced him into the back seat. Another man took the wheel and drove on north to Gettysburg.

Escape in Get-away Car

They stopped the cab in back of the Gettysburg Furniture Company, tied him with rope around his wrists

TWO PERSONS HURT IN 'FREE-FOR-ALL'

Authorities reported last night that two persons were injured in what they termed a "free for all" in the Midland American Legion Club Saturday night and that one of them will be given a hearing in Midland tonight on a charge of disorderly conduct.

David Leake, 52, Midland, was treated in Allegany Hospital Saturday night for a severe cut on the head which required three stitches to close, and a man, authorities identified as Russell Jeffries, 32, Midland, was treated for a cut across the nose and then charged with disorderly conduct.

The hearing will be held at 7 p. m. before Magistrate Cullen, they added. An informed source said the stove and much of the furniture of the place was upset during the disturbance.

Chester Haines, 31, Paw Paw, W. Va., was reported in a "fair" condition last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted early yesterday morning for treatment of multiple lacerations of the scalp.

New Equity Suit Is Filed Against Milk Corporation

Queen City Enjoined From Disbursing Funds

A bill of complaint filed in Circuit Court last January 9, by John H. Stiffler against the Queen City Dairy, Inc., and directors holding office at that time has been withdrawn by attorneys for Stiffler, and a new suit similar to the first has been instituted.

At the request of attorneys for Stiffler, Chief Judge William A. Huster has signed a court order restraining the company, its officers and directors from distributing certain funds of the corporation as a dividend to stockholders.

The bill of complaint contends that Stiffler owns 109 shares of stock of the milk company stock, and has options to buy enough more of the firm's stock to give him a majority or controlling interest in the business.

He further contends that the corporation is indebted for certain taxes and that funds set aside to apply these taxes have been disbursed or distributed to others, in an unauthorized manner.

The bill of complaint further stipulates that there is $21,819.68 in patronage dividends unpaid in the audit for 1946, and it is these funds the Court was asked to order held until the case is settled

The suit filed last week is against the company and James E. Miltenberger, W. H. Johnson, J. William Loar, S. A. Koontz, Sr., and Clement R. Armstrong, directors. It is explained that Armstrong was elected on January 16, by stockholders to succeed Clarence U. Llewellyn. In the suit which was dismissed, Llewellyn was named as a director, but the bill specified that the alleged unauthorized distribution of funds was made without his sanction.

The new suit asks for a Court order to authorize seizure inspection and photographing books and records of the corporation and the original minute books of stockholders meetings and a correct copy of all by-laws.

Horace P. Whitworth and Thomas Lohr Richards are attorneys for Stiffler.

Hearings will be held in Congress on Social Security legislation as soon as the tax measures are out of the way, at which time the Townsend Bill will come up, George Woodson, registered lobbyist for the Townsend plan, told approximately 100 Townsend Club members at a monthly rally held in the Queen City Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Woodson stated that the Townsend Bill, HR-16, was introduced on the opening day of the 80th Congress, which is the same bill as introduced in 1946. The bill, Woodson says, provides for a tax of three per cent on gross income on all income except the first $1200 per year. He added that the bill provides that money derived from the three per cent tax is to be prorated among all qualified applicants.

According to Woodson those who would be qualified to participate are those 60 years of age or over, widows with dependent children under 18 and all physically handicapped persons.

Mrs. Mary Ethel Rose, state representative of the Townsend Plan for Maryland and West Virginia, presided. Mrs. Rose announced that a meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at Ellerslie in the basement of the Evangelical church at which Woodson will be the speaker.

Offers To Adopt Collins Children Are Received By Local Police

Offers to adopt the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Collins, who were found alone, hungry and cold, by City Police in their one room apartment on Thomas street Friday night, as well as assistance in the way of food and clothing, have been received to by Detective Lieut. Emmett Flynn, since the story of their plight was published in the NEWS Saturday morning.

Ralph Collins, father of the children, appeared at the Associated Charities office Saturday morning and was informed that arrangements had been made to give him a hearing in Juvenile Court Wednesday.

Miss Jeanette Bonig, director of the Associated Charities office, said food has been supplied for the children until Wednesday and that a neighbor woman has consented to look after them until the court disposes of the case.

Flynn says he has received about 10 calls from persons here who want to help the children. One woman, who lives alone, is eager to adopt Carolyn, 12, and give her a good home. Other offers, all coming from substantial citizens, Flynn said, want to adopt one or more of the children. Several other persons offered to keep the children, Carolyn, Edward Raymond, 10, and Roy, 3, until the case is disposed off and still others offered to give food and clothing. Detective Flynn said last night the children are well supplied with food and that a neighbor is taking care of them for the present.

Flynn said he intended to book Collins for contributing to the delinquency of minor children following an interview with Miss Boning Saturday, but was called out on another case and was not present when Collins appeared. However, the detective is making all arrangements for the hearing Wednesday.

According to Miss Bonig members of the Collins family are not strangers to the Associated Charties office, as there is a large file in the office, dating back to 1930, on various scrapes, diseases, wants and other troubles of the family.

Miss Bonig says the records show the family has been in almost constant trouble for years and have been perennial recipients of charity in the form of food and medicine. Entries made from time to time show that the children attended school periodically, made trips to the office to obtain clothing, and needed the attention of physicians for various ailments and disorders.

At one time the Associated Charities office noted that the father was eating out fairly steadily — going to the home of a relative for most of his meals. No remark was inscribed as to how the family was faring at that particular time but the inference was fairly plain that other members weren't getting much to eat while the father was eating with his relatives.

WILL SPEAK HERE—Announcement was made last night by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, that Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, majority floor leader in the House of Representatives, will be the speaker at the annual Lincoln Day dinner which will be held Monday night, February 10, in the recreation hall of Centre Street Methodist Church.

GOP Majority Floor Leader Coming Here For Lincoln Address

Charles A. Halleck To Speak At Dinner

Arrangements for the annual Lincoln Day dinner to be held here Monday night, February 10, at the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall, are well underway, the Republican State Central Committee, under whose sponsorship the affair will be held, Chairman Paul M. Fletcher announced last night.

The event will bring to Cumberland Majority Floor Leader Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, one of the highest personnages in Republican ranks ever to be secured to address a Cumberland audience, and the first high ranking Republican Representative since Joseph Martin, then minority floor leader, and now Speaker of the House, who addressed the Women's Republican Club on the occasion of its anniversary at the Shrine Club in 1943.

Beall Obtained Speaker

Rep. J. Glenn Beall is solely responsible for securing Floor Leader Halleck at a time when his schedule of activities is the heaviest, and the Republicans of Allegany County feel greatly indebted to Rep. Beall. Mr. Halleck, when approached by Rep. Beall, was already scheduled to speak in Chicago at a Lincoln Day dinner on Tuesday, February 11, and in Indianapolis, Indiana, his home state, on Lincoln's birthday, February 12. Despite this, Mr. Halleck consented to add the Cumberland engagement to his schedule, providing a date could be arranged that would not interfere with his previous commitments, and for that reason the Lincoln Day dinner here was scheduled for Monday, February 10, two days in advance of the Great Emancipator's birthday date.

Floor Leader Halleck, Renneslaer, Ind., was born in Jasper county, Indiana, August 22, 1900, and has resided there all his life. He attended grade and high schools in Rennselear; was graduated from Indiana University with an A.B. degree in 1922 and with an LL B. degree in 1924. He was elected a member of Phi Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Phi. Mr. Halleck served in World War I, and is a member of the American Legion.

Mr. Halleck, who married Blanche White, Indianapolis, was elected Prosecuting Attorney of the Jasper-Newton Circuit in 1924, and was re-elected to this position four times. He was elected Representative to the 74th Congress, and to each succeeding Congress, since, from the Second Congressional District of Indiana.

Fletcher Will Preside

Mr. Halleck was elected to the post of Majority Leader in the House of Representatives when the Republican took control of the 80th Congress, which convened January 3, this year. Prior to that he served on the Rules committee and the Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee. He served from December 8, 1943, until January, 1947, as chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

He is the father of two children (twins), Charles W. and Patricia.

A heavy demand for tickets to the Lincoln Day dinner here is anticipated by the committee, of which Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis is chairman. Mr. Lewis stated last night that reservations for tickets would be received immediately and that they would be sold in the order of requests, but stressed the fact that no tickets would be held back to accommodate those who might delay making reservations. He said he expected the tickets would be disposed of within a very few days after they are made available this week. Request for tickets may be made by calling 1020-M.

The program in connection with the dinner will be presided over by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, but no extensive program is contemplated, the greater portion of it being reserved for the address by Floor Leader Halleck.

Somerset Buses Fail To Operate

Drivers, Mechanics Strike For Increase

There was no bus service between Cumberland and Somerset, Pa., yesterday, and there probably won't be any today, it was indicated, as 31 drivers and mechanics of the Somerset Bus Company, Somerset, Pa., struck following a breakdown in negotiations for a 10 percent wage increase.

The company operates 24 buses between Pittsburgh, Johnstown, and Somerset, Pa., and Grantsville and Cumberland.

Six round trips are made from Somerset to Cumberland daily, with the local terminal at the Union Bus Station on South George street.

Somerset buses are scheduled to arrive in Cumberland at 6:25 and 10:25 a. m., 12:55, 2:55, 6:10 and 10:25 p. m. They depart at 7:30 and 10:30 a. m., 1:55, 3:30, 6:45 and 11:30 p. m.

It was reported last night that representatives of the United States Conciliation and the State Board of Mediation of Pennsylvania are in Somerset making an effort to end the work stoppage and have service resumed.

Vets At Celanese Will Benefit By Recent Ruling

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last night that a number of veterans here will benefit by a recent arbitration ruling granting former servicemen the right to take promotions they would have had if they had remained at the Amcelle plant and not entered service.

The veterans have been placed on the job they would have been entitled to by seniority and the company has agreed to pay these veterans back pay at the top rate the promotion paid from the date they resumed work after completing military service, according to William Boyd Coleman, union president.

Coleman said 96 veterans made applications for promotions and that 48 of that number actually took the promotions and are eligible for back pay.

Union officials explained as a typical case that a helper may have been promoted to a machinist while a veteran was away from the plant. When the GI returned, he found someone with less seniority holding a higher paid job. The arbitrator, Coleman explained, ruled that any veteran who was denied promotion because of his military service should have the right to such promotion.

The amount of back pay, he added, will depend upon the difference in ratings and the time involved. In the case of helper-machinist, the differential would be 27 cents an hour, he added.

Will Collect Paper

Paper will be collected today in LaVale, Bowman's Addition, Potomac Park, Bowling Green, Bedford Road from Nave's Crossroads to State Line and Baltimore Pike to Miller's Service Station.

Tuesday the collection will be made on West Side and on Wednesday paper will be collected east of Wills Creek and north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue.

Thursday the area between Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road will be covered and Friday collections will be made south of Oldtown Road.

Earl Johnson, union president, said the membership agreed to a "share-the-work" plan in the mechanical division which had been agreed upon by the negotiation committee and the company.

The members also approved proposed amendments to be presented to the company for inclusion in the 1946-7 contract.

Plan Assessment Vote

The working agreement is valid until July 1 but may be amended at any time by mutual agreement between the company and the local, union officials said.

F. T. Grimes, C. H. Sampson and Daniel H. Ford were named as a committee to conduct a referendum vote on a building strike, and derense fund.

Johnson said ballots will be mailed to all members in the near future and that ballot boxes will be placed at the plant gate for all three shifts on February 4.

Union officials disclosed that the union has been considering a building for the local for some time.

The "Big Four" of rubber, which traditionally sets the wage pattern for the rubber industry, will begin wage negotiations with the URCLPWA today in Chicago. Union officials said the original wage demand was for a 26 cent hourly increase.

Bad Check Artist Fleeces Local Grocer Of $56.60

At least one bad check artist, perhaps more, are preying on local merchants again, police said over the weekend, when the manager of the Greene Street Grocery became suspicious after he cashed a check for $56.50 for a well-dressed stranger around closing time Saturday, and called police.

According to police the grocery manager said he cashed what appeared to be a perfectly safe check with a recognized check protector for the stranger about 5:45 p. m. Saturday, just before he closed for the day. He said he got to thinking about the check and called police.

The check was signed by R. A. Klein, as export manager for the Maryland Motor Lines, 904 Glenwood street, made out to William Chuita, who endorsed the check in pencil and gave the grocer a non-existent address on Memorial avenue. The motor firm advised police that they do not have any employe by the name of Klein.

Had Four Checks Stamped

It was noted that the amount of the check had been stamped on by the stamp guard of the Cosgrove Cycle and Tire Company, North Centre street.

Detective Lieut. R. Emmett Flynn called the Cosgrove firm and an office girl reported that a well-dressed man, "who was so hoarse with a cold he could hardly talk", walked into the office Saturday at 4:10 p. m. and asked her to stamp his check with the firms check guard stating "the ribbon has gone bad on my check protector".

Flynn said the girl told him she called attention to the man to the fact that the firm's check guard had the name of the company on it but the stranger said "Oh, that will be all right; I'll just scratch out that part—just so long as the amount is stamped on—that's what I'm concerned with".

The girl told Flynn she then stamped four checks for the man, each for $56.50—making a total of $226. The stranger then signed the checks, using the name of Klein.

So far only one of the checks has shown up but Flynn and Assistant Chief of Police Treiber are fairly
